KEEP OIL FIELDS SHUT DESPITE $1 PRICE OFFER

Three States Force Closing Order.

Gas Prices Go Up

The war between the big oil companies, which brought gasoline to the lowest price in many years, ended last night with the announcement of the Shell Petroleum company that it would increase the price of all grades of gasoline 3 cents a gallon today. The new prices in Shell filling stations for standard gasoline will be 11 cents a gallon instead of 8 cents, making the price to the consumer 14 cents after the 3 cent tax has been added. The price of ethyl gasoline will be raised to 14 cents, to which the 3 cent tax must be added.

The Standard Oil company of Indiana is expected to make similar increases tomorow.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Oil fields in three western states were still closed tight tonight, two of them by martial law, despite advances in the price of crude oil.

In Oklahoma, original battle front of the fight for higher prices for crude products, the shutdown was ordered continued.

In east Texas and other sections where, as in Oklahoma, bayonets prevent the flowing of the gushers it was declared the wells would remain closed.

Only Minor Wells Open.

In Kansas operators of the Ritz-Ganton pool, producing an estimated fifth of the state's output, shut all but minor wells at the order of the state public service commission.

This was the situation tonight, hours after one big oil company and two others made overtures offering to meet the demand of the governors of two states and officials of a third for $1 a barrel price. The shutdown will remain in effect, it was announced, until the $1 price is made general in all three states.

Gov. William [Alfalfa Bill] Murray, who began the war for higher crude oil prices, was advised at Memphis, where he is attending an unemployment relief conference, of the offers to meet the demand made by the three companies. One of the companies, it was said, was the Phillips Petroleum company. Gov. Murray replied crisply.

"All Must Come In."

"The military lid stays on until all major purchasers meet the price of $1 a barrel," he announced. And the "military lid" was still on tonight.

In Texas Gov. Ross Sterling issued somewhat similar orders. There would be no change in the new oil fields, he said, because of the higher prices in the crude product. And Gov. Harry H. Woodring of Kansas, intimated that the curb on oil fields in his state would stay in force until prices demanded were general.

Disturbances over the oil field lid occurred in the forested areas of east Texas. State troopers exchanged shots with a gunman motorist in a highway chase, but no one was badly hurt, and the fugitive escaped.

Incendiary Fires Stopped.

Near national guard headquarters a bundle of gasoline soaked rags was found. Yesterday two fires of incendiary origin burned two churches at Kilgore. The fires were branded as the result of "red agitation" by Brig. Gen. Jacob F. Wolters. Tomorrow the Texas railroad commission will meet at Austin to formulate a rigid proration order for the region affected.

The advance in prices brought cheer to oil men in this section, and prompted Cicero L. Murray, nephew of the governor and generalissimo of the Oklahoma shutdown, to declare belief that the $1 price would be met within a few days by many big companies other than those which have already signified defeat.

Purchasers Hold Off.

Suggestions have been made to other big companies to acquiesce in the demand of the three states for $1 oil by the Phillips Petroleum company However, the big purchasers still held off tonight, and prices in Oklahoma, particularly, remained mostly below the Murray level. Advances in central Texas and north central Texas shot upward to gains as high as 24 cents. The highest advance for Oklahoma crude oil was 24 cents.

A reflection of the gradual rise was

HINT GRAFT QUIZ JURY WILL GIVE PRAISE TO POLICE

Hints that Chicago's police department will be commended as an efficient organization, "better than New York's," emanated from the Criminal court building last night as the special grand jury which was impaneled last January to investigate charges of police corruption, met in one of its final sessions. The jury will meet again tonight.

Two witnesses only were heard. They were Acting Police Commissioner John Alcock, and Capt. David Fitzgerald of the Morgan Park station. The latter testified briefly concerning his financial condition, it was reported. Alcock remained before the jury more than an hour, and emerged in a genial mood. He intimated he had given the jury an outline on conditions in the police department which, he said, "was functioning very well." He told them, reports indicated, that more policemen were needed.

The jury retired into executive session later, directed by Foreman A. J. Farmar. According to reports, the jurors discussed the pay of Chicago policemen, and compared the personnel and the work with the New York department. The jury will be ready to report on Friday to Chief Justice McGoorty, and will say, it is reported, that Chicago's force not only is better than New York's but is better able to cope with crime, which is less prevalent here than in New York.

COHN ROBBED; FEARS BROTHER; TAKES POISON

Samuel A. Cohn, 55 years old, employed by his brother Jacob, in the latter's furniture store at 6145 South Halsted street, was robbed of $70 by a Negro gunman last evening.

Several hours later Cohn's wife, Ethel, found him in a semi-conscious condition in the living room of their home, 7730 South Winchester avenue. He had taken several poison tablets.

Police took Cohn to the Jackson Park hospital, where he was given treatment and removed from danger. He was asked why he had tried to end his life. "Because I was afraid my brother would not believe I had been robbed," he replied.

Roosevelt at Rubicon with Special Session

BULLETIN.

Albany, N. Y. Aug. 25 (Tuesday).—(Special.)—The Democratic senators at a caucus which came to a close this morning failed to take action on the prospective bill to strengthen the Hofstadter committee, now investigating the government of New York City, by giving it the additional power to grant immunity to witnesses.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Gov. Franklin Roosevelt was in conference here today with the leaders of both parties in the legislature in preparation for the opening tomorrow of an extraordinary session, which either will put him far out in front as a presidential candidate or severely complicate his political relationships.

FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT.
[(C) Associated Press Photo.]

Extraordinary sessions in the past have had a habit of playing tricks with the political futures of chief executives, but the friends of Gov. Roosevelt are confident so far he is getting the breaks.

Counters Hoover Relief Plans.

He has forced Tammany, they point out, to come to him with a plea to save its face in the immunity controversy with the Hofstadter New York investigating committee.

Tammany is insisting that if the power of the Hofstadter committee is extended to include the granting of immunity to witnesses, the committee's field of inquiry should also be extended to include upstate counties where Republicans have been accused of graft. In his message to the legislature the governor is expected to hit upon a compromise.

While trying to keep Tammany pacified to some extent, Gov. Roosevelt is planning to use the special session of the legislature to head off President Hoover's unemployment relief plans by demanding that New York take the lead among the states in giving substantial aid to those suffering from industrial conditions. The Republicans in the legislature have no alternative but to follow his lead in providing unemployment relief.

Both Senator George R. Pearon of Syracuse, Republican leader of the upper house, and Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies of the assembly announced today that it was the disposition of the Republicans to coöperate with the governor in aiding the unemployed, and that there would be no politics in their action along this line. Whether this spirit of coöperation continues will depend on conferences at which the governor is expected to present his definite relief plans.

TWO STATES MAY FORBID PLANTING OF 1932 COTTON

Baton Rouge, La., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Gov. Huey P. Long tonight issued a call for a special session of the Louisiana legislature for tomorrow night to consider passage of a statute prohibiting the planting of cotton in 1932.

His call was issued after Gov. Ross Sterling of Texas had challenged Louisiana to act first on the cotton prohibition plan.

Gov. Long said the call provides for a six day session but that he hoped to complete the work in five days.

"It's Gov. Long's baby, let him wash it first," Gov. Sterling said today in Austin. Answering this, Gov. Long wired:

"All right old boy, we're getting ready to wash the baby and dress it; it will be on your desk before the week is out."

LOOP BARBERS KEEP HAIRCUT PRICE AT 75c

Master barbers representing forty-two shops in the loop met last night in the Morrison hotel and voted to maintain a scale of 75 cents for haircuts. A few who had cut prices to 60 or 50 cents in the last week, following the lead of the north side master barbers, announced that they would go back to the old and higher scale next Monday.

According to Fred Freda, president, and A. L. Waddell, delegate of the loop organization to the central executive council, the price cutters had found that no new customers had been gained by the reductions and that they had meant such heavy net losses that some of the cut price shops were not earning their rent.

Wife Calls Stepin Fetchit Far from Comedy Husband

Blast Wrecks Flats; Debris Traps Woman

A woman was killed and seven members of her family, together with five others, were injured shortly after 11 o'clock last night when a terrific explosion leveled an old three story tenement building at 2015 Taylor street and tore out the east wall of a cottage to the west. One fireman was overcome by smoke.

The police and Coroner Bundesen investigated a report that members of two Negro families were in the building where the blast originated, but expressed themselves as satisfied that these families, comprising ten persons, had moved away two weeks ago.

Mrs. Lena Glick, 48 years old, was killed as she slept in her home. Brick from the wall and timbers from the roof were hurled down on her. Her body was recovered by firemen and by the Rev. Matthew Canning of St. Charles Borromeo Catholic church, Cypress street and Roosevelt road, who ran to the scene after hearing the explosion. He also rescued her daughter, Rebecca, 9 years old, who was buried beneath debris.

One Seriously Injured.

Only one of the injured suffered serious hurts. He is Tony Carsello, 23 years old, 423 North Carpenter street. He was found in the alley behind the wrecked building. Questioned by the police, he refused to answer, and an investigation was started to determine, if possible, whether moonshining operations had been carried on in the basement of the structure. After several hours' digging in the ruins police and firemen were satisfied there had been no still in the building.

The other injured were Meyer Glick, 53 years old; husband of the woman who was killed, and their six children, Dora, 16 years old; Selda, 13 years old; Fay, 14 years old; Arnold, 3 years old; Rebecca, 9 years old, and Diana, 21 years old; Vito De Battista, 17 years old, 934 South Damen avenue; his brother Frank; Joseph Muscato, 935 South Seeley avenue, and William Marducci, 16 years old, 2043 Taylor street.

Witnesses Describe Blast.

Passersby told the police that they heard the explosion, which was like a dull boom rather than a sharp crack, and that the walls of the old three story building seemed to fold up and fall inward. Flames instantly broke out over the whole mass of debris.

The interior and the roof of the Glick home also were blazing when the firemen arrived. They helped all the members of the family out except Solomon, an older son, who was uninjured, and little Rebecca.

Several of the nearby residents reported that the Negro families were still in the building last night, but friends of those occupants were positive they had moved and that the building that was destroyed had been boarded up.

Lay Explosion to Gas.

Assistant Fire Marshal Daniel J. Carmody and the coroner were both sure the blast had been caused by escaping gas which accumulated in the basement.

The flames were fought by 300 firemen. The crowds attracted by the blast were so large that 200 policemen were called out to handle them. Windows in the neighborhood, for a distance of two blocks, were broken. Damage was estimated at $15,000, although the age of the three story structure made its worth difficult to figure.

M'DONALDHEADS NEW MINISTRY TO SAVE NATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 24.—J. Ramsay MacDonald, son of humble Scottish parents, who rose from obscurity in a fishing village to the highest position in Great Britain, kissed the hand of King George V. today and set forth on a new battle to save his country from financial chaos.

Tonight MacDonald formed a new national government—a cabinet of coöperation to deal with the national emergency — representing all three major parties after deliberately cutting adrift from the Labor party, which fell from power today.

Personnel of New Cabinet.

Although the personnel of the new ministry is not expected to be announced until tomorrow, THE TRIBUNE is able to predict that the following will be included in a cabinet of eleven members:

Laborites—Mr. MacDonald, Philip Snowden, J. H. Thomas, and Lord Sankey.

Conservatives—Stanley Baldwin, Neville Chamberlain, Sir Samuel Hoare, former chancellor of the exchequer, and Viscount Hailsham, former lord chancellor and Tory leader in the house of lords.

Liberals—Sir Herbert Samuel, Sir Donald MacLean and the marquis of Reading.

Snowden to Keep Post.

Mr. Snowden is expected to continue as chancellor of the exchequer. Sir Herbert Samuel, who is acting as Liberal leader during the illness of David Lloyd George, is slated for secretary of home affairs. Mr. Baldwin may not take a cabinet portfolio, devoting his time instead to the duties of leader in the house of coalition.

The wiry and gray haired MacDonald, who sacrificed all personal ambition and perhaps political future, to help save England from financial ruin and restore to the United Kingdom her lost prestige, is being called a traitor in some Labor circles tonight. Elsewhere he is being hailed as "the man of the hour" and one who may emerge from the scene as one of England's greatest heroes.

Man Without a Party.

Tonight, too, MacDonald is a man "without a party." The Labor ranks have been split in twain. Some of his stanchest supporters have fled from his side because he dared to propose to cut the jobless dole and he stands practically alone.

The Daily Herald, Labor party organ, openly charges that the United States federal reserve bank caused the Labor cabinet's fall. It says: "The federal reserve informed the late government that such credits would only be granted provided specific and considerable economies were immediately made in administration in actual benefits paid under the unemployment insurance scheme."

Premier Urged to "Carry On."

Today's act in this stupendous political drama began when the prime minister tendered the Labor government's resignation to King George at Buckingham palace after being in office exactly two years two months and fifteen days.

Immediately the king urged MacDonald to "carry on" and guide the country in the most crucial hour it has faced since the Versailles treaty set the world on the road to peace.

The king and MacDonald agreed that political greed and enmities must be buried if the kingdom was to find her way out of her economic and financial difficulties and its budget deficit of $400,000,000.

Kisses King's Hand.

The day's entire story was summed up in a court circular issued at Buckingham palace. Even its phraseology was dramatic. It read:

"The Rt. Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald had an audience with the king this afternoon and tendered his resignation as prime minister and first lord of the treasury, which his majesty was graciously pleased to accept.

"The king subsequently gave a further audience to the Rt. Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald and invited him to form a national administration. The Rt. Hon. J. Ramsay MacDonald accepted his majesty's offer of the post of prime minister and kissed his hand upon the appointment."

Twice before MacDonald has risked his career for a principle. When a young man he joined the then despised cause of labor. For this he was condemned. Again during the world war his personal views caused him to oppose the conflict in which his country was engaged. He spurned a cabinet post and became a political outcast—sneered at as a renegade. Even the golf club in his home town of Lossiemouth, Scotland, scratched his name from the membership roster. And tonight he is facing expulsion from the Labor party, of which he is the head.

Smile of Tired Man.

MacDonald looked worn today. He tried to be cheerful. His smile was that of a tired man. He has been working night and day in the effort to put England's house in order and has been getting a maximum of six hours of sleep.

The surprising selection of MacDonald to resume the place as head of the government is reliably stated to have been made on a suggestion by Stanley Baldwin, the Conservative leader. It is understood that Mr. Baldwin, mentioned early this morning as MacDonald's successor, was actually offered the task of welding a new government, but nominated the outgoing Labor prime minister instead.

After Mr. MacDonald left the king this afternoon it was said he was not expected to return to the palace tonight. The transfer of the seals of office taken over by the Labor government in June, 1929, will not be made until the king has approved of the new cabinet. It is reported that King George feels the need of rest after three days of exertion and that further official business connected with the political situation will be halted temporarily. The cabinet, however, is already complete and Great Britain is now under a new régime.

A new series of conferences between harried ministers and opposition members, who have now found seats in a government which will be charged with balancing the budget and tearing away the $600,000,000 budget deficit, have been ushered in.

Political Leaders Meet King.

The activity behind the scenes began with a tri-party conference with the king at Buckingham palace this morning, lasting two hours. Besides Mr. MacDonald the king received Mr. Baldwin and Sir Herbert Samuel. Mr. MacDonald was the last to arrive.

He drove from Downing street wearing morning clothes and a derby hat and smoking a pipe. As soon as the meeting broke up a statement was issued announcing that the formation of a coalition government was under consideration, although the cabinet had not then turned in its resignation.

Mr. MacDonald hurried back to Downing street to meet with the cabinet. At this meeting the rift between the members supporting the trades unions and the cabinet chiefs, MacDonald and Philip Snowden, became an open fissure, and the cabinet "rebels" left with their faces set in anger.

"We Have Resigned."

"It is all over; we have resigned," one of the cabinet members declared.

Arthur Henderson, MacDonald's former foreign secretary, walked out declaring that he did not believe that more than five members of the outgoing cabinet would consent to serve in the coalition government.

Thereby MacDonald definitely ended the alliance between his group of theorists in socialism and the rough and ready unionists which created Great Britain's first Labor government in 1924.

Nine of MacDonald's old associates left their former leader as a result of differences over the biggest item in reducing the country's expenditures—the unemployment "dole," which is costing the government $5,000,000 per week.

Union Leaders Angry.

The gravity of the situation is shown in statements freely made this afternoon that he is finished as a Labor prime minister. The union leaders left their former chieftain angered at the thought that he was willing to tamper with unemployment benefits. They are fully prepared to take up the fight against such action not only at the forthcoming Labor union conference but on the floor of parliament when the coalition's recommendations are brought up for approval.

Open house was held at 10 Downing street early this afternoon. Conferences of both opposition parties and what is left of Mr. MacDonald's old cabinet were carried on with the crowd murmuring names familiar in other governments as the political leaders appeared.

After the cabinet's resignation had been accepted and MacDonald had renewed his conversations with Mr. Baldwin and Sir Herbert Samuel, the prime minister said:

"The crisis is solved."

Statements by MacDonald and Baldwin

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Prime Minister MacDonald issued his first public statement concerning the new British government tonight. His statement was followed by one by Stanley Baldwin, the Conservative leader, who gave the reasons why the Conservatives agreed to participate in the national government.

Mr. MacDonald's statement follows:

"The prime minister, since his appointment by his majesty this afternoon, has been in consultation with Stanley Baldwin, Sir Herbert Samuel, and Philip Snowden as to the names to be submitted to the king for inclusion as ministers in the new government. Considerable progress has been made.

"A Government of Coöperation.

"The specific object for which the new government is being formed is to deal with the national emergency that now exists. It is not to be a coalition government, in the usual sense of the term, but a government of coöperation for this one purpose. When that purpose is achieved the political parties will resume their respective positions.

"In order to correct without delay the excess of national expenditure over revenue it is anticipated that parliament will be summoned Sept. 8, when proposals will be submitted to the house for a very large reduction in expenditure and for provision, on an equitable basis, of the further funds which will be required to balance the budget.

"As the commerce and well being, not only of the British nation but of a large part of the civilized world has been built up and rests upon well founded confidence in the pound sterling, the new government will take whatever steps may be deemed by them necessary to justify the maintenance of that confidence unimpaired."

Baldwin Tells of Needs.

Mr. Baldwin said:

"The formation of a national government, containing members of the three parties in the state, is a guarantee to all concerned, at home and abroad, that the gravity of the situation is realized by those to whom the facts have been made known and that they are resolved at once to take the measures necessary to put the finances of the country in order.

"We are face to face with a grave national crisis, which, if it were not taken in hand with courage and firmness, would be fraught with serious consequences to every man, woman, and child throughout the country.

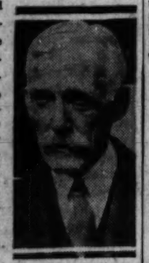
"The only means by which the national emergency can be met is close coöperation between all the parties. For this purpose we Conservatives have considered for a limited period of time, to enter a national government which will be formed for the express purpose of carrying out such measures as are required to balance the budget and restore confidence in our national credit and there is no question of any permanent coalition.

"The national government has been allotted a definite task, and on its completion it is understood that parliament be dissolved as soon as circumstances permit and that each of the parties be left free to place its own policy before the electors for approval. By this means no party will be called upon to sacrifice any principle in which it believes."

MELLON RUSHES FROM STEAMER TO BANK PARLEY

Situation in England Probable Topic.

New York, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, arrived home from Europe today on the liner Conte Biancamano and immediately went to the federal reserve bank, where he went into conference with Gov. George L. Harrison.



ANDREW MELLON. [Acme Photo.]

Their conference, it was generally believed, was concerned primarily with the British financial crisis, and there were further reports that the most prominent bankers in the country were to be called in to discuss the extension of further credits to the Bank of England.

English Bank Head Nearby.

The presence of Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, on this side of the water gave further substance to these reports. Mr. Norman is in Quebec. He has announced that his visit is in the nature of a vacation and that he will not go to Washington.

With Mr. Mellon here, with a conference in progress at the federal reserve bank, with a meeting of one group of bankers already called for today, it did not seem improbable that Mr. Norman would confer with the secretary during the day by telephone.

Mr. Mellon's program was obviously one today which had not been previously determined, whether or not he originally intended to confer with Gov. Harrison. After refusing to discuss either the European situation or his trip abroad, he left the Conte Biancamano at quarantine and boarded the coast guard cutter Manhattan. This landed him at the Battery.

Bankers Applaud Change.

Important bankers here united, while Mr. Mellon declined to talk for publication, in expressing satisfaction over the change of the British government. Skepticism had attended the efforts of the Labor party to carry through sound economic reforms, but the coalition is regarded as strengthening Great Britain's chances to work out her financial salvation.

If any conditions had been needed to bring added assistance to Great Britain, the change of government has provided it. There is practically unlimited credit here at the disposal of the Bank of England whenever it is required.

Mr. Mellon suffered a slight injury as his ship drew into the harbor today. He was posing for pictures on deck when a flashlight bulb operated by a newspaper photographer exploded. There was a report like a gun. Mr. Mellon leaped backward, attaches and ship's officers leaped forward.

Then the secretary, no longer startled, smiled. Flying glass had slightly injured his right hand and had narrowly escaped striking him in the face.

FOOD PROBLEM IS BIG FACTOR IN BRITISH UNREST

Crowded Island Cannot Feed Itself.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 24.—"You cannot feed 40,000,000 people on 50,000,000 acres," is the axiom on which agricultural economy rests its case in England.

England is overpopulated, yet, unlike Germany and Italy, clamoring for a "place in the sun" for their overcrowded millions of inhabitants, Britain is unable to utilize its huge empire, covering one-fourth of the globe's land surface, as an outlet.

Poor elements in England refuse to emigrate, and with a canny realization of this frame of mind, large political areas of the empire have set up stringent immigration laws to bar them.

Cite Population Increase.

The rapid rise in population of England in the last 125 years created the overcrowded condition existing today, and also caused the dependence of the United Kingdom on imports of food supplies. Gradually, as population increased and more and more of the man power of the country was concentrated on mining and industry, efforts at farming abated and neighboring countries were relied on more and more to provide foodstuffs.

This situation enabled certain foreign states to organize themselves and consolidate their positions as purveyors of food to England, to such an extent that it is not considered possible now for the United Kingdom to make any real effort in this direction.

At the beginning of the 19th century, England's population was less than ten millions. By 1840 it had grown to 19,000,000.

Difficulty in feeding the population first cropped up in the first quarter of the last century. Britain is not a good country for wheat climatically, and year after year more area has been devoted to grass land and grazing, as farmers gave up the struggle to produce grain and breadstuffs.

Corn Duty Fails.

Originally there was a duty on corn, to protect British farmers and impel them to put their crops in maize. But with the growth of the population this increased the price of bread through taxation and high rents and duties charged on crops by the titled land owners. In "the hungry '40s" the crisis became acute, increased population resulted in ever dearer bread, and food riots broke out as the mass of the industrial population felt the pinch.

In 1846 Sir Robert Peel introduced a bill for the repeal of the corn laws, and since then Britain has enjoyed free trade in corn and grain. The bitter political fight split the Conservative party, with the "Peelites" making common cause with the Liberals.

No attempt has been made since then to organize agriculture to supply even a portion of the demand for food. Last year only 26 million hundredweight of wheat was produced at home, and 112 million hundredweight was imported. In the last year of the war, with the German submarine campaign threatening starvation to the nation, the government speeded up production of wheat to 46 million hundredweight and, through substitution of potatoes, gained considerable advantage in that direction. But in 1919, wheat production dropped to 35 million hundredweight.

Not Enough Farmers.

Proportion of urban to rural population in the United Kingdom brings home the situation forcibly. In 1921, 80 per cent of the whole population was urban, only 20 per cent being rural. More than 25 per cent of the population is massed in towns of 250,000 inhabitants and more. The number of persons engaged in agriculture in the entire country, and including children as young as 10 years old, is less than 1,500,000. The number of farmers and small holders is less than 450,000.

Taxation on food to help production at home thus penalizes an overwhelming portion of the population to benefit only the extremely small minority, the farmers. Besides that, through higher prices it would force up the cost of living, although effects of this would largely be dissipated by the expenditure of the enormous feeding bill at home instead of abroad.

The report of the late Lord Balfour, chairman of the "Committee on Industry and Trade," emphasized the situation by pointing out that reduction of imports from the countries now supplying England with foodstuffs would correspondingly reduce the potential ability of these same nations to buy manufactured goods, coal, etc., from England, although it is admitted that "some national effort to increase the home grown food supply may be highly desirable for reasons connected with national security, health or well being."

"The possibility of replacing imports of foodstuffs by increased agricultural production is strictly limited by considerations of economic costs," the report continues. "We cannot estimate to what extent it is possible to increase the home production of food by any means of agricultural policy which would not unduly handicap the development of industry and trade by a large increase in national taxation, or by an excessive rise in the cost of living."

Farmers Want Food Tax.

Despite these considerations, farmers continue to clamor for food taxes, on the ground that they are forced to buy in protected markets but must sell in a free market. In this campaign they are supported by the Express, a large London morning newspaper, published by the Canadian, Lord Beaverbrook, who is constantly seeking popular reforms to champion.

Conservative elements in parliament and even a certain number of cabinet members, advocate "protection" of certain industries which produce most of the articles farmers are interested in purchasing.

Opponents of food taxation hold out the time honored bugaboo about the dukes and other vested land interests reaping rich harvests in high rents if wheat and corn is again protected. Through the monopoly of land by the aristocracy and a few ancient estates, owners are always in a position to squeeze their tenants to the last available farthing.

HELD ON MURDER CHARGE.

A coroner's jury yesterday held John Pfeiffer, 41 years old, 6133 Stewart avenue, to the grand jury on a charge of murder following an inquest yesterday into the slaying of Ralph Andrews, 37 years old, 7841 Cottage Grove avenue.

Alleged "Pants Bandit" Held on Robbery Charge

Harry C. Bellinger, 26 years old, 3831 Rokeby street, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $30,000 yesterday by Municipal Judge John J. Rooney on charges of robbery and assault to rob. He was called the "pants bandit" by police from his alleged habit of stripping victims of their trousers to prevent pursuit.

London Paper "Bares" Plan for Fresh Loan.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—The London Daily Herald, Great Britain's chief labor organ, today prominently publishes a story in which it charges that the fall of the MacDonald government and the establishment of a new national administration was "dictated" by United States bankers.

The story says that the $250,000,000 credit recently acquired by the Bank of England was now nearly exhausted and that, in seeking new money from the United States, the Bank of England was informed by the Federal Reserve bank fresh credit could only be granted if drastic economies were made a the "dole."

Calls It "U. S. Ultimatum."

"The late government," the paper says, "was informed by the Federal Reserve bank that credits would only be granted provided specific and considerable economies were made at once in the administration, or in the actual sums paid under the unemployment insurance scheme.

"This virtual ultimatum from New York bankers played a vital part in pulling the late cabinet on the issues of a ten per cent reduction in unemployment benefits."

In an editorial in this morning's issue the Herald said:

"Where is the patriotism, we may ask, in allowing the Federal Reserve bank of New York to dictate, as a condition for further credit to the Bank of England, the policies to be pursued in relation to the unemployment benefit?

"This isn't patriotism, but acceptance of a dictatorship, not even of a British bank, but of international finance. It is a blow to British prestige equaled only by the terms of the Versailles treaty."

Washington Silent on "Loan."

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—[Special]—Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle was asked tonight about the report in the London Daily Herald that United States bankers caused the fall of the British cabinet. Mr. Castle said he had not heard of a loan being asked by Britain or of one being denied; that in fact he had recently seen it stated that the previous loan of $250,000,000 had not been extended.

Ogden Mills, acting secretary of the treasury, said tonight that so far as he knew no additional loan had been asked of the federal reserve system by the British government. One official said it seemed more likely that if any conditions were placed on British loans they would deal with the high interest rate on the British debt rather than the British dole.

Ready to Grant Loan.

New York, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The new British national government can secure a substantial private banking credit in this country upon 24 hours' notice, if it desires one. This statement was made by several of the most powerful bankers in Wall street today as an indication of their confidence in the ability of the new coalition government.

It was evident that bankers here are expecting the new British cabinet to arrange for a new loan as soon as it has formulated its program.

The prevailing view in Wall street is that this additional credit should be provided by private bankers and not by the federal reserve banks. It was asserted frankly that prior to the resignation of the Labor government the British treasury would have found it difficult, if not impossible, to secure a private banking credit. The establishment of a coalition administration, combining the best political talent of England's three major parties, however, completely altered the situation, bankers said.

U. S. OFFICIALS SEE BRITAIN GET OUT OF MUDDLE

Say Coalition Cabinet Will Solve Problem.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—Washington officials who have been following the British cabinet situation closely during the last few weeks were of the opinion tonight that formation of a coalition ministry would have a beneficial effect on the British financial situation and go a long way toward restoring British credit. Confidence was expressed that a coalition government headed by Ramsay MacDonald would be able to steer Britain out of its present difficulties.

Those individuals who are following developments in Great Britain the closest appear most interested in the possible measures that will be resorted to by the new government to meet the problems of unemployment relief doles and the necessity of balancing the budget.

Anxiety in Washington.

Any step that will strengthen the financial situation of Great Britain will be welcomed by Washington officials, where some anxiety has been caused in recent weeks by evidences of shakiness in the British financial structure. These officials feel it is just as important from the American standpoint to have the financial and economic condition of Great Britain improved as it is to have Germany placed firmly on her feet. Officials here feel that the British financial situation is hooked up to some extent with the central European crisis, it being recalled that when there was the probability of a crash in Austria early in June the Bank of England extended sufficient credits to prevent a collapse. This resulted, it was pointed out, in leaving the Bank of England with a lot of frozen credits.

American officials also are inclined to feel that any movement to cut down the costs of the "dole" cannot but have a beneficial effect. The day's development may afford valuable ammunition to the Hoover administration in fighting the enactment of similar unemployment legislation in the next session of congress.

What Caused Cabinet Crash.

The developments that led up to the fall of the MacDonald ministry, according to information relayed here were as follows:

On Feb. 11, 1931, the British house of commons adopted a resolution, by a vote of 465 to 21, authorizing the government to appoint "a small and independent committee to make recommendations to the chancellor of the exchequer for effecting forthwith all practicable and legitimate reductions in the national expenditure consistent with the efficiency of the services."

On March 17, 1931, the committee was appointed for this purpose with terms of reference leaving questions of policy involved in expenditure for the exclusive consideration of the cabinet; but also leaving it open to the committee "to review the expenditure and to indicate the economies which might be effected if particular policies were either adopted, abandoned or modified."

Net Increase in Expenses.

On July 24, 1931, the May report was submitted, together with a minority report submitted by Charles Latham and Arthur Pugh.

The committee found a net increase in contemplated expenditure for 1932 of 12,150,000 pounds sterling and for 1933 of 19,500,000 pounds. The committee declared "that to produce a properly balanced budget in 1932 including the usual provisions for the redemption of debt a deficiency of the sum of 119,000,000 pounds had to be made good by fresh taxation or economy apart from any further liabilities that may be incurred under pending legislation." It also took no account of the moratorium on reparations and war debts, which added $50,000,000 to the burden of the British exchequer.

The majority report of the committee finally recommended that economies of 96,578,000 pounds sterling, 500 million dollars, should be effected through reductions of unemployment insurance benefits, cuts in national health insurance payments, slashes in rates of pay for the armed services as well as reductions in officers' pensions and the abolition of preferential bonus subsidies paid to government industrial employes in the dock yards and ordnance factories. It also urged cuts in certain development funds. These recommendations still contemplated a deficit of from 100 million dollars to 150 million dollars.

Suggests Additional Taxation.

An official who for weeks has followed the British financial situation said:

"The minority report objected to the reduction of expenditure on social services, recommended better coordination of health, housing, insurance, roads, agriculture, education, etc., and suggested additional taxation, coupled with administrative economy as the remedy.

"The two reports accurately foreshadowed the development of the political crisis occasioned by this thorough investigation. The trade unions council and, generally, the left wing of the Labor party objects in principle to reductions in insurance and other social services. The Conservatives and the Liberals object to higher taxation.

"Another suggestion is that a 10 per cent tariff for revenue be levied on all British imports, which should yield between 80 and 90 million pounds sterling."

REUNITED WITH SISTER AFTER 50 YEARS IN AFRICA

New York, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—After fifty years in Africa, David Lynn has come to New York and has been reunited with his sister, Mrs. Kate Rogg of the Bronx.

"When I got off the ship," he said, "they must have expected to find a black man with a long beard. I was late getting off the ship, not being an American citizen. I did not know what my sister looked like, for when I last saw her she was a young girl and now she has grandchildren.

"I was about to go to a hotel when I saw a group of ladies who seemed to be waiting for some one. I inquired and found that they were waiting for me. And that's the reason that I'm up here in the Bronx."

Issues Warning as Sixth Victim of Lockjaw Dies

Dr. Karl Meyer, medical superintendent of the county hospital, issued a warning last night against tetanus after Emily Wilczunski, 12 years old, 846 Noble street, had died of the disease. She was the sixth lockjaw victim to die at the county hospital in two months, an infection having set in after she broke her arm on Aug. 17.

"The percentage of cases in which tetanus develops from open wounds is higher this year than last," said Dr. Meyer. "All open wounds of the skin should be regarded with caution. See the family doctor at once. Have the wound sterilized, and anti-tetanus serum injected."

END OF LABOR RULE IN BRITAIN RAISES SIGH OF RELIEF IN FRANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 24.—France gave a long sigh of relief today upon receiving the news that the second British Labor government had breathed its last. Hopes are being revived that the entente cordiale will begin to sprout.

The market is still a bit uncertain, apparently waiting to see exactly how the new MacDonald cabinet will shape up. The situation here is also regarded as critical owing to the practical exhaustion of the $250,000,000 credit extended by the Bank of France and the Federal Reserve bank to the Bank of England.

It is believed, however, that the French are willing to take considerable financial risk in supporting the pound sterling to keep it above the gold shipping point in order to curry favor with the new government. French economic experts believe that the next two days will determine the fate of the pound. They fear that because of the exhaustion of the French-American loan the gold drain may prove disastrous.

CENTRAL CHINA BENEATH A SEA; HILLS ARE ISLES

Millions Cling to Crests to Escape Death.

HANKOW, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Something like a transoceanic flight, especially above Nanking, was experienced by an Associated Press correspondent who flew today from Shanghai to Hankow. Central China lies beneath a tideless sea. Between Anking and the stricken cities of Hankow, Wuchang, and Hanyang waters stretch as far as the eye can reach. Junks sail unobstructed over villages and hundreds of small towns which lie beneath the muddy waters.

It is a spectacle both magnificent and appalling—magnificent for it is a sea of 10,000 islands, every Yangtze hilltop having become an islet; it is appalling because each islet bears numbers of refugees trapped probably beyond aid.

The plane flew low over a typical island covered with swarms of people virtually unprotected against a pitiless sun. They were apparently without food, and obviously their only drink was the yellow water which the wind whipped into waves that broke about the refugees' feet. They were without boats and apparently without hope of escaping.

Need Ships for Rescue Work.

Along the plane's trail thousands were marooned similarly. A large proportion are probably doomed unless relief measures, which are not yet in sight, are organized quickly. It would require a thousand powerful motorboats working together with ships stationed at intervals between Anking and Hankow to rescue all those marooned.

Everywhere thatched roofs were floating. On most of them there were holes, obviously ripped where inmates fought to escape from their houses when flood waters overwhelmed them. Near Anking a Chinese couple was seen bidding farewell to their thatched cottage. They had no boat but with a few household goods they were crouched in a large wooden tub and paddling about.

Anking's streets are flooded and half the city is submerged. Kiukiang is like Venice. In Hankow only the top floors of the higher buildings are above water. The city of almost a million population appears reduced in size to a village.

Relief Gigantic Task.

Alighting at Hankow the traveler found experts were convinced that providing relief for the millions of sufferers will be a greater task than the American post war relief for Russia, and will be attended with much greater difficulties.

Forebodings of even greater disaster added to the misery of the flood stricken hordes as this vast reservoir of death, disease and hunger was whipped by a strong wind—the feared forerunner of a typhoon.

It is the season for typhoons and apprehensive residents feel a storm now would complete the doom of the three cities, Hanyang, Wuchang, and Hankow, by blowing such volumes of water against them that undermined foundations would be certain to collapse.

More than 400,000 refugees are clinging to a precarious existence on islanded crests of two hills behind Wuchang. Forced to drink the polluted waters of the swollen streams, the refugees crowded together like sheep, are ravaged by fever and dysentery.

In the native section of Hankow, hunger crazed refugees quartered in a large warehouse, today attacked a detail of soldiers who had begun to remove a quantity of grain stored there. The soldiers summoned reinforcements and the crowd was quelled by the use of machine guns. Several of the refugees were wounded.

More than 1,000 persons who were housed in the barracks at Wuchang, were drowned today as a result of a fresh break in the dike.

In portions of Hankow the stench is almost unbearable. Hordes of mosquitoes attack the miserable, unclad refugees, spreading malaria and other diseases.

Tea Crop Ruined.

Fifty Chinese and foreigners have formed a branch of the national flood commission, headed by Bishop Logan H. Roots of the Episcopal mission. An official estimates the cost of food and shelter alone, to alleviate the most extreme suffering, will require $1,500,000, exclusive of the cost of medicines, during the next two months.

The tea crop of central China has been ruined and with less than 1 per cent of the foreign property in Hankow insured against floods, the property loss will be heavy.

The national flood relief commission's finance committee decided today to ask Washington for more favorable terms on the rate of interest and length of credit offered China for the purchase of wheat held by the United States farm board. Nanking reports that President Hoover had offered 40,000,000 bushels without interest charges the first ten years have been found incorrect.

CENTRAL CHINA TURNS INTO SEA

Shaded portion on map shows area covered by flood waters of the Yangtze river. Millions are clinging to hilltops with little hope of escape from either drowning, starvation, or pestilence. Between Anking and the stricken cities of Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang water stretches as far as the eye can see. The three inundated cities are further threatened with a typhoon.

CONTRACT FOR NEW POSTOFFICE FAILS TO ARRIVE

The contract for the new $16,000,000 postoffice, expected to reach Chicago from Washington yesterday, failed to arrive. This meant another day's delay in the beginning of work on the building.

Officials of John Griffiths & Son, the contractors, said they would be prepared to sign the contract and return it to Washington, with the required $7,000,000 bond, in a day or so after receiving it. However, treasury officials have predicted that it will require several days to investigate all the bondsmen, and the contract must also be approved by the attorney general and the controller general.

The Griffiths company officials said they could not begin work or place any orders for materials until all the contract "red tape" is cut. Treasury officials expressed confidence that work on the structure would begin not later than Sept. 10.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, Aug. 24.—Contrary to today's soviet denial, obviously influenced by a desire to please Germany, Polish Minister Stanislaw Patek presented the soviet foreign commisariat with a Polish project of a nonaggression treaty. The project is the result of seven years' discussion, based on the Kellogg pact and the Litvinov protocol of February, 1929, but adjusted to existing conditions.

Armed Mob Burns Tents of Irish Boy Scout Camp

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Aug. 24.—A sequel to recent sectarian bitterness in Ireland occurred in County Louth at midnight last night when armed men attacked a boy scout camp, dragged fifteen sleeping boys from their wooden huts, sprinkled the huts with gasoline, and set fire to them. The attackers fired several shots and escaped in automobiles.

PRESIDENT OF ECUADOR AND CABINET QUIT

QUITO, Ecuador, Aug. 24.—(AP)—President Isidro Ayora of Ecuador resigned tonight, shortly after he had accepted the resignation of his cabinet. He presented his resignation to congress, and it was accepted with only one negative vote, cast by Ingeniero Manuel Navarro, president of the chamber of deputies.

Previously the entire cabinet had resigned and President Ayora had appointed Col. Luis Larrea Alba as minister of government. He assumed the president's powers, in accordance with the constitution.

A crowd swept past a guard, entered the halls of congress, and shouted "Down with the government of Col. Larrea Alba." Dr. Ayora was believed to have taken refuge in a foreign legation. He had been provisional president since 1926 and was elected constitutional president March 27, 1929, by the assembly.

URGES PUBLIC CONSTRUCTION TO AID JOBLESS

Immediate construction of public works by local, state and national agencies as the only practicable means available for the relief of unemployment, was advocated by Howard Savage, chairman of the national Legion employment commission, in an address yesterday to members of the Advertising Post at a luncheon at Hotel Sherman.

"War veterans should be given preference in the employment created in this manner," said Savage. "Thousands of veterans' families all over the country are suffering from hunger and lack of clothing. The government for whom these men risked their lives should take cognizance of their condition now, beyond allowing them to peddle apples or serve on coroner's juries."

PAIR TRY TO SELL STOLEN STOCKS BACK TO VICTIM

Norman S. Pool, 50 years old, 3750 Osgood street, and Frank S. Markey, 43 years old, 622 West 44th street, were arrested yesterday when they tried to sell stock certificates to the Midland Trading company, 100 West Monroe street, from which the identical certificates were stolen on Nov. 30, 1930.

Pool visited G. B. Foscue, president of the company, a week ago and tried to dispose of the stock, which at present prices would be worth $9,500. Foscue, knowing that the certificates had been declared void and duplicates issued, made another appointment. Markey, from whom Pool claimed to have got the certificates, also was invited to the conference.

When the two men arrived they were taken into custody by Detectives William Drury and John Hoyne, according to the detectives, the pair admitted they were wanted for selling unqualified stocks in Montana, Dakota and Colorado. They were held and the authorities in the three states were asked if their return was desired.

PROBE OF CLOSED BANKS LAUNCHED BY GRAND JURY

Bain Sub-Receiver at Hearing.

HENRY E. AYERS.

State's Attorney Swanson, who ordered a general bank investigation following the disclosure that his political ally, John Bain, and associates of Mr. Bain owed the twelve Bain banks more than $2,000,000, personally presented the introductory evidence.

The initial session lasted three one-half hours, during which time Mr. Swanson and his assistant, Henry E. Ayers, whom he has delegated to conduct the investigation, were in the jury chamber constantly.

Two Witnesses Heard.

Four bank receivers, their accountants and attorneys were on hand, in answer to subpoenas, when the inquiry opened at 2 p. m. in the Criminal courts building. Only two witnesses were heard, however.

Fred Edgerton, chief bank examiner in the Chicago office of State Auditor Oscar Nelson, was the first to be called. His was before the jury from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m.

It was indicated that Mr. Edgerton was in the role of instructor to the jury. Presumably he spent his time explaining to the 23 laymen outlining the principles of sound banking, explaining the provisions of the Illinois banking act, describing the method of examining banks and defining the duties of the state auditor.

Some grumbling developed over the bank examiner's long stay in the jury chamber. The impatient ones pointed out that the present jury would be discharged a week hence, making necessary another course of education for their successors, to be impaneled Sept. 1.

Keeps One Witness.

Mr. Edgerton seemingly enjoyed the session. He emerged smiling, unruffled and untalkative. Mr. Ayers stepped to the door with him and dismissed all the waiting witnesses except one, Henry A. Potwin, official of the Chicago Title and Trust company and subreceiver for the West Englewood Trust and Savings bank, oldest of the Bain group.

Mr. Ayers instructed the departing witnesses to return at 2 p. m. tomorrow, explaining that the jury would be occupied today with other matters. He beckoned Mr. Potwin into the jury room. The Bain bank subreceiver was there one hour.

"Absolutely nothing to say," he declared upon emerging.

Mr. Swanson and Mr. Ayers, coming forth a few minutes later, made the same response to questions, indicating that either they or the jury had imposed a rule of secrecy.

Swanson Asks Cooperation.

Before the session opened Mr. Swanson had issued a brief statement, repeating a previous request of his assistant for all persons having knowledge of illegal banking practices to submit their evidence to the state's attorney's office.

"We are looking for those who know of bank law violations to come forward," Mr. Swanson said. "We trust they will answer this request promptly. This office lacks a sufficient staff to examine all the records thoroughly. The investigation will be speeded if those in a position to cooperate will do so."

While the grand jury was delving into the affairs of the original Bain bank, the united depositors' committee of the entire chain came to gripe with County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough over disposition of $887,000 in public funds, which the Bain banks took in as deputy tax collectors and which Mr. McDonough left on deposit until the banks closed June 8 with $380,000 cash on hand.

Asks Withdrawal of Claim.

William F. Stelzer, president of the depositors' committee, made public a statement inferentially accusing the county treasurer of "negligence" in depositing the money without security and requesting him to forebear pressing a lawsuit to collect the moneys as a preferred creditor. Mr. McDonough's attorney, Thomas D. Nash, already has filed such a suit and is due to have a hearing before Judge Ross C. Hall on Sept. 9.

"The fact that the county treasurer was prevailed upon by various sources to leave the $887,000 in the banks after May 15 resulted in this money automatically becoming a deposit by the county treasurer," Mr. Stelzer declared. "The banks used it as such and inasmuch as the county treasurer did not demand that the banks put up collateral to guarantee the deposits, the county should in fairness to the depositors withdraw their claims.

Speaks of Moral Right.

"If the claim is not withdrawn or defeated depositors will be prevented from receiving an early dividend," he continued. "Regardless of legal technicalities the moral right in this question lies with the depositors, and for the best interests of taxpayers and citizens the depositors should not be compelled to stand any loss due to the negligence of the county treasurer."

Attorney Adrian L. Hoover, counsel for the committee, said the county treasurer would be remiss in his duty if he failed to press the suit.

Attention will revert today to affairs of the Foreman banks, whose stockholders meet at 10 a. m. in the Foreman bank building, 33 North La Salle street, to pass on the action of the directors in transferring the assets to the First National in the merger of June 8.

There are 1,100 stockholders of record, according to Walter W. Head, former president of the Foreman banks. There is doubt but that the stockholders will ratify the action of the directors, since the directors held a majority of the stock.

RACKET BUREAU PROBES N. SHORE PARK DISPUTE

At the request of Attorney Thomas Lindskog the racket bureau of the state's attorney's office yesterday began an investigation of the refusal of holdover members of the North Shore park district to seat Patrick C. Winn and Thomas F. Myers Jr., who were elected as commissioners on the face of the returns in April.

Winn has since died, but Myers has never been able to get his place. One of the sitting commissioners, Harold E. Leopold, told Assistant State's Attorney Charles A. Bellows that Winn and Myers had never obtained certificates of election. Previously it had been claimed by the holdover members that the election was illegal and that anything Myers and Winn would have done as commissioners would not have stood the test in the courts.

Other commissioners are to be questioned. One of them is Howard P. Savage, who has voted to allow Myers a seat, but has been overruled by the majority.

SUE RESIDENTS OF GOLD COAST FOR BACK TAXES

$600,000 Personalty Is Sought in 200 Actions.

A number of Chicago's social and business leaders were sued in the Circuit court yesterday for nonpayment of 1929 personal property taxes. The suits were among 200 filed by State's Attorney Swanson asking judgments totaling approximately $600,000.

The largest tax bill revealed was that sought from Cyrus H. McCormick, 50 East Huron street, chairman of the board of the International Harvester company. It amounted to $55,466.50. Mrs. Philip D. Armour, 1200 Lake Shore drive, was sued for $4,245.

Others Named in Suits.

Others whose delinquent taxes were sought and the judgments asked are:

George W. Dixon, 1250 Lake Shore drive, president of the transfer company bearing his name and a Lincoln park commissioner, $2,516.

Charles H. Wacker [deceased], 2340 Commonwealth avenue, prominent in civic affairs and former chairman of the Chicago plan commission, $2,516.

James M. Hopkins, 1199 Lake Shore drive, $1,006.

Two Hotels Are Named.

Suits were also filed against the Lake Shore Drive hotel, 181 Lake Shore drive, from which taxes amounting to $3,145 are sought, and from the Eighteen East Elm Street corporation, which allegedly owes $5,661.

Eugene Byfield, now deceased, and E. L. Byfield, head of the Hotel Sherman company, were made defendants in a suit filed against the estate of the late Joseph Byfield in which $3,019 is sought.

Members of the board of assessors and the board of review were forced to be content yesterday with promises of the county finance committee that action, probably favorable, would be taken upon the requests of both bodies for additional funds at a meeting of the commissioners today.

John E. Conroy, assessor and secretary of the board, appeared with Charles E. Fox, director of appraisals, to demand $75,000 to carry on the 1931 revaluation. Andrew W. Gatenbey, chief clerk of the board of review, asked $59,880 to continue hearings of 1930 complaints.

County Attorney Bell told the finance committee that the requests could only be granted under the law if an emergency such as threatened to halt the county government existed. J. L. Jacobs, efficiency expert, denied that the county was faced with the emergency.

Then the commissioners compromised by demanding from both the assessors and reviewers letters signed by all of the members of each board, in which they declare that they are faced with extreme need of money to continue functioning.

The disappointment experienced by so many of our customers in not being able to secure some of the PEACHES that were ON SALE last week-end, has given us considerable concern. We made every effort to supply each store DAILY with sufficient quantities. But because of the unusually low price on these peaches, which was actually below wholesale prices, the demand positively staggered us. FROM THURSDAY MORNING UNTIL LATE SATURDAY WE SENT TO OUR 75 STORES 25 CARLOADS OF PEACHES, TOTALING 10,000 BUSHELS. This quantity was totally inadequate. Fortunately we have been able to secure further quantities and therefore to those who were disappointed we offer a limited quantity of 5,000 BUSHELS while they last.

NEW YORK CITY MOVES TO MAKE STREETS SAFE

War Without Quarter on Gunmen Declared.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—This city at last aroused, moved belatedly today to make its streets safe for citizens. War without quarter was declared on gunmen at a conference of municipal and county officials at city hall and an emergency appropriation of $127,476 was voted to provide a system of radio communication with cruising patrol cars and to increase the number of armored vehicles for bandit pursuit. Thousands attended a mass meeting in Madison Square Garden staged as a protest against gang rule.

Climaxing the day's activities, the police tonight began the biggest round-up of vagrants and suspects in the city's history. Virtually the entire police department was mobilized. Precinct detectives were sent searching dives, speakeasies and other criminal haunts in their districts while from headquarters members of the gangster, radical, safe and loft, bomb, narcotic, mendicant and other squads spread, in flying squadrons throughout the five boroughs.

Funerals with large crowds in attendance were held for the two patrolmen killed in Friday's battle, an ex-convict was arrested in Brooklyn as the "massacre" chief in last night's executions and citizens again dived into doorways or sought shelter behind posts as a gunman was felled in an exchange of bullets with two policemen in downtown Brooklyn.

Most Dangerous Streets.

New York has been incensed by the growing tendency of gunmen to scatter bullets wildly and their entire disregard of human life. Men and women have awakened to the realization that the streets of the city are the most dangerous in the world and that the hoodlums that infest them are not colorful badmen at all, but just small time thugs who get their courage from narcotics.

"Definite, drastic action is being taken," said acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee, "against the gangs. This is warfare against a dangerous enemy who gives and deserves no quarter. The time for talking has passed and the city will now show some action. We have a well considered plan, although it cannot be discussed now lest our hands be shown."

Police Forces Increased.

Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney announced he would increase the man power of the department by about 300 men within the next forty-eight hours by calling to active duty the men assigned to clerical jobs in precinct houses.

The money for radio equipped patrol cars was jammed through the board of estimate this afternoon, but it will be several months before the cars will be ready for service, according to Thomas W. Rochester, chief engineer of the police department.

The federal authorities here were unwilling to discuss what part they would take in New York's war on crime. It is known, however, that local officers of the department of justice, the internal revenue bureau, and the prohibition bureau, acting in response to orders from President Hoover, are planning a concerted campaign for the roundup and prosecution of criminals.

At the mass meeting 20,000 persons heard Bainbridge Colby, chairman, declare that their city was no longer a safe place in which to live. The former secretary of state asserted the city "is under a reign of crime," and declared "an alliance between crime and local city politics, for protection in the first instance and gain in the second," is chiefly to blame.

The situation is tolerated, Mr. Colby continued, only because "it is congenial to the whole spirit of our local government, presided over by Mayor Walker, who, by the laxity of his official conduct, his incorrigible flippancy, and the superficial view which he takes of his responsibilities, has distinctly contributed to a lowering of the tone of our city government."

Police Are Assailed.

Asserting that the city's 20,000 police could "if they knew that that was what was wanted of them" put down crime almost over night, Mr. Colby challenged Police Commissioner Mulrooney to show results or yield his office to a successor.

Commissioner Mulrooney, face flushed, his eyes snapping, laid the increase in gang violence to laxity in the control of firearms and national prohibition which he said "is the responsible creator and the financier of the vast majority of the most vicious and brutal rackets that curse the country today."

The work of an execution squad in Brooklyn last night in which one gangster was murdered and at least two others wounded was the second major outbreak of the last four days. An attempted pay roll robbery in the Bronx Friday afternoon resulted in a 90 minute battle in which two policemen, two bandits, the robbers' taxi driver and a small girl were killed and a dozen persons wounded.

The "taxi dance hall racket" was blamed for the Brooklyn outbreak and Murray Leonardi was held today as the leader of the assassins. Leonardi was at first believed one of the victims of the gang. Now it is said that he put the other two victims on the spot and was accidentally wounded by one of the executioners as he stepped into the line of fire to take a shot at his enemies lined up against a wall.

A fourth man may have been a victim of the executioners' pistols. The police have information that four men got out of an automobile beside a Brooklyn slaughter house wall and moved toward the thick brick wall before a burst of fire from the automobile that delivered them at that spot cut them all down. Leonardi was one of the three wounded. The body of the fourth gangster has not been found.

Today came tentative exoneration for Herbert Hasse, the taxi driver in whose cab the pay roll robbers fled last Friday and who was shot dead at the end of the chase. Detective Philip Knecht said that Hasse neither fired at pursuers during the fifty mile an hour chase nor had a gun when he was killed.

Margaret Hasse, the slain man's wife, has held her head high and insisted he was no bandit.

RENEW KENTUCKY FEUD AT CHURCH MEETING; TWO SHOT TO DEATH

Hopkinsville, Ky., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Long standing bitterness between two Todd county families, eased for a time by marriage, broke out anew at a church meeting yesterday and two men were killed and a woman wounded.

Details of the outbreak became known today when Mrs. Lou Harris was brought to a hospital at Allegre. Bill Winders, 24, and Carl Winders, 26, were slain.

County Attorney E. S. Penick said the trouble started when Mrs. Harris and her husband attempted to question Bill Winders about where he had left their daughter whom he married last June. Winders recently returned from Denver, Col., without his wife.

EX-ALDERMAN, 71, TO WED WESTERN WOMAN, AGED 43

Ernest Bihl, alderman for the 33d Ward from 1902 to 1910, and more recently a real estate operator in the south side district where he has lived since he came to Chicago in 1882, obtained a license to marry Miss Bertha James Woodward of Long Beach, Cal., in the county clerk's office yesterday.

"We don't know just when the ceremony will be," Mr. Bihl said last night in the home of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Edgar E. Bihl, at 12046 Stewart avenue. "The minister I wanted to have marry us is out of town.

"I met Miss Woodward while in California," he explained. "After the marriage we are going to stay at my home at 7021 Vernon avenue until snow flies. Then we'll probably head west again."

Mr. Bihl, who is a widower, gave his age as 71 years on the marriage application. The bride said she was 43 years old. Mr. Bihl has a son living in California and three married daughters in Chicago. He has not been in politics since his last term in the city council where he was a Republican.

Bomb Vera Cruz Home of Catholic Vicar General

JALAPA, Vera Cruz, Mexico, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The residence of the Rev. Pedro Castillo Landa, vicar general of the Vera Cruz diocese, was bombed yesterday in his absence and badly damaged. It was reported a month ago that several men had tried to assassinate Father Landa, who escaped by fleeing over a garden fence.

WHISTLES GREET RESUMPTION OF LOUISVILLE BANK

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Amid the blast of factory whistles and the clang of bells, the Louisville Trust company, for more than 50 years a major unit in Louisville's financial life, reopened here today after its failure last November. William J. Rahill of New York, is the new president of the bank. The institution, as reorganized, listed assets of $23,203,493 with $1,000,000 capital, time deposits of $3,345,200 and deposits and other demand liabilities of $5,765,182.

RESISTS HOLDUP; IS SHOT.

James Philip, 35 years old, a vendor who lives at 2803 Wentworth avenue, was shot in the right arm last night when he attempted to resist a holdup by a Negro, who robbed him of $17.

8 DROWN WHEN FISHING FLEET IS STRUCK BY GALE

AUDIERNE, France, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Eight persons were drowned here today among the crews of a lobster fishing fleet which was trying to put back into port to escape a gale. Three of the ships were sunk.

100 Russian Boats Wrecked.

ROSTOVONDON, Russia, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Advices received here today said that approximately 100 boats of a fishing flotilla were wrecked by a storm of cyclonic proportions which swept the southern portion of the Sea of Azov.

The extent of the casualties was not indicated.

"TOASTING" expels SHEEP-DIP BASE naturally

(Black, biting, harsh irritant chemicals)

present in every tobacco leaf

Every LUCKY STRIKE is made of the finest tobacco leaves the world can offer—the finest from Turkey—the finest from Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas—the Cream of many Crops throughout the world. But all tobacco leaves, regardless of price and kind, as nature produces them, contain harsh irritants. LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process—a process that mellows, that purifies, that includes the use of the modern Ultra Violet Ray—expels certain harsh irritants naturally present in every tobacco leaf. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds, who use them as a base in making sheep-dip*, as well as a powerful spraying solution for trees, flowers and shrubs—enough to permit the daily dipping of over 50,000 sheep or the daily spraying of many thousands of trees. Thus, you are sure these irritants, naturally present in all tobacco leaves, are not in your LUCKY STRIKE. "They're out—so they can't be in!"

No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.

GAMBLER'S WIFE GETS 7 DEMANDS FROM KIDNAPERS

Gang Reiterates Threat to Kill Lynch.

From Mrs. Anna Lynch the authorities of Walworth county, Wis., learned last night that the kidnapers who took her husband, John J. [Jack] Lynch, a prisoner last Thursday afternoon a few miles from his Lake Geneva home, had made seven telephone calls to her demanding that she pay a $250,000 ransom or have him sent back to her dead.

Lynch is head of a west side gambling syndicate, part owner of the General News bureau, furnishing information on the races to bookmakers, and was once a stockholder in the Arlington Park race track, but has no connection with it now.

Ordered to Pay At Once.

The latest call, Mrs. Lynch told Deputy Sheriff George O'Brien of Elkhorn, Wis., arrived yesterday. She was told that the patience of the kidnapers was getting short and that she would have to meet the demands at once. To the sullen Mrs. Lynch related that it was impossible to raise so much money and that the $125,000 Lynch home had a mortgage of $50,000 on it. The kidnapers bandits scorned her offer of $50,000 for the captive's return.

Other developments of the day included:

1. The discovery of a witness who said that he saw an elderly man, apparently Lynch, slugged and thrown into an automobile by several other men three miles south of Lake Geneva on U. S. route 12 soon after 4 p. m. Thursday.

2. A statement by a niece of Lynch that she had passed his automobile a little to the south of the spot where the attack occurred, thus establishing the fact that the kidnaping occurred in Wisconsin.

3. An announcement by District Attorney Arthur T. Thorson of Elkhorn that his office would make every effort to apprehend and punish the kidnapers.

Appeal to Capone.

4. An appeal by friends of Lynch to Al Capone, requesting that he assist in obtaining the return of Lynch unharmed.

5. A formal offer of $25,000 reward by the Daily Racing Form for the arrest and conviction of the abductors.

6. The questioning of Harry J. [Lefty] Lewis, one time labor agent who was acquitted of murder in 1927 and who went to the detective bureau in Chicago when he learned he was a suspect in the case and pleaded his innocence.

Mrs. Lynch told Deputy Sheriff O'Brien she had not reported the kidnaping because she was interested only in getting Lynch out of the hands of the kidnapers and because she had been advised to deal with them on a money basis.

"There was one call at 11:30 p. m. Thursday," she said, "three on Friday, two Saturday and one today. I told them honestly each time that I could not get $250,000, and that I wasn't sure I could get even $50,000."

Not a Joke, Says Kidnaper.

The kidnaper, she added, told her that when they first called Marty Guilfoyle, another handbook man, and made their demands he believed they were joking. They urged Mrs. Lynch to inform Guilfoyle that the matter was intensely serious.

On Saturday, she said, the kidnapers told her to get in touch with Mont Tennes, who was formerly Lynch's partner in the General News bureau, and to ask him to raise the ransom.

"Tennes told me that I should tell them he would not do anything—that Jack owed him money," Mrs. Lynch asserted, "but Tennes gave me a telephone number and said to have the kidnapers talk to him there."

Mrs. Lynch, much worried about the disappearance of the gambler, has not lost her courage.

Some of the calls, she averred, came from Chicago and some from Oak Park.

The man who saw the kidnaping is Frank Bordwell, traveling salesman, of Beaver Dam, Wis. He told Chief of Police Cronin of Lake Geneva that he witnessed the struggle beside the car of Lynch, who was crying for help when he was overpowered and thrust into another automobile. The kidnapers are believed to have driven south to Chicago.

Lynch's niece, Mary Novak of 8639 Muskegon avenue, had been visiting his home and was on her way to Chicago when she passed him near Genoa City. He was alone in his car, she said, and did not recognize her. Their passing on the road occurred near 4 p. m. Thursday.

The appeal to Capone, according to Chicago detectives, was made directly to the big gangster's lieutenant, Jack Guzik, who is under sentence for income tax frauds. One of the theories of the police is that Ernie Rossi, who has Capone connections, is involved in the ransom plot. The friends of Lynch believe that a word from Capone might prevent a murder and bring an earlier restoration of Lynch to his home.

Hold Suspect for Quiz.

Lefty Lewis, although surrendering voluntarily to the police, refused to tell anything about his movements on the day of the kidnaping. He did, however, assert that he had nothing to do with it. Chief of Detectives Norton ordered that he be held in custody until further investigation is completed.

The trial of Lewis for the murder of Max Braverman resulted in his acquittal, although eight witnesses had pointed to him as the killer. Braverman was a junkman and an effort was made to force him and other junkmen into an organization that would pay tribute to racketeers.

CITY TO ATTACK OWNERS' WRIT IN MOVIE BATTLE

Acting Corporation Counsel Leon Hornstein announced yesterday that he would seek an immediate hearing before Superior Judge Ross C. Hall today and ask for dissolution of the temporary injunction, granted by the court on Sunday, which enabled motion picture theaters to operate without licensed operators. The injunction restrains police from arresting unlicensed operators in the theaters.

Meanwhile about 100 independent theaters involved in a battle with the motion picture operators union continued to operate under protection of the injunction last night. The battle is the result of the owners' refusal to employ two operators on each shift, as demanded by the union.

Mr. Hornstein said that the city would contend that Judge Hall had no jurisdiction in the matter when he granted an injunction on the plea of the theater owners. Moreover, he declared, the court should have notified city officials of the Sunday hearing so that they might have been parties to the proceedings.

The cases of 22 imported operators, who were arrested on Saturday when the closed theaters were reopened, were continued until Sept. 2. All the cases will be heard by Municipal Judge Jay A. Schiller.

Ten of the New York operators took the written examination for Chicago licenses yesterday and fifty more will appear today, it was announced. A number were disqualified when their applications were found to contain falsehoods.

Ludwig Siegel, secretary of the Exhibitors' Association of Chicago, announced his resignation as secretary and member yesterday. The association is composed mainly of large theater owners who have not been affected in the present controversy. Mr. Siegel declared he was a "small theater owner at heart" who intended joining in the fight between the union and the small theater owners.

Kills Self in Grief Over Death of Wife

Grief over the death two months ago of his wife is believed to have been the cause of the suicide yesterday of Robert H. Smith, 55 years old, 1179 South Home avenue, Oak Park. He shut himself in the garage behind his home and shot himself, inflicting a wound which caused his death some hours later at the Oak Park hospital. He had been despondent since his wife died, Mrs. Anna Kneal, an aunt who kept house for him, told police.

57 OF 60 FLYERS REACH TUCSON; ONE IS MISSING

Tucson, Ariz., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Led by Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell, Long Beach, Cal., 57 women and men Santa Monica to Cleveland air derby fliers—three less than left Santa Monica yesterday—set their planes down on the Tucson airport today for the second night stop.

Mrs. O'Donnell, second pilot to cross the Phoenix finish line at noon today, streaked into Tucson 12 minutes and 1 second ahead of her nearest rival, Phoebe Omlie of Memphis. Her flying time from Phoenix was 41 minutes, 26 seconds.

Gage Irving of Burbank, Cal., has been missing since he left Calexico, Cal., this forenoon. A party from Buckeye, Ariz., was searching the desert near Dixie, 20 miles west of Buckeye, for his plane.

Winnifred Spooner of Leicestershire, England, dropped from the flight at Phoenix when a connecting rod of her motor broke and a cylinder cracked. Mary Charles, Santa Monica, Cal., forced down four miles from Calexico by engine trouble, again took to the air late in the afternoon.

"The Old Order Changeth, yielding place to new"

Society on the beach at Lake Geneva in 1899. Clothes like these seem strange today—and, thanks to Electrolux, so do refrigerators that were up-to-date a few years ago.

The silent simplicity of Electrolux makes it the modern automatic refrigerator

AMERICA is quick to discard the old and welcome the new.

It has welcomed Electrolux because this automatic refrigerator is different—and better. No moving parts at all . . . just a tiny gas flame and a tiny flow of water. You get constant cold, plenty of ice cubes, without sound, and for less than the operating cost of any other refrigerator. About five cents a day for the average household sizes.

There's no alternate stopping and starting to Electrolux. The refrigerant is hermetically sealed in rigid steel. The gas flame is completely protected by an automatic shut-off. Years of use will not wear your Electrolux out or make it noisy. And if it should ever need adjustment, you get the prompt, efficient kind of service for which your gas company is famous.

Installation is simple because connections for gas and water are through concealed flexible copper tubing.

You have your choice of 11 different household models, from 3 cu. ft. to 20 cu. ft. capacity. Prices no higher, despite unique advantages. This refrigerator is already in more than 175,000 progressive homes, the choice of famous architects and builders. May be seen at all gas company showrooms. Complete information sent by mail upon request. Write to us today or phone Wabash 6000.

LINDYS REST IN NEMURO; STORMS ON TOKIO ROUTE

Plan Flight to Capital on Wednesday.

NEMURO, Japan, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Welcomed today by 3,000 Japanese who applauded their flight from Petropavlovsk along the fog obscured volcanic Kurile Islands, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh prepared to complete their 7,182 mile flight from New York to Tokio Wednesday.

Only 613 miles lay before them to the Kasumigaura naval landing field near the Japanese capital, but they decided to remain here over tomorrow out of respect for three Japanese fliers killed at the field Saturday.

From Tokio, at an undetermined date, the Americans, on a vacation tour, will fly to some part of China. The colonel said he had no present injention of a world flight and did not plan to fly to the Philippines or to make a nonstop flight over the Pacific.

Thanks the Japanese.

Col. Lindbergh here thanked the Japanese people who aided and entertained them during their four stops when they were forced down during the 897 mile flight. Their last hop of only 50 miles was made in 28 minutes from Kunashiri island, and they arrived at 7:51 a. m. Monday (5:51 p. m. Sunday Chicago time).

Addressing a crowd here, Col. Lindbergh said:

"When we return home we will tell all our friends of the kindness of those Ohana folks who took in a couple of strangers Saturday and refused to accept money for lodgings or anything else."

She made little of hardships she and her husband had endured, saying that sleeping in the plane on the choppy waters of the Kurile group was "like sleeping in a hammock."

Trail Blazers Silent.

OTTAWA, Aug. 24. — (AP) — The silence of the arctic once again has hidden the movements of Edwin H. Preston and Robert Collignon, Detroit to Denmark flyers.

Radio messages received here yesterday intimated the plane was at Fort Harrison, on the eastern side of Hudson bay, awaiting a supply of fuel before taking off on the next lap of the European trip.

Germans Reach Lisbon.

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Willy Rody and Christian Johannsen, German airmen, who left Berlin Saturday on the first leg of a projected trans-Atlantic flight, arrived here today.

Rody said they expected to make a nonstop flight to New York by way of the Azores and would attempt a return flight to Berlin by way of Ireland.

SUSPECT SEIZED IN FATAL BEATING OF WOMAN FRIEND

George Denisty was arrested last evening for questioning in connection with the killing of Mrs. Anna Rairdon, 62 years old, 2056 Burling street, with whom, it was said, he had been intimate. Mrs. Rairdon, who was estranged from her husband, had been fatally beaten in what the police learned was a drunken brawl, staged in the Rairdon home Sunday night.

Denisty, who used the name of Denilson, disappeared after Dr. Oscar Ofner, summoned to the house, pronounced Mrs. Rairdon dead. Mrs. Catherine Cochrane, a sister of the dead woman, told the police that Mrs. Rairdon, before she died, had declared that Denisty had beaten her.

The police learned that Denisty lived at 915 Oakdale avenue, and upon going there arrested him. He was stupified with moonshine and when questioned by Capt. Thomas Condon denied he had beaten Mrs. Rairdon.

Court Fixes Bond for Wife Held in Slaying

Judge Charles A. Williams yesterday fixed a bond of $40,000 for Mrs. Bernice O'Connor, 24 years old, former cabaret cigaret girl, who has been held in the county jail since her indictment on the charge that she murdered her former husband, Edward, on July 31. The action was taken on a habeas corpus action brought by her attorneys, Emmet F. Byrne and Harold Levy over the objections of Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne.

SECOND INQUEST ORDERED IN AIR BANDIT'S DEATH

A second inquest was ordered yesterday by Dr. Carl Davis, deputy coroner of Porter county, Indiana, into the death of Thomas Raddie, 21 year old South Chicago aviator, who was burned to death last Saturday when he crashed near Valparaiso, Ind., in a plane alleged to have been stolen earlier in the day from the Chicago airport. Dr. Davis ordered further investigation when he learned, he said, that Raddie was implicated in the theft of three other planes.

Raddie, who was graduated a few months ago from the Curtiss flying school at Glenview, accomplished the theft of the plane in which he met his death, it is charged, by simply walking into the Associated Aircraft hangar at the airport and taking off when a watchman was not looking. The plane had been moved out of the hangar at 6 a. m. for its owner, John Arthur Holmes, who had not arrived at the airport when Raddie scooted away without warming up the motor. This, officials at the airport said, was probably responsible for the accident which resulted in his death.

Herman Thomas of Chicago, who helped Bahr sail the frail craft from Florida, has refused to attempt the ocean crossing and will return home. His place probably will be taken by a Newfoundlander.

OIL FIELDS KEPT SHUT IN THREE STATES; $1 OFFER

Military Lid Waits for All to Come In.

seen in various cities, including Chicago, where the Shell company advanced its retail price of gasoline 2 cents a gallon. Other companies probably will follow suit.

California Men Gain.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—California refiners are now shipping gasoline in large quantities to the east coast to meet the shortage caused by the cessation of production in the Kansas, Oklahoma, and east Texas oil fields. Within a week cargo orders have come in in such numbers as to bring about unusual activity in the tanker fleets of the larger companies. Prices range from 5 to 5½ cents a gallon delivered at Atlantic ports.

With the curtailment program ridigly enforced in the various oil fields of this state, the producers are drawing from their storage tanks to supply the eastern markets. Besides the boon of disposing of this gasoline, long held in hope of better prices, the companies gain by a reduction in the chargeoffs on their books on their stored fuel.

Standard Oil of California, Union Oil, and Associated Oil are the principal shippers but other companies also are bidding for the business.

Raises in Other States.

Kansas City, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Crude oil producers in Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Louisiana and Arkansas today benefitted from rising prices, following in the wake of arbitrary shutdowns in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

Price hikes of from 3 to 25 cents a barrel were announced today by the Midwest Refining company, effective in the Rocky mountain district.

Higher quotations for petroleum in Louisiana and Arkansas were posted by the Magnolia Petroleum company. A top price of 68 cents a barrel was announced for Louisiana oil. This is a 28 cent increase. Arkansas prices were boosted to 45 and 48 cents, representing 15 and 17 cent hikes.

St. Louis Woman Loses 20 Pounds of Fat in 4 Weeks

Also Gained in Energy—So Happy Can't Help but Write Letter of Thanks—Read It

A half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast not only quickly gives you the trim, slender figure you've eagerly craved but also brings back a degree of health and beauty you haven't had since the first pounds of excess fat made their appearance—strength and energy you forgot existed refill your body—skin clears—you feel years younger and look it, too!

And here in a nutshell is the "why" of the amazing reducing and health-giving power of Kruschen:

Kruschen is a superb combination of SIX separate mineral salts which act on glands, nerves and body organs as do the salts at the famous and expensive Spas of Europe.

It keeps the body free from harmful acids and poisons and strikes at the usual CAUSE of fat—thousands of women are amazed at the simplicity and common sense behind the Kruschen treatment and are more than overjoyed by the results. You can hasten the reducing action by going lighter on potatoes, pastry and fatty meats.

"Mrs. Mae West of St. Louis, Mo., writes: 'I just can't help but let you know what Kruschen has done for me. I'm only 28 years old and weighed 170 lbs. until taking one box of your Kruschen Salts just 4 weeks ago. I now weigh 150 lbs. I also have more energy and furthermore I've never had a hungry moment. It certainly is a great relief not to be fat and bulky.'"

Buy Kruschen TODAY. An 85c bottle lasts 4 weeks. Any leading drugstore throughout the world can supply you—money back if not satisfied.

QUEBEC LIBERAL REGIME WINS IN BITTER ELECTION

Conservatives' Leader Loses Seat in House.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

QUEBEC, Aug. 24.—There was great rejoicing on parliament hill tonight for L. Alexandre Taschereau, veteran Liberal premier of the province, had won another victory, the most decisive, perhaps, in the history of the party.

He will have a clear mandate, supported by at least 70 seats, to carry on the policies he outlined during the campaign for the assembly, according to returns received tonight from all but the more remote districts.

L. A. TASCHEREAU.

While the premier won a smashing victory in his own district, his opponent, Mayor Camillien Houde of Montreal, was defeated for reelection to the house, and the Conservative party will be in no stronger position than it was during the last assembly, with only 20 votes to command.

The government victory was greater than had been anticipated even by the Liberal leaders, for they took several urban seats away from the Conservatives and held their own in the semi-rural districts, while making a clean sweep of the rural counties.

Socialism Falls.

The results demonstrated that even the city and labor vote of Quebec is unready for the strongly socialistic changes in government proposed by Mayor Houde. The rock of Quebec as Premier Taschereau had predicted, held firm against all the waves of new doctrine lashed up during the campaign. Its conservative temperament has been unchanged by all the troubles of the last two years.

Premier Taschereau's situation here, where all the blame for the depression and its ills was heaped upon his party, had been compared with that which the Republican party in the United States would have to face if they went to the electorate now. The result was therefore doubly comforting.

The government victory means for Quebec an unchanged government of cautious progress and thriftiness in expenditures, with the present policy continued toward the provincial control of water power and other natural resources. The government has promised that more work will be provided this winter from public funds, such as road and bridge building, and a special session of the new assembly is expected to be called next month to deal with the entire question of unemployment. Some federal aid will be asked for in public works, and charities will be continued adequately, but this is about as far as government relief will go.

This year's surplus of $600,000, the premier has promised, will be devoted to helping the unemployed.

With Mayor Houde removed from the house, where he has been the one vital figure of the opposition, the Conservative leadership will have to go elsewhere. M. Duplessis, who has been returned from Three Rivers, is said to be the one on whom the mantle will fall. He has been the leader during Mayor Houde's frequent absences, for the mayor has had to run Montreal as well as stir up his party.

PAT SOMERSET'S NEW WIFE A BALTIMORE GIRL, BARBARA TODD

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Pat Somerset, dashing English matinée idol of the stage, today announced that he had been a bridegroom for a month and introduced the former Barbara Todd, Baltimore debutante, as his latest wife. After a ceremony in Riverside they have been living in Santa Barbara, but today they took a home in the screen colony.

Somerset admits three former marriages. His first wife was Margaret Bannerman, English actress. She divorced him after he came to America with Edith Day, actress wife of Carle Carleton, stage manager.

After a hectic married life Miss Day also divorced Somerset, accusing him of an elopement with Irene Martin, dancing wife of "Skeets" Gallagher. In 1927 Pat married Shelby Worrall, Texas beauty, who died from heart failure.

GERMAN VISITS YANK AIR VICTIM NOW HIS FRIEND

New York, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Ernst Udet, one of the most famous German aces in the world war, arrived here today on the liner Europa on a visit to his one time enemy and present friend, Arthur Wanamaker of Ashland, O., whom Udet shot down and wounded behind the German lines.

Udet, who also has accepted an invitation to take part in the National Air Races at Cleveland, assisted Wanamaker in clearing up his record with the war department at Washington.

Wounded in the leg, Wanamaker became friendly with Udet while the American flyer was confined to a German prison camp. Upon his return to this country, according to the story told today upon Udet's arrival, Wanamaker learned to his surprise that war department officials were skeptical of his account of being shot down, wounded, and imprisoned in Germany. Wanamaker accordingly wrote to Udet, who sent back the official record of their duel in the air.

QUESTION ANOTHER WOMAN IN JAPANESE IMPORTER MYSTERY

New York, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Another woman, attractive and red haired, today entered into the investigation into what happened to Hisashi Fujimura, missing Japanese importer. She is Mrs. Jean Salz, who, questioned by federal officials, disclosed she was the one who introduced Fujimura and Mrs. Mary Reissner, the former actress who accompanied the importer on the six day ocean cruise from which he never returned.

She said that shortly after a party in her hotel suite early last year, at which the two met, Fujimura subleased the place from her for Mrs. Reissner.

The onetime showgirl was questioned for four hours. Among other questions she was asked what she knew of the $335,000 shrinkage in the Japanese's bank accounts in five months. Teri Josefovits, ship pianist, and Jan Ribas, ship artist, were also interrogated again.

Meanwhile it was learned that after Fujimura's absence was discovered two men slipped ashore from the liner without meeting customs men or immigration authorities. This indicated the importer might have done so.

An inquiry was being made into reports that a prominent man of another city was seen frequently with Mrs. Reissner on the voyage.

KILLS SELF BY AUTO GAS.

George Dye, 57 years old, 3149 North Mansfield avenue, a barber, committed suicide yesterday by inhaling gas from the exhaust of his automobile.

3 COLLECTORS YIELD $590 TO 2 NEGRO BANDITS

Two Negro bandits who specialized in robbing collectors, were $590 richer last night. The first held up David Becker, 1765 East 55th street, a rent collector, at 4822 South Michigan avenue, and stole $400. Next they trapped Max Ginsberg, 4329 North Troy street, an insurance collector, in the hallway at 346 East 48th street. He lost $40. The third victim of the robbers was Eugene Joseph, 322 East 45th street, like Becker, a rent collector. He was halted at 3205 Cottage Grove avenue and gave up $150.

ROB WOMAN STORE MANAGER.

Two bandits, both colored, yesterday held up Miss Laura Tannant, 2543 Wilson avenue, manager of the National Chain hat store at 174 North State street, and escaped with $200 from the cash register.

TO AVOID "RINGS" IN REMOVING GREASE SPOTS On all SILKS use the new CARBONA Grease Absorbent POWDER

Most SILKS are now "weighted" with foreign substances to make them appear of better quality. Liquid cleaners affect this "weighting" and cause "rings." Therefore, on all SILKS use only Carbona Grease Absorbent Powder—it cannot leave "rings" because it does not affect "weighting."

$1,000,000 COAL BIDS IN TODAY ON NEW SCHOOL DEAL

Shift Made by Trustee in Fuel Contract.

board's business, are you? A.—No, only for the size coal—lump, egg and any other size coal.

Q.—Will the Northern Illinois Coal company submit a bid? A.—No, we will not.

Q.—Have you not obtained a copy of the specifications? A.—Yes, for our information. But local dealers will submit their own bids on our coal.

Q.—How, then, do you know what the saving will be? A.—The difference in freight rates is 60 or 70 cents as between Wilmington and southern Illinois, said Mr. Sawyer, and the saving should be at least 50 cents a ton on about 100,000 tons, assuming that the cost of mining is the same.

Q.—Do you claim that the cost of mining is approximately the same? A.—You can be certain that 50 cents a ton is a reasonable figure for the saving.

Q.—What local dealers will submit prices on your coal? A.—I haven't the list, but the sales manager has that, and he is in Joliet.

Q.—Isn't the Material Service corporation one of them? A.—Yes.

Asked about four other concerns which have obtained specifications, Mr. Sawyer thought that they had been given prices by the Northern Illinois Coal company, but was not certain.

Gives Sales Argument.

"What merits do you claim for your coal?" Mr. Sawyer was asked.

"It is low in ash," he responded. "The federal government and the Commercial Testing and Engineering company will tell you it averages 3.74 per cent."

Q.—How many heat units has it? A.—It runs from 12,500 to 13,300.

Q.—How much sulphur? A.—From 1.03 to 1.25 per cent.

Q.—Who are the large private users of your coal? A.—The Alton, Santa Fé, and Belt railroads.

Other companies which have obtained specifications and bidding sheets for all of the seven school districts are: Electric Coal company, Wisconsin Lime and Cement company, Consolidated Coal company, Moulding-Brownell corporation, O'Gara Coal company, Lumaghi Coal company, Old Ben Coal company, and Franklin County Coal company.

Other dealers who ask contracts for certain specified districts are: Calumet Coal company, Downey Coal company, Crerar-Clinch company, Rutter company, Reiner company, Silver Creek company, Alwart Brothers, Ready company, South Chicago Coal and Dock company; Eureka Coal and Dock company, Methe-Wolf company, Consolidated company, and Bishop Halin Sales company.

No Session Called.

No committee meetings of the school board are scheduled for today, but bids will be opened and tabulated. The board itself will meet tomorrow. It is reported that an attempt will be made to have a meeting of the buildings and grounds committee tomorrow before the board convenes.

One of the subordinate appointive officials of the board was asked how power had been conferred upon Mr. Blatchford to order new specifications and new advertisements for coal.

"The board confers authority upon committees to take emergency action during the summer vacation," replied this expert on the rules.

"Is Mr. Blatchford the whole committee?" he was asked.

"He is chairman and you are making a technical point," the official said.

PEARL MYSTERY FLOPS AS DIVER HUNTS FOR BOOK

The great pearl necklace mystery yesterday flopped into the river whence it came when E. J. Zapel, official of the Great Lakes Dock and Dredge company, let it be known that a book and not a rope of rare gems was the object of search by the company's diver, John Carrol, on the river bottom near the Michigan avenue link bridge last Wednesday afternoon.

"A driver for one of the water taxis picked a cashbook out of the water," the diver said, "and I was told to look for other books which it was believed had been thrown into the water." Neither he nor Zapel would divulge the name of the concern for whom the search was made.

The activity of the diver first aroused excitement when it was reported that he had been searching for the $825,000 pearl necklace of Mrs. Hugh Dillman of Detroit, whose yacht was in the harbor at the time. A spokesman for Mrs. Dillman, who is the widow of Horace Dodge, automobile manufacturer, denied that she had lost any of her jewels.

BOB STORE MANAGER.

Two gunmen yesterday entered the Regal shoe store at 4718 Sheridan road, held up the assistant manager, Wendell H. Sieffermann, 1207 Leland avenue, and escaped with $500 from the cash register.

GIRL AND BROKER ESCORT ROBBED OF $1,765 GEMS

Jewelry valued at $1,765 was stolen late last night by three bandits when they forced the car of Frank Bobrytzke, 639 Deming place, to the curb in Michigan avenue at 29th street. With him was Miss Mabel Des Roches, 1419 Berteau avenue. Bobrytzke is an investment broker at 2501 Southport avenue.

The robbers took a ring and a watch valued at $800 and a $10 bill from him and two rings and a watch valued at $965 from Miss Des Roches and drove away in his car.

Kenosha Detectives Aid in Hunt for Woman's Killer

Three detectives left Kenosha, Wis., yesterday, to come to Chicago and aid in the search for Lester (Blackie) Faust, 29 year old speakeasy waiter who has been named as the killer of Mrs. Anne Patterson. The body of Mrs. Patterson, who had been attacked before she was slain, was found near Silver Lake, Wis., last week. Faust has worked in several midwestern cities in the past few years and the detectives indicated that they would visit these places if their search in Chicago was fruitless.

EX-EVANSTON PUBLIC WORKS CHIEF VANISHES

William Blanchard, former commissioner of public works of Evanston, disappeared from his home in the Oak Crest apartments, 1570 Oak avenue, Evanston, last night, and search for him was begun by the police early this morning. Blanchard left his apartment about 7 o'clock to put his car in the garage at the rear of the apartment house, but at midnight he had not returned.

Mrs. Blanchard was unable to talk to the police. The latter found the car was in the garage. They advanced the theory that Blanchard may have been kidnaped by robbers.

Blanchard was appointed to office during the first term of Mayor Pearson in 1914 and continued to hold the post until 1926, when Pearson was defeated.

WHEN SMOKING JADES YOUR TASTE-BUDS

TRY THIS

If your smokes, your food suddenly lack zest — don't blame your favorite brand of tobacco—or the cook.

The fault probably lies with your papillae — the thousands of tiny, sensitive taste-buds clustered on your tongue.

Your papillae, when working properly, give keenest enjoyment to your smokes and food.

But when they're overtaxed, everything tastes flat.

Care for your taste-buds, your papillae. Care for them by avoiding dry mouth, a condition of recognized prevalence.

If you enjoy smoking a lot—and who doesn't!—chew Wrigley's frequently. Wrigley's between smokes, by stimulating a free flow of saliva, keeps the taste-buds moist and fresh and definitely relieves dry mouth. Thus, scientists say, the sensation of taste is intensified.

If you'd like more enjoyment of your smoking and your food, keener appetite and better digestion, chew Wrigley's regularly between smokes and between meals.

At the cigar stand, take your change in Wrigley's.

* All statements in this advertisement are based on scientific research conducted by a nationally known biochemist connected with the medical faculty of a great American university.

Wrigley's P.K.'s—flavored with the choicest of Michigan peppermint. You'll find them most cooling and refreshing after meals, between smokes

PRESS QUIZ INTO DEATH OF NAVY OFFICER'S WIFE

Naval Board, Police, and Dry Director Act.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Police reported today a drinking party at the hotel room of Mrs. Daisy Price, bride of Lieutenant Commander George D. Price, U. S. N., preceded her fatal plunge from a fourth story window of the Alexander Hamilton hotel early yesterday.

In an autopsy statement Mrs. Price, a bride of six weeks, told Assistant District Attorney Walter Miller:

"I was my fault."

Burton Templeton, another guest at the hotel, said he saw Mrs. Price go through the window. He rushed downstairs and asked her if she fell or was thrown. Templeton told police she said she was thrown and that when he asked who did it she replied: "I'd rather not say."

Not Satisfied with Stories.

Allen McGlinn, head of the police homicide squad, said:

"I am not at all satisfied with the conflicting stories told by persons at the drinking party in Mrs. Price's room."

In addition to the police investigation, a naval board of inquiry, the coroner's office, and the federal prohibition administrator were making separate investigations. The coroner will hold an inquest at 10 a. m. today.

The last person known to have been in Mrs. Price's room, Inspector McGlinn said, is Lieut. D. R. Downer Jr., a young aviator in Price's command aboard the aircraft carrier Lexington. Along with other navy officers and their wives Downer said he was in Mrs. Price's room until a late hour.

Captain of Inspectors Charles Dullea said he was investigating a report that Mrs. Price had had a violent quarrel with another woman earlier in the evening.

Husband Not at Party.

Commander Price was not at the party, as he was on duty on the Lexington, but he knew the party was to be held. Mrs. Price had visited her husband on the Lexington Saturday afternoon and left with Downer. Price said to Downer:

"Look after Mrs. Price," and bade them good-by, promising to see them next day. Commander Price said he believed some one, either a guest at the party or a person hiding in the room, had attempted to attack her and that in seeking to escape she fell from the window.

JURY DEBATING FATE OF LEA IN BANK CASE LOCKED UP FOR NIGHT

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Judge V. M. Barnhill ordered the jury considering the case of Col. Luke Lea, Nashville, Tenn., publisher, and three others, charged with defrauding the Central Bank and Trust company of Asheville of $1,300,000, locked up for the night at 8:30 p. m. The judge ordered the jury locked up early because he said its members were weary, having been hearing the case for fourteen days.

In addition to Col. Lea, the defendants are Luke Lea Jr., E. P. Charlett, both of Nashville, Tenn., and Wallace B. Davis of Asheville, president of the bank when it closed last fall.

Attorneys said Judge Barnhill's charge, requiring five hours, was one of the longest on record in this state.

The defense put on no testimony, but attorneys contended all the transactions were legal.

The state sought to show that the four had misapplied the bank's resources and credits through illegal and worthless loans made to Col. Lea and his associates, by improper use of certificates of deposit and cashier's checks, and by "kiting" of checks on a large scale.

OUTLOOK BRIGHT FOR ROULO GIRLS TILL PAPA TALKS

Hangs Blame for Beer on Daughters.

The outlook was bright for the daughters of William Roulo, police magistrate and tax collector of the township of Worth, in United States Commissioner Walker's court yesterday. Both the commissioner and the prosecutor had indicated a desire to dismiss the girls on charges of violating the dry laws.

There was manifest sympathy among the dozen or so observers in the courtroom, for Mr. Roulo's daughters, Mildred, 21, and Olive, 18, are comely girls, and they had told simple and straightforward stories about the Schoolhouses inn at 129d street and Cicero avenue.

"My father was the proprietor of the place," said Mildred. "He had operated it about six weeks. Before that he was in partnership with Joe Peloquin. Olive and I worked there."

Calls Father Proprietor.

"Father was the proprietor," said Olive. "I worked there as a waitress, and my salary was $15 a week."

At this point Assistant United States Attorney Charles Schaub suggested to counsel for Mr. Roulo that the father take the stand. There seemed to be little chance of his obtaining a dismissal, but his testimony would free the girls if their stories were corroborated.

So Mr. Roulo took the stand. Spectators smiled at the girls and they smiled also, apparently moved by filial pride in what their father was about to do for them. But the pleasant atmosphere of the scene quickly vanished.

Puts Blame on Daughters.

"I didn't have anything to do with that place," said Mr. Roulo. "My daughters ran it."

Commissioner Walker held Mr. Roulo and Mildred to the grand jury in bonds of $1,000 each, but discharged Olive. The charges are possession of intoxicating liquor [beer] and maintaining a nuisance.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

POLITICAL CONSEQUENCES OF THE DOLE.

The resignation of the British Labor cabinet followed an irreconcilable division of opinion within the ranks of the Labor party. One faction, led by Premier MacDonald, was insistent upon a balancing of the budget and therefore upon a sharp reduction in expenditures, notably upon a reduction in the treasury's contribution to the unemployment dole and other social services. Mr. MacDonald foresaw a collapse of the British currency and a consequent collapse of British banking and financial prestige unless the budget was balanced; the other faction feared the political consequences of a reduction of the dole and regarded the economic consequences of a government deficit as much the lesser evil.

There was small hope of compromise. Mr. MacDonald no doubt came to his determination reluctantly, knowing well that much of his party's prestige depended upon the continuance of its benefactions to the voters. He avoided the decision as long as possible, hoping that an improvement in business would not force the issue as between the statesman and the politician. If he is perhaps to be blamed for an excess of optimism in recent months, he deserves credit for his determination when the issue could no longer be avoided.

The members of his party who have parted from him will call him the deserter. They will give lip service to the ideal of a balanced budget, but they will say that the way to balance it is not to reduce expenses but to increase taxation. Mr. MacDonald recognized the futility of such proposals. Increased taxation, he must now realize, can only serve to drive British capital to other lands and thereby make matters even worse than they are at present. There is a limit to the exactions which government can place upon the taxpayers and that limit has been passed. When taxation destroys or discourages capital accumulation it can only bring about the flight of capital, evasions, a slackening of effort and, in the long run, national ruin.

There is a lesson in this conflict for America. The dole seemed to justify itself as long as it was intended merely to tide over the period of reconstruction during which some millions of soldiers and munition workers found themselves without means of support. The government came to their rescue then with what was widely regarded as a temporary expedient. The temporary expedient rapidly became a fixed feature of British fiscal policy which no party dared oppose, though the consequences became increasingly apparent.

The dole became a sort of legalized bribe to great masses of voters. Its true nature was disguised. It was urged that it is just and right to take from the rich and give to the poor and that the possession of wealth is, in itself, reprehensible and should be punished.

In consequence, money which should have gone into industry fled or was taxed away with the further result that British industry found it increasingly difficult to hold its markets. A measure intended to relieve unemployment actually promoted unemployment and at the same time tended to pauperize the beneficiaries of the scheme. Precisely the same results may be anticipated from similar ventures in this country. Already we have an instructive parallel in the results of the farm board's efforts to help the farmers. The government grants have not relieved agricultural distress, but they have whetted the appetite of the less successful farmers for more of the same. Ours in a richer country than Britain, but not even in this country can the government undertake the support of the citizens without disastrous consequences.

So far as Britain is concerned, those consequences have not yet been avoided. Mr. MacDonald has seen them, but it is still far from clear that the mass of voters are with him. Other empires have been crushed in the attempt to provide free bread to the masses. It remains to be determined whether the British electorate has been pauperized.

The outlook, however, is far from hopeless. It must be evident to many millions of the petty bourgeoisie that a continuance of present policies is ruinous to them. Heavy taxation bears upon them with far more disastrous effects than upon the men of great wealth. The accumulation of years of effort is endangered by reckless government expenditure and an unbalanced budget. It is to this class of rentiers that the insistence of Mr. MacDonald upon retrenchment will make a powerful appeal. Their interest in the controversy may well determine the future of the British nation.

GOVERNMENT WHEAT FOR RELIEF.

The proposal to use at least part of the government's holdings of wheat in relief work is worthy of serious consideration. Not the least of the benefits promised is its effect upon the national morale. There is widespread protest against a situation in which, with a huge surplus of foodstuffs, many of our people are in want. It is not necessary to accept the current exaggerations of conditions which refer to starving millions in the midst of plenty. No one was allowed to starve last winter and no one will be allowed to starve now. But unemployment throughout the country has deprived many of our people of the means to buy food and other necessaries, and both private and public means will be drawn upon to make proper provision for them. Money will be raised by both private and public agencies to buy food for those who cannot buy it, and it seems sensible to make use of the government wheat, which its policy withholds for sale in the open market, to feed the destitute.

This would be in the nature of a public appropriation of money to accomplish the same object, and while there is no legal obligation on the national government to accept this new responsibility, the existing circumstances would seem to justify some well considered plan to utilize the special resources which our experiment in agrarian relief has left in the national government's hands.

The proposal is for the milling of government wheat and its distribution to responsible relief agencies at a price covering the cost of milling. It is argued that this is a proper contribution to the problem of relief which will not seriously affect the commercial balance, inasmuch as the supply will go to those who are unable now to buy. It is true that relief agencies will be compelled to buy flour, but they will have to buy it from contributed funds and it seems not unfair to ask of the industries and businesses concerned that they waive such profits as would be derived from the purchase of supplies by relief agencies and make contribution in this form.

The proposal should be studied and, if practicable, put into effect.

THE CONGRESSMAN PARKS HIS CAR.

It is disclosed that an act of congress passed last winter revises the District of Columbia traffic regulations to give members of congress exemption from virtually all the parking rules. It is not only provided that certain parking areas shall be for the exclusive use of congressmen but that the congressional sticker on a car permits the driver to park almost anywhere except in the door of a fire engine house or on top of a fire plug.

Washington gets its government from congress and the congressmen have authority to vote themselves exemptions from rules enforced against the subjects of the district. The subjects have no votes and the congressmen cannot be held responsible to them. Government in the capital under congressional legislation is producing one of the most lawless cities in the country, not an unexpectable consequence when a prerogative of authority is immunity from the rules it lays down for common observance.

The members of congress have long maintained the right under Volstead to drink where they pleased—in which privileges they are joined by most of the administrative officers of government—and it is not remarkable that they reserve the right to park where they please.

IN LOCO TEXAS.

A number of Texans who are not wholly preoccupied with oil and the cavalry control of it are writing THE TRIBUNE in heat [it's dry, so you don't notice it] because of remarks passed on the closing of the international bridges into Mexico by the acting secretary of the treasury, Mr. Lowman, himself an eminent Volsteader. Mr. Lowman, it is still remembered even in these snappy days, shut five of the bridges by a 9 o'clock order to keep the Texans out of the drinking holes and gambling joints across the border.

Some of these natives of what but for the incurable optimism of the American people would still be Mexico say, hell, no; it ain't the drinking that they object to. They can do themselves some drinking whenever they want to. The eighteenth amendment, which originated in Texas, was intended to keep northerners from drinking, the northerners generally being a low down, no account lot for whom drinking is much too good. What the Texans wanted Mr. Lowman of the treasury to keep them from doing was gambling. It riled them every time they thought of themselves going across the bridge and shooting their good money into the Mexican games.

Nevertheless, the explanations being duly considered, the picture remains about the same. When the Texans couldn't restrain themselves from going into another country to gamble or drink, or both, they dismissed as impossible an effort at self-discipline and yelled for the federal government to see that they remained at home. The federal government, being what it is, did not reply that the personal habits of Texans were none of its business, but gladly complied, in loco parentis. And Texas, at least, knows what loco means.

Editorial of the Day

DANGEROUS REPEATERS.

[Beloit, Wis., News.]

A young Madison highway vampire, arrested here drunk after he had fled the scene of an Evansville highway accident, in which an eighteen months old baby was killed, leading to a charge on which he is awaiting trial in Janesville, is under arrest again at Madison on a drunken driving charge, following another accident in which he figured last week. A Madison paper says he was fined $50 and costs in Madison on June 10 on a previous drunken driving count.

A paltry penalty like that is certainly no deterrent to repeated like offenses. If incorrigible drunken drivers can't be kept off the roads any other way jail terms at least might have some effect. That's the medicine the Dane county board traffic committee recommends for criminally reckless drivers, but according to press reports the Madison judge is not very sympathetic with the idea.

Seemingly figuring in a fatal accident for which authorities consider him blameworthy is about the severest lesson a youth could have. When instead of being full of remorse he gets full of booze, and while still awaiting trial for one highway death goes out and drunkenly careens over the roads, hazarding the lives of others again, he is apparently impervious to ordinary stern teachings of the school of experience.

It ought to be possible permanently to deprive such highway vampires of driving privileges. They are a chronic menace to others.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. WAKE-LINE

THE WAKE-LINE has a suggestion for raising painlessly $50,000,000 or more for the relief of the unemployed this winter. Probably our suggestion will not get anywhere, owing to certain conventions and scruples, but over in our usual habitat on the sports pages we have a turf saying, "You can't be ruled off for trying." So we're trying.

Our suggestion is a national lottery, with the profits or "take" of say 10 or 20 per cent to go to the relief fund. Now this may sound chimerical, for there are laws against lotteries, and all that sort of thing, but just think it over anyway. Statesmen, if any, at Washington are welcome to the idea without charge.

Now it is an admitted fact that many millions in this country are spent for foreign lottery or "sweeps" tickets—a "sweeps" being a lottery on some noted turf event. These tickets are "bootlegged." Some of these lotteries and "sweeps" are rank frauds. Others pay the prizes which they advertise. We had occasion to look into the workings of one of these latter. It was honestly conducted, so far as we could determine, but after payments to charity, selling agents and various taxes, purchasers of tickets received back in prizes about 35 per cent of the total amount paid in.

If a national lottery were authorized in this country it could be conducted for not more than 10 per cent selling expense through government agents or the postoffices. Even if the government "took off" 20 per cent for the unemployed, there would be a return of 70 per cent to investors, which is more than any sweep of which we are fully informed.

How many tickets at $1 each do you suppose would be sold in monthly drawings of this kind for five months? Would you not buy one or more? Our guess would be $100,000,000 per month, certainly more than $50,000,000 per month. Think of the profits! You'd be surprised how many letters come in our mail asking where tickets for these foreign "sweeps" may be purchased—information we cannot supply, according to the postoffice department.

Congress meets in December. It would take some time to modify the anti-lottery law. The money, however, could be appropriated and spent, then recovered from the lottery profits when authorized. Why, we'll even advance $50,000,000 ourself, so sure are we of its success, if any one can find it on our person.

We're familiar with objections to government participating in the profits of gambling and all that. Dollar tickets would not hurt any one, and some persons of slender means would be among the prize winners. We have a long string of other favorable arguments, including the bromide, "Everything in life is a gamble."

Please bear in mind this thought emanates from the Wake-Line and does not purpose to reflect the views of any other department. While it is daring, possibly impracticable, we think it's a good thought at that.

SOME POSTURE CONSIDERATIONS.

THERE is a simple method by which one can tell whether a lateral curvature of the spine is structural or habitual. That is, whether it has resulted from disease of the vertebrae or was a result of such habits as standing or sitting improperly, or writing with one shoulder too high. The person bends forward and tries to touch the hands to the ground. The trunk should be bare. If, in this position, the lateral curvature disappears, and there are no humps or bumps, the curvature is functional. This is one of the conclusions of a study of posture and physical fitness made by Dr. A. Klein and Miss L. C. Thomas.

Another conclusion is that turning out of the toes is the most frequently encountered postural defect. Nearly four-fifths of the children had it. In this study the poorly nouriahed children toed out the most. Those with thin, narrow bodies were most likely to have this habit. The toeing out position of the foot is poor from the mechanical standpoint. Children who stand that way tire quickly. A considerable part of them had poor posture in other details.

A bad type of body build was one in which the lower ribs met at a sharp angle over the pit of the stomach. If these lower ribs run upward and join the lower end of the breastbone, so as to form a sharp angle and a narrow space, the child is liable to develop into an adult with dropped stomach. Adults with dropped stomach—visceroptosis—are liable to have low blood pressure and to indulge in a multitude of symptoms.

Persons with poor muscular development are liable to have prominent lower abdomens. This is true of children as well as of adults. In addition to the tendency to sag because of muscle weakness, this region of the abdomen below the navel is one of the first places in which excess fat is laid down. In consequence, in most adults out of condition and in many children, the front of the abdomen, from the navel down, is shaped like a new moon—or worse.

In examining a child for poor posture, it is important to look for this defect. A child with an abdomen that is flat in this region should be scored high on posture. If a person is told to draw his abdomen in he will breathe in, draw his shoulders and chest up, and retract his abdomen indirectly. At least, that's the way a flabby person does. One with good muscles and good posture will draw the abdomen flat by direct muscle action.

One of the important things taught in posture classes is how to stand straight without throwing the abdomen out. If the muscles are well developed and in good tone they will hold the abdomen flat. If the abdomen is flat it will not be selected as a dumping ground for fat.

NOSE BLEEDING.

Mrs. H. S. D. writes: For the last two weeks the left side of my nose has been bleeding about every other morning around 11 o'clock. It always starts by a violent itching, and before I think I give it a good rub and the bleeding starts. It never lasts very long—just enough to soil a handkerchief. Towards the last there seems to be some mucus in it.

I am 28, in good health, work in an office all day, so never get a lot of sunshine except on Saturday and Sunday. I am not anemic—in fact, have always been said to have too much blood. I have not had a blow on the nose, and there is no pain to indicate I might have an abscess. Have not had headaches for weeks, eat light summer foods, and swim a lot. My weight is about right.

Should I have my nose examined, or is it something that may pass with the heat? Could it be an infection from swimming that would cause no pain and give no sign but this?

REPLY.

This occurrence annoys you; but it may be helpful. Why do anything? If it is worse than appears, have a physician examine your nose. He will probably find a bleeding point. When such points are cauterized the nosebleed stops.

MAY BE SOMETHING ELSE.

A French mother writes:

1. What is the cause of hay fever in a child two years of age?
2. Is it contagious long?
3. Is it necessary to keep the child indoors?

REPLY.

1. If it is hay fever it is because the child is sensitive to pollen and there is an excess of pollen in the air breathed.
2. It is not contagious.
3. That is one method of treatment. Some use it with satisfaction. Are you certain your child has hay fever? He may be sensitized to something else, such as rats, mice, cats, dogs, birds.

UNDER AGE DISCHARGE.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—[Friend of the People.]—I have had one and one-half years' service in the navy. I was taken out at the age of 16 for being under age. Is an under age discharge considered as dishonorable or honorable? In taking the police examination would I be entitled to credit as an ex-service man? Would this help or hurt me in my efforts?

A. R.

Under age discharge from the United States navy is considered honorable. Upon furnishing proof of his true age by birth certificate, military preference will be given. Applicants for the examination for patrolman must be between the ages of 21 and 28 years [must not have reached their 28th birthday] at the time the physical examination started, viz., July 7, 1931.

JOINT TENANCY VS. WILL.

Deerfield, Ill., Aug. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Where a husband and wife have their home, bank account, stock, etc., in joint tenancy [a] would it be necessary to have their holdings probated, in the event one dies, or [b] would it revert automatically to the survivor? 2. Would it be advisable to have a will drawn, when there is only one mate left, so that children would have no trouble, or would the joint tenancy of the parents revert to the children when the last parent passed away? There are four married daughters. 3. Which is best or safest, a will or joint tenancy, in order that expensive court proceedings could be avoided? 4. Do all estates have to pay an inheritance tax, or does it only apply to large estates? 5. Does it always take a year before the survivor or survivors can get possession of an estate? 6. What can be done in a case where a party exchanged some 7 per cent second mortgage gold bonds for 6 per cent first mortgage bonds, because they were supposed to be more safe, and the first interest coupon has been in default? R. S. H.

1. [a] No. [b] Yes.
2. The will could remove the necessity for furnishing bond on the probate proceedings and, hence, might be an economy even though you are satisfied with statutory distribution.
3. Depends on which best suits your purposes.
4. Depends upon the size of the separate gifts and upon the relationship to the beneficiaries.
5. A year must always elapse before the personal representatives can be required to distribute, but he can distribute sooner if he chooses.
6. There would be no remedy against the broker on the bare facts stated. The holder should look to the maker of the bonds.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 25, 1915.

CHICAGO.—The Rev. Edmund Kayser, 40 years old, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran church in Tolleston, Ind., a suburb of Gary, was found murdered in a vacant lot adjoining his parsonage. Police believe he may have been slain by Russians because of his advocacy of the German cause.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Administration officials were encouraged to believe that there would be no necessity for a rupture in the relations between the United States and Germany as a result of the sinking of the Arabic on Aug. 19. This belief was certified when Secretary of State Lansing received a telegram from Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, asking the United States to withhold its judgment on the Arabic case until Berlin has had an opportunity to make a statement. Count von Bernstorff said the Berlin foreign office had not yet received a report on the Arabic incident. He concluded his message with this statement which he said he had received in instructions from Berlin: "If Americans should actually have lost their lives, this would naturally be contrary to our intentions. The German government would deeply regret the fact and beg to tender sincere sympathies to the American government."

PARIS.—The war office gave out the following official communication: "The artillery again today on both sides showed marked activity in Belgium, in the region of Boeingat, and in France in Artois, in the sector to the northeast of Arras and between the Somme and Oise. The enemy dropped a few shells on Mont Didier, but our batteries intervened and silenced the German guns."

AUGUST 25, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Following the injunction issued by Judge Kohlsaat restraining striking employés from interfering with the business of Allis-Chalmers company, Judge John H. Baker of the United States Circuit court at Indianapolis, sitting at Goshen, Ind., issued a more sweeping temporary injunction for the protection of the W. B. Conkey company at Hammond, Ind. The order restrains eighty striking pressmen from interfering with the other employés or the business of the Conkey company. The order is said to be the most sweeping ever issued by a federal court in the west. In the meantime, pickets stood about the Allis-Chalmers plant and patrolled streets in the vicinity despite the order of the court.

CHICAGO.—Maj. Gen. Arthur MacArthur arrived in Chicago and hurried to his apartments in the Auditorium hotel. There for the first time in three and one-half years he saw his wife and son, Douglas, the son coming from West Point on a furlough. Gen. MacArthur left Manila on July 5.

WILMINGTON, N. C.—Henry M. Flagler, Standard Oil magnate, recently divorced from his insane wife, was married at Kenansville to Miss Mary Lily Kenan, daughter of W. R. Kenan of this city.

AUGUST 25, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Garfield slept well last night and awoke in the morning much refreshed. It was discovered during the day that pus had begun to form in the parotid gland and an incision was made. This had the effect of increasing the pulse temporarily, but it soon subsided and no trouble from the glandular swelling is now expected. The latest bulletin reports higher temperature than on the day before, giving it as 100.7, with the pulse 108. The removal of the President from the White House is being seriously considered. Dr. D. W. Bliss wired to Dr. Agnew of Philadelphia in reference to the matter and Dr. Agnew hurried to this city for a consultation. It is believed the question of removal would not have been taken up unless the situation was very grave. It is understood that it was proposed to remove Mr. Garfield to Long Branch, but Dr. Bliss said that removal would be equivalent to death and Dr. Boynton said that it would be just as wise to put a sword into the President's bowels. No announcement was made, but it was said the surgeons are likely to decide against the removal.

HARTFORD, Conn.—Little Brown Jug, pacing horse owned by H. V. Bemis of Chicago, lowered the pacing record to 2:11¾, beating by half a second Sleepy Tom's record of 2:12¼, and also paced the three fastest consecutive mile heats ever paced or trotted, namely, 2:11¾, 2:11¾, 2:12½.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—The solemn and impressive ceremony of the consecration of the Rev. Kilian Flasch of St. Francis seminary, near Milwaukee, as bishop of La Crosse, took place at Pio Nono college. A large attendance of church dignitaries was present.

JOHN LA LIME.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—THE TRIBUNE in its report of the celebration of the 119th anniversary of the Fort Dearborn massacre states that John Kinzie was the "first permanent white settler of Chicago." The fact is that John Kinzie killed the first permanent white settler of Chicago, John La Lime.

The original bill of sale of Du Sable's property at Chicago, which I have examined, shows that in 1800 John La Lime bought Du Sable's property at Chicago for 6,000 livres [about $1,200]. This Du Sable property which La Lime bought in 1800 included a house 22x40 feet in dimensions; a horse mill, which Capt. Whistler described as a "grist mill worked by horses"; a bakehouse, dairy house, poultry house, smokehouse, a stable, and a barn. The live stock which La Lime bought of Du Sable included thirty head of cattle, two mules, forty-four hens, thirty-eight hogs, and two calves.

La Lime was conducting a reputable, civilized establishment at Chicago when the first Fort Dearborn garrison arrived at the mouth of the Chicago river in 1803, and it was due chiefly to the influence of La Lime and Capt. William Wells that the Indians made no hostile demonstration against the establishment of Fort Dearborn.

From the time of the establishment of Fort Dearborn in 1803 until his death in 1812 La Lime was the official Indian interpreter at Chicago, and had always shown himself a true friend of the Indians and the Americans alike. La Lime was of good character and stood high in the esteem of Capt. Heald and the soldiers of the garrison. In view of these well authenticated facts, together with many more that could be cited, it is certainly erroneous to refer to John Kinzie as the "first permanent white settler of Chicago."

ERNEST BRADSHAW.

WISCONSIN TAXES.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 12.—About a month ago there appeared a letter in your Vox Pop column signed by Mrs. C. Hoffman complaining about the high Chicago taxes. She stated that she paid $127 taxes in 1927 on real estate valued at $10,000 and $198 taxes in 1929.

Two weeks ago another article appeared bearing a La Crosse, Wis., date line signed Chicago Citizen, stating that Chicago has no reason to complain. We will emphatically state that Chicago has no reason to complain.

We at La Crosse, Wis., are not only paying high taxes now, but have done so for many years. Taxes in La Crosse have always been assessed at full valuation. The mill rate for the last ten years was as follows: 1921, 26 mills; 1922, 26 mills; 1923, 30 mills; 1924, 30 mills; 1925, 27 mills; 1926, 27 mills; 1927, 27 mills; 1928, 30 mills; 1929, 32 mills; 1930, 28 mills.

By this you will note that the taxes on Mrs. Hoffman's property at La Crosse for 1927 would be $270 instead of $127 as Chicago assessed it. The 1928 taxes are not mentioned, but presume they also were $127, against $300 in La Crosse. Our taxes for 1929 for the same valuation were $320. Chicago taxes for 1927, 1928, and 1929 were $127, $127, and $198; total, $452. La Crosse taxes were for the same period $270, $300, and $320; total, $890. Nearly double the amount.

These mill rates are based on full valuation, with no depreciation allowed; this means assessments are based on actual cost of replacement, and not two-thirds of one-half of the actual value. To illustrate: two comparatively new pieces of real estate changed hands here recently; one a factory assessed at $176,800, which was sold for $125,000; another, a fireproof office building assessed at $51,000, was sold for $40,000. A large residence assessed at $57,975 could not be sold for $38,000 after advertising this price in the local newspaper. Smaller residences are assessed in the same proportion. They are frequently assessed for more than they can be sold for.

The residence the writer purchased some time ago was assessed for less more than the sale price. The assessment would not be reduced to the purchase price and now is assessed $1,000 above this. You do not get a bargain in buying real estate here at assessed valuation.

In addition to this we pay a full valuation personal property tax, a graduating state income tax up to 4 per cent, state income surtax, teachers' pension surtax, federal income tax, and 4 cent gasoline tax.

This was not quite enough, so the state legislature attempted to pass a tax on stock dividends this year also. This in spite of the fact that the United States Supreme court has passed on this years ago and declared it unconstitutional, as it taxes the same profit twice by the same taxing body—the first time as state corporation income tax and then again as the profit is passed on to the stockholder as dividends.

Chicago should consider itself lucky in having such low taxes. Instead of this they are complaining continually. What would you do if you had just double the taxes, as we do? Being straighten out your assessment roll middle, pay your light taxes willingly, and realize "when you are well off," as Walt used to say.

LA CROSSE TAXPAYER.

A CRITIC-COMPOSER PLEASED.

New York, Aug. 21.—I enjoyed the brilliant broadcast of the Chicago Music Festival. Music has never been expected to interest as many people as world series baseball, but in Chicago apparently it does. Congratulations to THE TRIBUNE on your success and your plans for future festivals. I expect to hear your world festival in nineteen thirty-three. DEEMS TAYLOR.

SOMETHING FROM OLD CHINA.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—The language of stamps is of Chinese origin and evolved as a variation of the ordinary Chinese script toward the close of the Chou dynasty, circa 300 B. C. There are many possible readings of any given telegraph, but I will mention two of the most common signs and their meanings. When a friend sends a letter upon which the stamp has been pasted upside down the sign indicates that his vision is impaired, and, by implication, that he is contemplating the purchase of glasses. If he has stamped the letter so that it comes to you marked "insufficient postage," it means that he is short of funds, and it may be interpreted as a gentle appeal for a loan.

I am glad to be of help to the Madison, Wis., Oak Parker whose friend sent her a letter with the stamp "cocked crookedly." The message may be roughly translated as follows: "I take this short method of informing you that, having no stamps in the house, I entrusted this missive to my little brother, who was spinning a yo yo with one hand when he affixed the stamp at the postoffice and who didn't care whether or not you got the letter, anyway." Ingenually ingenious, these celestials.

E. J. WILSON.

IN FAVOR OF SPORTS.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—Will herewith take the liberty and write, since I see our good paper say this again and always promote good sport, which I always was a great believer in, and as a token I send my picture to prove my part. We should like to take an interest by presenting an honor patrol at Soldiers' field on your great tivoli and field day for universal sport.

$3,194,937 ROAD WORK IS TIED UP BY WAGE PROTEST

Downstaters Halt Plans in Chicago Area.

BY HAL FOUST.

The award of contracts for $3,194,937 worth of highway work in the Chicago metropolitan area was indefinitely postponed yesterday because ten taxpayers of Johnson, Union, and Alexander counties filed a protest against the state requiring the union scale for road labor in Cook, Lake, and Du Page counties. The downstate taxpayers object on the ground that the union wage scale in the metropolitan area is too high.

The protest was made under the prevailing wage act, sponsored by union labor, passed by the recent general assembly and signed by Gov. Emmerson. It provides that a contractor on public construction shall pay wages at the rate prevailing for similar work in the vicinity of the projects; that the state shall announce the rates in its advertisements for bids, and that any ten taxpayers can protest against the state's figures.

Downstate Work Tied Up.

Union officials, headed by R. G. Soderstrom, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, have protested against the rates fixed by the highway department outside of the metropolitan area, tying up $6,000,000 worth of work. The state did not follow the union scale in fixing its downstate wage rates.

"This makes a total of $9,000,000 worth of road work indefinitely postponed due to difficulties in administering a law requiring the state to fix the rate of wages to be paid by contractors," said Director Cleaveland. "We have been able to award only $2,807,000 worth of highway contracts since the law went into effect on July 1."

The rate set for common labor in the metropolitan area, the union scale, is 97½ cents an hour. For most of the other counties of the state the common labor figure was 35 cents an hour. The objectors from downstate contend that the metropolitan rate is too high.

Satisfied with Rates.

The protests are to be heard by a board of three members, which will hold its next session on Friday in Springfield. So far, hearings on the protests of the union leaders against downstate rates have developed that in many counties the residents are satisfied with the scale fixed by the state and are bitter against labor which is blocking public construction that would relieve distress of unemployment.

The metropolitan projects which were blocked yesterday would have furnished employment directly and indirectly to about 3,000 men. Furthermore, some of the improvements are urgently needed by traffic. The jobs are as follows:

LAKE STREET—Gap at Ontarioville.

KENSEEN ROAD—Bridge over Des Plaines river.

GOVERNOR'S HIGHWAY—Paving subways at Indiana and a half mile of pavement at Bay Oaks.

ROUTE 83—[New north and south road]. from Evanston-Elgin road to Lake street, Addison, 6.06 miles; grade separation with Ingersoll road near Glen Ellyn; grade separation with Ogden avenue.

NORTH AVENUE — Through Elmhurst, 1.61 miles.

3RD STREET—Bridge over Salt creek.

ROUTE 83—[New north and south road.] from Lake street at Bartlett to North avenue, 6.63 miles.

ROUTE 66—A by-pass for Ogden avenue around Naperville, 2.3 miles.

Bids received by the state on Aug. 21 for $1,387,000 worth of metropolitan road work are not affected by this protest from downstate according to Director Cleaveland and the award of these contracts can proceed.

Mrs. Beatrice Edelstein, 1437 South Kenneth avenue, testified before Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday that her husband, Louis, told her on Feb. 15 that he could not understand how he had managed to live with one woman for four years, and proposed calling a conference of his five former wives to discuss the matter. Judge Trude granted her a divorce on a cruelty charge, a $750 settlement, and $7 a week for the support of her son, Selwyn, 3 years old. Edelstein is employed by his father in the Edel Neckwear company, 19 South Franklin street.

MISS ANGELA ATWELL.

New York, Aug. 24.—Miss Angela Atwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Atwell, will make her professional stage debut to a New York audience on Wednesday night, in the première of John Golden's new play, "After Tomorrow."

Miss Atwell, who has appeared in several productions out of town and last winter acted as understudy in a Broadway production, received her early dramatic schooling in Paris and later studied in this country.

She is a sister of George Atwell Jr., husband of the former Jean Cochran, daughter of the Princess Hohenlohe-Schillingsfurst and the late Gifford Cochran. Her parents are among New York's social leaders.

GIFFORD GROUP TO SPUR DRIVE FOR RELIEF FUND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—A national campaign to raise the vast sums needed to alleviate distress during the coming winter will be staged early this fall, Walter S. Gifford, head of the President's organization on unemployment relief, disclosed today. The funds will be raised by state and local groups for local use in each state and community. No funds will be collected or disbursed by the national organization.

W. S. GIFFORD.

As explained today, the national drive will be for the purpose of aiding local communities to fill community chests or raise such relief funds as they believe will be necessary to prevent acute suffering. The plan is to make a national appeal for citizens to support the relief organizations in their communities so that each state will handle its own unemployment crisis. As much as 200 millions may be asked for.

Plans for the national drive to raise local funds will be perfected tomorrow, when Mr. Gifford meets representatives of national relief and welfare organizations. No date for the drive has been set. Mr. Gifford hopes it will be possible to have all the welfare organizations, including the Red Cross, the state relief agencies, community chests, and other local groups, stage their drives for funds at the same time.

NEW YORK WILL ASK STATE AND FEDERAL AID FOR ITS JOBLESS

New York, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—State and federal authorities will be asked to share the unemployment burden now being borne by the city, Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee announced today at a special meeting of the board of estimate.

The board met to consider adding $20,000,000 to next year's budget for unemployment relief, but deferred action until tomorrow. It did, however, appropriate an additional $2,000,000 of the $10,000,000 authorized by the state to be expended in giving three days' employment weekly at $5 a day.

The question of state and federal aid was raised by Henry H. Klein, attorney, who suggested that the city should be aided because of the number of transients stranded here.

KIDNAPS HIS 2 CHILDREN, FLEES IN AN AIRPLANE

Father Later Abandons Craft and Disappears.

Bishop, Cal., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—California today had its first aerial kidnaping. The details, so far as have been learned, make it as thrilling a story as ever was turned out by the Los Angeles scenario writers.

Henry Billingsley and his wife had separated. The wife was awarded custody of their two children, Gene, aged 8, and Junior, aged 5. She brought them here while Billingsley remained in their old home at Lone Pine.

Appears at Wife's Home.

Early today Billingsley appeared at the home of his wife, seized the two children, and took them away in an automobile, telling his wife he intended to take them up in an airplane and wreck the plane, killing himself and the children.

Shortly afterward Billingsley arrived at the local airport and hired a plane and pilot for a short ride.

After Billingsley and the children had entered the plane, the pilot warmed up the motors. Billingsley induced the pilot to leave the plane for a moment and then leaped to the controls and left the ground, disappearing in the sky to the west.

Flies Plane Twice Before.

Billingsley had flown a plane twice before but never alone. His experience did not make him capable, pilots said, of a flight, especially because of the mountains surrounding this valley.

No plane was available for immediate pursuit, but telegrams and wireless messages broadcast over California, Nevada, and Arizona soon had scores of planes in the air searching for the red and silver machine of the kidnaper.

The plane was reported sighted on the way toward Reno and finally speeding toward Los Angeles.

Grounded in Dry Lake.

Finally a pilot saw the plane grounded undamaged on the bed of a dry lake near Lone Pine. Automobile tracks were seen on the bed of the dry lake. It is thought that Billingsley had placed the automobile there in advance, taken the plane to the spot and landed safely in spite of his inexperience and then fled by auto.

He is supposed to be hiding in Los Angeles, only 80 miles away.

GARAGE OWNER SLUGGED; DIES OF HIS INJURIES

Mathew Lampert, 46 years old, 1401 South 59th court, Cicero, part owner of the Jewel garage, 5806 West Roosevelt road, was found fatally beaten early this morning at the front entrance of his place. He had been slugged over the head, apparently with a gasoline tank pump handle. He died in Frances Willard hospital without regaining consciousness.

Lampert was found by the Cicero police after George Palm, 5815 Roosevelt road, called them and told them a robbery was in progress at the garage, which is on the line between Chicago and Cicero. They found no witnesses to the slugging. Palm and Norman Abbott, who live at the same place, told the police they saw two men walk away from the garage after the slugging. Police were not certain the slaying was done in a robbery.

NANKING SEEKS IMMEDIATE TRIAL OF DR. TUCKER

Missionaries Condemn Slayer.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 24.—The Nationalist government at Nanking today demanded an early trial of Dr. Francis F. Tucker, American missionary, for the killing of a Chinese employé of a mission hospital at Techow, Shantung province. Dr. Tucker said he thought the slain man was a burglar.

DR. FRANCIS TUCKER. [A. P. Photo.]

The government made its demand in a formal note to United States Minister Nelson T. Johnson. George Sellett, prosecuting attorney in the United States court in China, established under the extra territorial treaty, has not yet taken any steps to bring the missionary to trial.

While the majority of the missionaries, numbering more than 1,000, assembled for the torid spell at Peitaiho Beach have applauded the action of the United States in getting custody of Dr. Tucker for trial in a consular court, certain members of the Congregationalist church, represented in China by the American Board mission, feel that the Chinese should be assured that the killing is not indorsed by the missionaries themselves.

Missionaries Condemn Act.

Twenty-seven of the Congregationalist missionaries have sent a resolution to the Chinese government and to the home board declaring that Dr. Tucker as a missionary was not justified in taking human life.

"The hospital authorities have produced evidence that the man killed was a robber, and that he was unintentionally killed while fleeing from capture," the resolution said. "No matter how true this evidence may be the outcome was most tragic and regrettable.

Disapproves of Firearms.

"Although Dr. Tucker, in protecting the hospital property, felt it necessary to shoot, certainly the taking of human life is contrary to the purpose of a missionary in coming to China. Accordingly the present group absolutely disapproves of this fatal shooting, unintentional though it was, and likewise disapproves of a missionary using deadly firearms to protect property."

The resolution, however, does not represent the view of all the Congregational missionaries in China nor of many of the other Christian missionaries. It is believed that its passage will strengthen the hand of the Tang-Pu, the party organization that dictates to the government at Nanking, and also play into the hands of the government for the immediate revocation of the treaty of extraterritoriality, in which event the lives of thousands of missionaries would be endangered.

The HOT SUN is Severe on HAIR!

But don't let it ruin yours!

1 Swimming is mighty tough on hair. It washes every trace of life from the fibres. It mats the hair, saps the hair's natural oils, leaves it brittle and cracked and dried up. Protect your hair with Vitalis.

2 If you play bareheaded under the blazing sun, you take chances with your hair. Scorching rays beat down . . . split the fibres . . . bleach the pigment . . . dry out the nourishing oils. And a shower doesn't help a bit! Protect your hair with Vitalis before you venture on court, links, or waterway.

3 While you're bareheaded, your hair's baked lifeless by the scorching sun. Even under a hat, perspiration soaks it. Vitalis, applied every few days, will protect you against the steaming sweat that thoroughly deadens and ruins the appearance of hair.

4 When your barber recommends Vitalis he plays the doctor as well as the salesman. He sees the actual condition of your hair and he recommends a prescription that will make it newly alive and healthy. Why not take his advice before it's too late?

Keep it Healthy, Manageable and Neat with Vitalis

WHAT SUMMER does to your hair is a crime and a shame . . . If the hot sun doesn't get it, the water will!

It snarls. It's unkempt. It's dry, brittle, harum-scarum . . . But that isn't the worst. It's lifeless. Robbed of its nourishing oils. Headed straight for the thinning stage and dandruff.

2-Minute Summer Treatment

Want to play 36 holes of golf . . . 7 sets of tennis . . . take a long, long swim—and still have your hair manageable, healthy, neat?

Then just before you dash out for your day's sport, massage Vitalis into your scalp. It won't take 2 minutes!

Vitalis prevents sun and water from drying out your hair and endangering its very existence. Usually, two or three applications a week are enough. But if the sun is scorching, give your scalp another quick application after your shower.

A patent-leather look? No, sir! Vitalis gives a natural lustre to the hair. It's a pure product that hair experts use and praise. Rubbed into the scalp, it stimulates the circulation and checks the dryness that leads to dandruff and falling hair.

Ask your barber! He knows what it will do. He knows why the best shops sell more Vitalis than any other hair preparation. And your druggist has Vitalis. Get a bottle.

WHERE PEOPLE BUY WHAT THEY WANT

....and are inclined to want a lot.....

DETROIT'S consumer buying power---nearly a billion dollars annually for retail purchases ---is largely concentrated in 25 out of 41 districts.

In these 25 districts incomes range from $2,500 to the fantastic, yet very real, figures you have read about.

In these districts one profit-wise grocery chain operates 79% of its stores---and the drug chains, 89%.

And in these districts live 79% of the substantial people who read the Detroit Free Press.

Depression or boom, it is from these districts and these people that advertisers get their steady, profitable response.

There can be no guesswork about the Free Press audience. We know who our readers are, how much they earn, and what they spend. They are live prospects for products and investments and services that pre-supposes a cultivated desire for the best, plus financial ability to indulge such desire.

Isn't it logical to place your first and major appropriation where consumer dollars are most plentiful and most accessible? Particularly if the newspaper making the contact is a trusted family friend throughout the market.

BERWYN POLICE CHIEF ACCUSED OF BEATING AUTOIST

Driver Tells Magistrate of His Injuries.

Chief of Police Thomas C. Bartunek of Berwyn was charged yesterday with having beaten M. E. Brooks in a cell of the Berwyn jail on a charge of driving without lights.

JOSEPH BRAUN.

Brooks, former president of the Cicero board of education, is district manager of the Universal Car Loading and Distributing company. He lives at 1311 South Clarence avenue, Berwyn.

Brooks first made the charge before Police Magistrate John Eberhardt of Berwyn when arraigned on complaints of driving without lights, of resisting an officer, and of disorderly conduct. He testified before Magistrate Eberhardt that he was arrested as he was driving into a private garage at the rear of his home at about 2 o'clock on the morning of Aug. 15, after returning from a banquet at the Park Ridge Country club.

Dragged from Car, He Says.

"I was dragged out of my car and hauled to the police station," he testified in response to questions from Joseph H. Braun, general counsel for the Chicago Motor club. "At the station, I was put in a cell without being permitted to telephone my family or friends. Half an hour later the chief came into my cell with the two officers who had arrested me.

"The chief knocked me to the floor with the swing of a blackjack across the side of my head. I covered my head with my arms and tried to protect my face. I was struck about twenty times and finally passed out.

"When I finally got out of jail, about 7:30 a. m., to appear in court, I was released by the judge on my own recognizance. I'm under a doctor's care and he tells me my left eardrum has been broken and that my sight has been impaired."

Testimony of Policemen.

Sgt. Joseph Pilot and Patrolman Paul Michalsky, who made the arrest, testified that they had followed Brooks' car after seeing it zigzag down the street without any lights. According to the policemen's story they were cursed when they stopped the automobile, and Brooks refused to get out of the car. They said Brooks was under the influence of liquor. Brooks declared he did not drink and that the lights of his car were burning.

The trial was continued until tomorrow after Chief Bartunek was summoned by the court but could not be found. Brooks with Attorney Braun then went to the office of State's Attorney Swanson, who told them that an investigation of alleged police brutality in the suburb was being made.

DIETERICH HAT SEEN IN SENATE RING TOMORROW

Confers in Chicago with Leaders.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Chicagoans who saw him in action in the loop yesterday were convinced that William H. Dieterich of Beardstown, now congressman at large, will announce his candidacy for the United States senate during the Democratic day rally at the state fair in Springfield tomorrow.

W. H. DIETERICH.

After admitting in his home town on Sunday that he was "seriously contemplating" the senate race, Dieterich was seen in Chicago yesterday in conference with various Democratic leaders and it was reported that he was so well received that his candidacy now is considered certain.

Topped Field in Election.

If he does announce his candidacy it is believed here that he will have the inside track on the nomination next April. He ran a strong race last November, topping the field of four major candidates for congressman at large by 87,164, receiving a total of 1,062,606 votes, of which 610,277 came from Cook county.

This last figure is taken as definite proof of Dieterich's popularity in Chicago, due to the impression that he, a downstater, made during the campaign. He is considered much stronger here than Scott Lucas, former national judge advocate of the American Legion, a resident of Havana, who has been looking over the senatorial situation for several weeks.

It is the idea of the Chicago leaders that they must have a Chicagoan as the nominee for governor. There is already one Democratic United States senator from this city. Therefore, they say, the nominee for that office against the incumbent, Otis F. Glenn, whose renomination is conceded for the present, must come from downstate. Thus Dieterich fits into their picture.

Expect Barrett Announcement.

Another definite announcement is expected on Democratic day. Edward J. Barrett, state treasurer, is giving a luncheon at the St. Nicholas hotel before the oratorical program at the fair grounds opens in the afternoon and it is predicted that his boom for state auditor will be launched as soon as the food has been disposed of. Barrett, a political unknown at the time, upset the organization in the primary last year, but now stands well with its leaders.

There are rumors that there will be some announcements during the Republican demonstration at the fair on "Governor's day," Thursday. From downstate there come reports that friends of State Senator Earl B. Searey of Springfield intend to press him to announce himself as a candidate for lieutenant governor. It has been believed for some time that John G. Oglesby, lieutenant governor under Frank O. Lowden, also will enter the race.

McCarthy Named in Rumors.

Other rumors concern Frank A. McCarthy, state representative from Elgin. These are that he will announce himself as an aspirant for one of the state offices to be filled next year, but they are not specific as to which office it will be.

President James of the West park board, who has been rounding up the Chicago Republican organization workers, announced last night that the excursion to Springfield Thursday morning will consist of three trains carrying 1,400 men and women, including approximately forty regular ward committeemen. The trains will leave over the Alton at 10 o'clock daylight saving time.

Robber Returns Jewelry with a Friendly Warning

Mrs. Cecil Murphy, 5458 Everett avenue, yesterday received a small package in the mail that contained two silver bracelets and a gold ring that a bandit took from her last Saturday night. A note in the package read: "I found you were telling the truth about the stuff not being worth much so I am returning it. But don't wear it on the street because it's very tempting and you might meet another fellow in the racket that is not as much of a gentleman as I am."

TRAIL SWINDLER WHO DECEIVED CATHOLIC PRIEST

Toledo, O., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Trail of a confidence man who promised Catholic charities and institutions hundreds of thousands of dollars led to Toledo today after a Windsor, Ont., priest had been swindled.

The fugitive was here Saturday, accompanied by a pseudo nurse, police say. Detectives said the swindler had marked St. Vincent's hospital and the Knights of Columbus here for his schemes.

The swindler first went to the Hotel Dieu, Catholic hospital at Windsor, where he won the confidence of the Rev. J. P. M. J. Nyenhenus, representing himself as the heir of a steel magnate.

"I am going down to Toledo to settle my father's estate," he said, "and when everything is set I'll give you $500,000 more. Take these checks for $25,000 and $10,000 and get a start with the expansion of your good work."

Father Nyenheus was told ready cash was needed until the court probated the estate. He gave $450, which is still in the hands of the "heir." The checks were found worthless.

TWO ALIENS LEAVE AMERICA FOR EVERY ONE WHO COMES IN

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Secretary Doak announced today that two aliens left the United States during the first seven months of 1931 for every one admitted to this country.

Departures totaled 57,476 during that period and admissions totaled 24,818. Of the emigrant departures, 11,315 aliens were deported; 7,184 subject to deportation were permitted to depart voluntarily and 38,586 left the country of their own volition.

During April, May, June and July the department sent 831 indigent aliens back to their native countries. These people were sent home at their own request.

U. S. TO TURKEY FLYERS TRAILED AS "SMUGGLERS"

New York, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—John Polando and Russell Boardman of New York to Istanbul nonstop flight fame came home today and everywhere they went were trailed by a customs man.

The attraction for Customs Inspector James V. McCabe was two diamond studded emblems presented to the flyers by the Aerial Club of Turkey shortly after their brilliant nonstop flight of 5,000 miles. Each emblem is set with a four carat blue diamond.

The airmen did not know they were required to declare the gems. Hence the customs agent's interest. They persuaded him to wait until the day's festivities were over before giving up the emblems for a customs appraisal.

CHICAGOAN'S AUTO KILLS CHILD.

La Salle, Ill., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Alvin, four year old son of Fred Springborn of La Salle, was killed when struck by an automobile driven by Herman Monieaux of Chicago and a coroner's jury today held Monieaux blameless.

A GOOD HEAD OF HAIR MAKES YOU LOOK AS YOUNG AS YOU FEEL*

Baldness in some rare cases may be an asset, but to most persons it is a source of endless embarrassment. A good head of hair keeps you from appearing to be older than you really are. It helps you look as "young as you feel"* and gives the impression of vigorous, robust healthiness. It is indeed an asset which you need; which you deserve; and which you can have.

Thomas' treatment has helped more than a quarter-million other persons, including well known business men, professional men, and actors, to have good heads of hair. It ends dandruff, stops abnormal hairfall, and promotes hair growth on the thin or bald spots. Learn for yourself how this reliable, dignified 16-year proved service is helping others and how it can help you, too, to have a good, healthy head of hair. Call today for a free scalp examination.

*The fact that "A good head of hair makes you look as young as you feel" is proved by Will Rogers in his latest movie, "Young as You Feel," now showing at the Tivoli, Uptown and Paradise theatres.

INTERESTED IN PRICE? here's your CHANCE!

Cast your eyes down the list of Goodyear Pathfinder prices printed here.

Never in the history of the automobile—never since the first one-cylinder car puffed down the road a generation ago—have tire prices been so low.

But that's not the half of it—Goodyear-built tires give you today mileages undreamed of in other years.

Pathfinder users know what that means in outstanding value and comfort and safety and freedom from trouble.

Isn't it foolish economy to try to "get by" any longer on old worn-out tires when you can buy dependable new ones at prices like these?

TRAFFIC SURVEY OF METROPOLITAN AREA STARTED

Study Location and Design of New Roads.

A traffic survey of the metropolitan area was started yesterday by the Illinois highway department, the Indiana highway department, the Cook county highway department, and the Chicago city council. The study, which will extend into winter, is to determine the location and design of future pavements and grade separations in this district.

ALD. JOHN MASSEN.

Dr. Miller McClintock of the Harvard bureau of traffic research is in charge of the work in Chicago. Five years ago he was employed by the Chicago Association of Commerce, and his recommendations included the enactment of the no parking regulation in the loop. This time he is employed by the council street traffic committee, of which Ald. John A. Massen is chairman.

Consider Elevated Highways.

"Special consideration," said Ald. Massen, "will be given to proposals for superhighways with continuous grade separation in the city. Realizing the tremendous cost of such structures, the committee desires to make no specific recommendation until such time as complete economic and physical facts are known."

The engineering staff of the Chicago Plan commission, headed by Hugh Young, made a three year study of Chicago's traffic problem and recommended the construction of an elevated highway on the Austin-Kinzie route, abutting the North Western railroad embankment.

Emmerson Opposes Appropriation.

Gov. Emmerson, with millions of gas tax money lying idle in the state treasury, has opposed an appropriation to begin construction this winter to relieve unemployment in the metropolitan area. He has contended that further study is needed.

The preliminary work on the traffic survey will consist of counting cars at busy intersections, an effort to determine how much and what kind of traffic wants to go where. With books full of statistics, with tabulations, maps, and diagrams, the surveyors will confer and try to agree on where improved facilities are needed.

"CUSTOMER" ROBS HAT STORE.

After inspecting a dozen hats as a prospective purchaser, a young man yesterday drew a revolver and forced Samuel Spiegel, manager of the Saranoff-Irving hat store at 208 South Dearborn street, to open the store safe. He escaped with $23.

WOODCOCK TOLD DRY AGENTS USE NAUGHTY WOMEN

Repeats Taboo on Sex in Enforcement.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Reports of the employment of women by federal dry agents as "blinds, decoys or informers" today stirred Prohibition Director Woodcock and precipitated two inquiries.

The federal dry chief said he intended to make "a very careful investigatin" into charges brought by Representative Karch [Dem., Ill.] that agents in East St. Louis "were associating with lewd women, using them to gather evidence," and that they also were conducting warrantless raids.

Woodcock made known an intention to "inquire carefully" into reported statements by Andrew McCampbell, prohibition administrator in New York, that "ladies must and will be used" in enforcing the dry law there.

"I am absolutely opposed," Woodcock said; "to the use of women in any way in enforcing this law. No federal funds will be used to pay women informers if I can help it. Their use is out of the picture."

Foresees No Insubordination.

Woodcock added, however, that he felt sure McCampbell did not intend to run contrary to any suggestions from officials here.

The differences between the prohibition director and McCampbell arose as an aftermath of two incidents in New York state. When reports reached Woodcock that an 18 year old girl who had been arrested for intoxication charged that she was employed by a dry agent to collect evidence he announced that the prohibition bureau would not tolerate such practices.

Later a young woman participated in a raid by federal agents on a New York speakeasy.

Woodcock characterized the charges by Representative Karch as "quite serious, if true." The charges of Mr. Karch centered principally around Walter F. Carroll, deputy prohibition administrator for the eastern district of Illinois.

Charges Illegal Searches.

Karch asserted the dry enforcement organization under Carroll "causes the issuance of invalid search warrants as a matter of general practice," and, in addition, conducted 50 per cent of the raids made on private dwellings without any search warrants.

He contended further that agents had seized property having no connection with their raids, in addition to taking for their own use part of the liquors seized, and engaging in "drunken revels."

SOCIETY WOMEN JAILED IN CUBA FOR REVOLT TALK

Troops Search Havana for Rebels and Arms.

BY DEAN SANBORN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 24.—Attempting to put down the last breath of revolt in Havana, secret service operatives, national police and soldiers today began a search for persons criticising the government or sympathising with the rebels, and found them in almost larger numbers than they could carry away in patrol wagons.

The forces were operating under military orders which strictly forbid the slightest remark which might be termed pro-rebel. Within two hours patrol wagons were filled to capacity with both men and women. Among those arrested were ten women prominent in Havana society.

Mrs. Pilar Jorge de Trella, wife of a wealthy business man, Mrs. Leonore Ferriera and Mrs. Quintana Aunon, society leaders, all of whom have been active in organizing social movements against the Machado government, were arrested and carted away with others accused under the regulations laid down by Col. Rasco, military governor.

Women Imprisoned.

The women were ordered confined in the Cabanas prison. All efforts of the newspapers, the Havana association of Reporters, and of business men to have them released were futile.

The searchers also sought bombs and arms. They ransacked the city from one end to another, over a radius of eight miles. All buildings were entered except the homes of foreign diplomats, Cuban diplomats and members of the army whose loyalty is above question. Police announced that a number of bombs were found, and predicted that the raids would end the terrorism which has held the city in its grip for several days.

Meanwhile, the most pressing need in Cuba now is relief for its chaotic economic affairs. Already in a bad way industrially and financially, the island, as a result of the rebellion and counter moves by the government, faces economic disaster. Anti-American feeling is growing, as many blame the United States, and especially the senate, for "economic strangulation" of Cuban industries, although no one seems to know just what is meant by the term.

Hold Machado Responsible.

President Machado, incidentally, is in a much worse political position than formerly, with both friends and foes holding him personally responsible for whatever may happen in the near future. He has, however, offered reforms of various kinds in an attempt to mollify his critics.

Meanwhile, soldiers in all parts of the island are cleaning up minor bands of rebels, and the armed uprising seems to be entirely at an end.

Sailings June to September

CRUISE to the heart of Old French-Canada. We take you by rail to Toronto, Queen City of Canada, where your foreign adventure begins. You set sail on a luxurious steamer, one of the world's largest fresh water fleet. You will visit, en route, Montreal—the metropolis, and the fortress city of Quebec, Gibraltar of North America.

You will cruise among the Thousand Islands—set like a thousand jewels in azure blue waters, experience the thrills of shooting the great St. Lawrence Rapids. Near Quebec you will pay your respects at the miracle shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupré and hear the thunder of Montmorency Falls, higher than Niagara.

Beyond Quebec the high Laurentians follow the St. Lawrence and you cruise in the shadow of these ancient mountains. The steamer puts in at fashionable Murray Bay, and quaint and lovely Tadoussac, Canada's oldest settlement. The glory of the Saguenay River, seen at sunset and again at dawn, is a spectacle to impress the most widely travelled. The wild grandeur of Trinity Bay, guarded by the tremendous capes, Trinity and Eternity—the ship's name reverberating like giant bugles among the eternal hills—gives you a touch of the loneliness, austerity and beauty of the silent places.

A spirit of gaiety prevails for the entire journey, and there is not a dull moment on ship or shore. You dance every evening to the music of a lively orchestra. Delicious meals satisfy ravenous appetites. You will vote this the best vacation ever.

Remember, every expense on this enjoyable cruise has been foreseen and included in the figure quoted above, as well as stop-overs at important hotels en route. A courteous escort relieves you of every travel worry.

Replies from log cabin ad which appeared Herald Tribune June seventh still coming in over one thousand inquiries to date results very gratifying

G. MEISSNER
District Manager Sears, Roebuck & Co
Home Construction Division New York Office

One single Sears, Roebuck advertisement of log cabins in the New York Herald Tribune opened up more than three quarters of a million dollars of potential sales to known prospects. Interest in the purchase of log cabins (priced at $750), means that the purchaser owns land on which to erect it —and is in the market for fittings, furniture and the thousand things that such an additional summer home needs.

It again demonstrates that the Herald Tribune's huge and responsive audience is superbly suited for TESTING advertiser's copy effectively and economically.

This is another 1931 proof that the New York Herald Tribune is a remarkable sales maker, a result-producer in a year when every advertising dollar must do its job. More and more advertisers whose products sell for pennies or dollars or hundreds of dollars are discovering that today in New York it's the Herald Tribune for RESULTS.

PIONEER CITIZEN OF GARY KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Four More Motor Deaths in Cook County.

Anton Kosiba, 54 years old, a pioneer resident of Gary, Ind., and head of the Lake County Monument and Cut Stone company, was fatally injured in Gary yesterday when his automobile crashed into the rear of a crowded street car. He died a few hours later in a hospital. No one on the street car was injured.

Mrs. Helen M. Bennett, 88 years old, 5118 Winnemac avenue, who was injured in an automobile accident at Coldwater, Mich., Thursday, died in Chicago last evening as she was carried into the automobile of her son, Herbert Bennett, on her arrival at the La Salle street station. Shock from the accident, in which her right arm was broken, is believed to have caused her death.

Four deaths in Cook county yesterday as a result of automobile accidents brought the toll since Jan. 1 to 734. The victims:

Mrs. Anna Kabelka, 63 years old, 2649 South Crawford avenue. Died at St. Anthony's hospital from injuries sustained Saturday when she was run down by the automobile of Vernon O'Kelly, 3501 South Mozart street, at 37th street and Crawford avenue.

Nelson Peel, 63 years old, 4723 Kelso avenue. Died at the Belmont hospital from internal injuries suffered a week ago. The driver, Jacob Resek, Kenosha, Wis., was not held. The accident occurred at Elston and Keeler avenues.

Marshall Robards, 69 years old, 44 Lake street, Oak Park. Died at the West Suburban hospital from injuries suffered Aug. 15 when he was struck by the automobile of Jack Loftis, 6302 George street, at Austin avenue and South boulevard, Oak Park.

Leo Askuini, 59 years old, 4319 North Springfield avenue. Died at St. Elizabeth's hospital from injuries suffered Aug. 8 when the car in which he was riding crashed into an elevated pillar on a newly widened section of Western avenue at North avenue. The driver, Ellis Gasolini, 3928 South Union avenue, escaped injury.

Charles N. Wheeler, Peoria Banker, Dies in California

Pasadena, Cal., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Charles N. Wheeler, 60, prominent in Peoria, Ill., banking, died today at his Pasadena home following an illness of several months. Wheeler was widely known in Illinois and continued to hold his banking connections in Peoria, although he had not been active in recent years. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Rachel Wheeler, and one daughter, Mrs. Charles H. Schimpff of San Marino, Cal.

Rev. Paul B. Smith's Funeral Is Thursday

Funeral services for the Rev. Paul B. Smith, professor at the Quigley preparatory seminary and chaplain of the Academy of Our Lady, 95th and Throop streets, will be held at 10:30 a. m. Thursday in the Holy Name cathedral. Father Smith, who was 40 years old, died Sunday at the Little Company of Mary hospital after an illness of several weeks of heart disease. He was a graduate of Quigley and was ordained into the priesthood at Rome in 1915.

Mrs. Marie Evelyn Coe, Once Editor in Nome, Dies

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Marie Evelyn Coe, 72, well known figure in American journalism, died here today. Mrs. Coe, who following the death of her husband, edited the Nome, Alaska, Gold Digger for three years, was one of the first women reporters in America. She was born in England.

Beaten by Robbers, Dies Before Rescuers Arrive

Abraham Harris, 70 years old, of 908 Maxwell street, a retired fish dealer, was walking in front of 1258 Washburne avenue last night when two Negroes seized him, and dragged him to an adjacent lot, where they tried to rob him. He pleaded that he had no money, and the robbers beat him about the face with their fists, knocking him down. They fled empty handed, as several persons who had heard his cries went to Harris' assistance. They found him dead. Police believe that heart shock, resulting from the holdup, caused his death.

PUMPS FAIL AT CRITICAL STAGE OF FOREST FIRES

Rising Winds Also Fan Flames in Idaho.

Boise, Idaho, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Hope of saving the towns of Grimes Pass and Pioneerville from the forest fires of central Idaho waned today as rising winds fanned the flames.

Dr. C. C. Fairchild at Pioneerville reported the situation "looks very bad." He said the wind was blowing hard and the fire fighters were short of water pumps to combat the creeping flames.

Three pumps went out of commission along the fire front today and more were sent from this city. Failure of the equipment at this critical moment seriously handicapped the efforts of the 600 men combating the blazes along a 40 mile front.

Seven Miners Escape.

Seven miners, whose fate had been in doubt, emerged from the fire-ridden forests today.

John Bonn and a man named Shanahan were caught between the main fire near Placerville and a backfire but fled from their automobile when flames blocked the road and escaped on foot. Shanahan and Bonn came in with five men from the Missouri mine, where the party spent the night.

Orders Out Guards.

Seventy-five men were rushed to the John Klem ranch, at Stierman, 20 miles from Placerville. A stove ignited the Klem home and the fire spread to surrounding timber.

Refugees flocked into camps established for them. Virtually all mines in the basin have been deserted by workmen and their families.

Revon Nelbaur, 21, a National Guardsman from Boise, was critically injured when he was crushed between two trucks.

LEGION WARNED BY M'NIDER NOT TO BE TOOL FOR POLITICS

Rapid City, S. D., Aug. 24.—(AP)—A warning for the American Legion to "stay away from things with which it has no connection" was delivered by Hanford MacNider, United States minister to Canada, at the opening session of the South Dakota Legion convention here today.

Mr. MacNider, former national commander of the organization, advised legionnaires to guard against "politicians and others who seek to tie up with the Legion to further their own interests." He stressed that the Legion was primarily organized to aid disabled veterans and their families.

In a brief talk, Mr. MacNider praised the work already done by the Legion, and declared the Legion had already established a reputation through its welfare agencies. He urged community work as a means of bettering civic conditions throughout the country.

The convention's guest of the day, Congressman Royal C. Johnson, Aberdeen, was unable to attend because of illness.

HOLD PARALYSIS RESPONSIBLE IN DEATH OF BABY

Herrin, Ill., Aug. 24.—(AP)—The eight months old child of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Elliott at Energy, south of here, died today of what was believed to be infantile paralysis. The results of a test of the spinal fluid have not been learned.

The parents of the child recently returned from California and it may have contracted the disease there or on the way home. Two other cases have been found in this county, and a third case of illness is being watched.

The Elliott child was sick two weeks, and its parents believed at first it was only a slight illness.

Mansfield Man Dies.

Timothy D. Beard Rites Tomorrow in Michigan

Funeral services for Timothy D. Beard, for twenty years prominent in the automobile trade in Chicago, will be held tomorrow afternoon in the Methodist church at Pentwater, Mich., his boyhood home, with burial in the same town. Mr. Beard was killed Sunday in an automobile accident near Holland, Mich. He was secretary of the Chicago Automobile Trade association from 1911 to 1929, and for the last two years was general manager of the National Used Car Market Report. A party of Chicago automobile dealers will leave by boat for Ludington, Mich., tonight to attend the funeral.

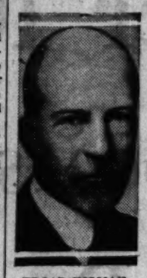
VOTE TO AWARD CONTRACT FOR NURSES' HOME

County Board Debates on $1,495,100 Bid.

Members of the county board voted yesterday to award the contract for construction of the 17 story nurses' home at the county hospital to the Mutual Construction company, 2532 Warren avenue, on a bid of $1,495,100. The action was taken after two hours of heated argument in an executive session behind closed doors and must be confirmed today at the open meeting of the board.



EDGAR TOLMAN.

The arguments arose over the fact that the Mutual company was the sixth lowest bidder on the original specifications drawn by Eric E. Hall, county architect, and an advisory committee headed by Joshua D'Esposito, consulting engineer, but was lowest in its bid on the alternate specifications which the proposal for construction of the building permitted bidders to submit.

Opinion of County Attorney.

County Attorney Hayden N. Bell gave the board an opinion holding that the alternate proposals should be ignored, unless the commissioners wished to readvertise for bids and to embody in the specifications the proposal of the Mutual concern. As an alternative he advised the commissioners to take the case into court and obtain a ruling by a judge on the legality of accepting the Mutual bid.

Attorney Edgar B. Tolman, representing the construction company, also submitted an opinion to the board. He held that it is legal for the board to accept the alternative bid of his clients.

Jacobson Bros. were low on the list of bidders on the original specifications, with a bid of $1,550,000. The Mutual Construction company's bid, sixth lowest on that list, was $1,598,000.

Cut Price in Alternate Bid.

However, in an alternate bid on the contract the latter concern offered to cut $77,000 from its price if permitted to construct the floors of hollow tile and concrete instead of reinforced concrete. On other alternate proposals it offered further reduction of $29,900, making its net bid $1,495,100.

Attorney Bell warned the commissioners that in his opinion they would be liable personally, in case of a taxpayer's suit, if they let the contract to the Mutual company on the basis of the alternate specifications. Attorney Tolman said after the meeting that if the commissioners wished a court ruling, to absolve them from such responsibility, his clients were prepared to bring a mandamus action to force the award of the bid to them.

Hold Rites Tomorrow for J. D. Nies, Lewis Dean

Funeral services for John Dirk Nies, dean of engineering at Lewis institute and vice president of the Kimble Electric company, 14th street and Damen avenue, who died suddenly last Saturday of heart disease in his home, 413 West 4th street, St. Charles, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the residence, with burial in North cemetery. Mr. Nies was 56 years old. He was born in Saugatuck, Mich., and was graduated from Michigan State college at Lansing in 1894. For the last 20 years he had been a member of the faculty of Lewis institute and during the last 8 years of his residence in St. Charles was president of the board of education in charge of city elementary schools.

D. W. Newton, Official of Fair Store, Dies in Home

Donald Wilson Newton, for 18 years vice president of The Fair department store, died yesterday in his home at 6939 Crandon avenue after a lingering illness. Mr. Newton was born in Scotland in 1872 and came with his family to the United States when he was 6 years old. He entered the mercantile field in Chicago more than a quarter of a century ago. He was a member of the South Shore Country club.

R. J. THOMPSON, NOTED CHICAGO INVENTOR, DIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 24.—Robert J. Thompson, aged 65, American inventor, author, and capitalist and officer in the French Legion of Honor, died today at his summer residence at Montreux, Switzerland, after a long illness. He was a leader in the movement by which American school children presented to France a statue of Gen. Lafayette, and for that service was decorated by the French republic.

ROBERT J. THOMPSON.

Born in La Porte City, Ia., Oct. 15, 1865, Mr. Thompson made his early career in Chicago as a journalist on the old Chicago Times. For nine years he was in the American consular service, and as consul successively at Hanover, Sheffield, and Aachen he did distinguished work in economic and social research. In 1914 his "Letters to Bryan" created a sensation by protests against propagandizing of the alleged "German atrocities," and resulted in his resignation from the consular service. His principal invention was an automatic recording safe which made him a large fortune.

In 1885 Mr. Thompson married Miss Martha Leimer of Waterloo, Ia. His second marriage, in 1913, was to Miss Muriel Stevenson, Englishwoman, and by her and their children, R. P., Madeleine, Robert J., and Cyril Sherman, he is survived.

MAN WHO FLED TO DODGE TEAPOT OIL CASE DIES

CANNES, France, Aug. 24.—(AP)—James E. O'Neill, American oil man who figured in the Teapot Dome investigation, died here last night of pulmonary congestion which developed from pneumonia.

O'Neill became an exile from the United States to evade testifying in the Teapot Dome oil lease conspiracy case. He resigned the presidency of the Prairie Oil and Gas company, which had headquarters at Independence, Kas., in 1923, and a few months later went to Europe. Harry M. Blackmer of Denver, former chairman of the Midwest Refining company, the other man who fled and whose testimony was sought, is still abroad. Blackmer and O'Neill were wanted for questioning in connection with the organization of the Continental Trading Co., Ltd., of Canada, alleged to have figured in the leasing of the Teapot Dome naval oil reservation by Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, now serving a prison sentence, to Harry F. Sinclair, oil millionaire.

Regards Civilization as Man's Own Show.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Man's Own Show: Civilization," by George A. Dorsey. [Harpers.] Published today.

THE most provocative book of the year—perhaps of many years—is Dr. Dorsey's posthumous tome, "Man's Own Show: Civilization." He had just read and approved the last corrections in the typescript of the final chapter when he died last spring.

Prof. George A. Dorsey.

For years he had been working on "Man's Own Show." It was the fruit of his years of scientific research, his years of clear thinking, and—in his later life—his years of popular writing. "Why We Behave Like Human Beings" was one of the most popular of all the talks written to explain man and his mental processes to himself. Dr. Dorsey had the faculty of writing as if he were talking—intimately and with a subtle intense fearlessness and glowing earnestness. You have seen a really interested man grip another man's collar in his passion to make the whole issue nothing in their passion from lip to ear. You have seen a man peer deeply into another's eye as he argues, as that the other's mind will focus on the subject. Just such an interest—in words—Dr. Dorsey has in "Man's Own Civilization." And if you think that such intense interest on the part of the talker is not a literary phenomenon, compare "Man's Own Show" with its 954 pages of print with most other volumes of its size.

Dr. Dorsey never loses his vital, passionate interest in what he is saying and therefore the way he is saying it always has excitement and richness. There is not beauty in the writing. There is tremendous, tense power. You may think that you will skip a good many pages, that you know what he is saying when he outlines history or science or medicine or a score or countless other phases of life with which the serious reader has been "outlined" thoroughly the last few years. But you don't skip a few pages. You don't even skip a few sentences. You keep on reading.

Even those who will violently disagree with Dr. Dorsey's conclusions will keep on reading—unless they are the sort who believe that the only way to combat the spreading of ideas is to ignore the fact that they have been uttered.

I should say that about five out of every six readers would disagree violently with Dr. Dorsey somewhere during the 954 pages. All of the fundamentalists of religion, of whatever creed or sect, will call him either pagan or Bolshevik synonyms of liar and corrupter of public morals. His basic theme is that civilization is only man's own show, that man, not God, has created civilization and that the most deterrent factors in civilization are to be found in religion and its exponents. Far from being the foundation of civilization, he says, the Christian religion has had throughout its existence the most uncivilized of influences. Far from its being divine, he declares, it was not only made by man but was synthetic—made up not always of the best parts of the popular religions of its day.

Religion is, however, in itself one of man's inner needs, and through religion—directed toward the business of man living on the earth with his fellows rather than toward the business of prostituting God [in whatever form he takes throughout the world]—civilization can really be achieved. Anything that comes between man and earth or sets him against his fellow man is an enemy of the human race. Faith in anything beyond the possible, devotion to anything beyond the reasonable, is such an enemy. All that civilized man has done that would disgrace a polecat, degrade a hyena, and make a cur hang its head has been done in some god's name and on behalf of some absurd, insane, or monstrous faith."

And he goes on: "Suppose the churches stopped their anathematizing; ceased to investigation; ceased thundering, threatening, damning, and became human, inquiring, devoted to truth and justice? . . . It could be done. The churches could do it."

Perfect Murder Is Well Done by Barrymore

Lionel Stars in Talkie, "Guilty Hands."

"GUILTY HANDS."

Richard Grant ..... Lionel Barrymore
Marjorie West ..... Kay Francis
Tommy Osgood ..... William Bakewell
Rev. Hastings ..... C. Aubrey Smith
Aunt Maggie ..... Polly Moran
Gordon Rich ..... Alan Mowbray
Spencer Wilson ..... Forrester Harvey
Barbara Grant ..... Madge Evans

BY ROBERTA NANGLE.

As if the presence of Lionel Barrymore were not enough to make "Guilty Hands" worth the price of a ticket to the Chicago this week, the picture also boasts a good melodramatic plot by Bayard Veiller, fine direction by W. S. Van Dyke, and a supporting cast which includes the glamorous Kay Francis, the youthfully appealing Madge Evans, and the stage-wise C. Aubrey Smith.

The story is an illustration of the "justifiable murder" and the "perfect crime" theme. Mr. Barrymore is the murderer, and whether or not you think the taking of a life is ever justified, you'll be convinced that in this case it's a necessary evil. In other words, Mr. Barrymore wins your sympathy so completely that you not only approve of his crime but applaud his success in building up a perfect alibi to evade the law.

He is cast as Richard Grant, a state's attorney who doles on his motherless young daughter, Barbara. The daughter is bent on marrying one Gordon Rich, a worldly gentleman with an unsavory past. Having settled numerous breach of promise suits for Mr. Rich, Grant naturally decides that he's the last man on earth he'd pick for a son-in-law.

The only way out is to rid the world of Mr. Rich, so Grant grits his teeth and does the deed. He manages to cover up his tracks, but there's a surprise finish to the picture which I shan't give away.

Mr. Barrymore's performance is the perfect thing we've come to expect from him. Madge Evans, who seems to be reëstablishing a good sound footing for herself in the movies, is a good choice for the rôle of the sweet but foolish daughter. The other members of the cast all play up to the splendid example set by the star.

"GOLDIE."

Produced by Fox. Directed by Benjamin Stoloff. Presented at the Castle theater. THE CAST.

Bill ..... Spencer Tracy
Spike ..... Warren Hymer
Goldie ..... Jean Harlow
Constantina ..... Lina Basquette
Dolores ..... Maria Alba
Wife ..... Lelia Karnelly
Husband ..... Ivan Linow
Gonzales ..... Jessie De Vorska
Barker ..... Eddie Kane

Spencer Tracy and Warren Hymer devote themselves throughout this picture to the untiring pursuit of women. Cast as two mates on a freight boat, they chase the girls from port to port and quarrel about them just as Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe fought in similar low-brow comedies as the marines.

The most glamorous of the gals who try to take their money is Goldie, played by the platinum haired, sultry eyed Jean Harlow. The more gullible of the sailors falls for Goldie, but his buddy eventually saves him and his bank roll. As the picture ends the boys "swear off of dames forever," but the sight of a provocative ankle starts the chase all over again.

If you like this sort of thing you may want to see the Tracy-Hymer team and Miss Harlow. If you don't, you'd better stay away.

THE STAGE

THE Blackstone theater was ready, until noon yesterday, to announce its September opening with "Tonight or Never," the late David Belasco's Broadway success of last season. Then came a telegram from Helen Gahagan, its star, stating that she was too busy in California, acting and singing, to report for duty until mid-October. If another actress can be found with a gift of comedy and enough vocal skill to sing several arias from "Tosca" like an opera prima donna, the plan may yet go through.

In the meantime, however, the date that is marked on the Blackstone's books for the opening of the new season is Oct. 26, when Mrs. Fiske will stage a comedy by Carlos Drake. Its title at present is "Against the Wind," but perhaps young Mr. Drake will improve upon the label before rehearsals begin. Already engaged for Mrs. Fiske's company are Charles Dalton, Rice John, Robert Henderson, and Vera Venables.

The Blackstone's schedule includes the Theater Guild's entire Chicago program. These sessions of subscription drama will begin late in January or early in February, depending upon how long "As Husbands Go," booked to open Jan. 3, wants to stay.

The run of "High Hat" at the Adelphi theater, announced to end next Saturday night, will be continued until Sept. 19. The Adelphi's first offering for the new season will be "Unexpected Husband," a comedy by Barry Connors, which is scheduled for a première Sept. 20. Mary Howard, leading woman with Otis Skinner in "Marius" last winter, will play the heroine. "Five Star Final" will probably arrive around Thanksgiving day.

Maurice Browne arrived in New York last week to begin preparation for an active American season, which will involve the production of three, and possibly four, plays. In association with the Messrs. Shubert he will launch "The Venetian," by Clifford Bax, and "The Improper Duchess," by James Bernard Fagan, London hits both. Irene Bordoni will have the central rôle in the latter. Mr. Browne himself will tour Canada and the United States as star of Paul Raynal's drama, "The Unknown Warrior."

The possible fourth production on Mr. Browne's schedule is a play with only two characters called "Happy and Glorious," written by Wilfred Walter, who will have a leading rôle in "The Venetian." Mr. Walter was prominent in the Stratford-Upon-Avon Shakespeare company during its American tours of 1929 and 1930.

The Theater Guild will place Robert E. Sherwood's "Reunion at Vienna" in rehearsal Sept. 14. Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne will lead the cast.

George White's latest "Scandals" will begin its New York run at the Apollo theater Monday, Aug. 31. The revue's engagement in Atlantic City ended last Saturday night; this week it will spend in Newark, N. J. Other Broadway premières for the week of Aug. 31 will include George M. Cohan's new play called "Friendship," and "Cloudy with Showers."

The musical comedy version of "Smilin' Through," which will be a winter event of the new stage season, will bring Charles Winninger, formerly of "No, No, Nanette" and "Showboat," back to the footlights after several years in "pictures." "Smilin' Through" was a wartime success for Jane Cowl. She wrote the play in collaboration with Jane Murfinn.

The literary career of W. Somerset Maugham has taken on vivid color since the publication of his "Cakes and Ale," and the venomous anonymous satire on it and him called "Gin and Bitters." The American career of his latest play will be watched with interest. Its title is "The Breadwinners," and it is scheduled for a Broadway debut Sept. 21. The cast will include A. E. Matthews, Marie Lohr, Betty Linley, Eric Cowley, Angus McLeod, Eleanor Woodruff, and Irene Blair.

Plan Concert to Aid Jobless Among Negroes

White Sox Park May Be Site of Fete.

An outdoor concert, the proceeds of which will be distributed for needy among the city's Negroes, will be held on the south side some time during September. This was announced yesterday.

The affair will be conducted by Negro leaders, and the participants will also be Negroes. Efforts will be made to stage the charity concert in White Sox park, it was said.

Plans were discussed yesterday at a meeting of south side leaders at Elk's Rest, 3920 South Park way. Among those attending were Congressman Oscar De Priest, the Rev. John H. Branham, C. N. Langston, Mrs. George C. Hall, and representatives of Negro churches, newspapers, and other agencies. Representative De Priest was elected chairman of the committee which will direct the concert.

"The unemployment situation is worse among our people than among others in Chicago," he said last night. "Our people have lost between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000 in bank failures."

Mr. De Priest remarked that there were no Reds among the local Negroes, but that there were many hungry people. "When they are hungry they do not know what they are doing," he added.

The committee hopes that $50,000 might be raised through the concert. Whatever is realized will be turned over to the governor's unemployment commission for the aid of destitute Negroes.

Bands, choirs, and drug and bugle corps, as well as soloists, will participate in the concert. Among the choral directors who will assist are James A. Mundy, William Henry Smith, and Elmer Simpson, who led colored choruses at the second annual Chicagoland Music festival last Saturday night at Soldiers' field under the auspices of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Pledges of cooperation have been received by Congressman De Priest and his colleagues from all Negro newspapers and periodicals, among them being the World, Bee, Whip, Defender, South Side Digest, Bronzman, and Associated Negro Press.

687,686 PAY OUT $460,488 TO HEAR OPERAS IN ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 24.—(AP)—St. Louis' municipal opera closed its 13th season last night with a new attendance record for the outdoor theater in Forest park.

The attendance for the 83 performances was announced as 687,686, exceeding that of 1930, the best previous year, by 4,093. The attendance figures do not include those who occupied standing room on many nights when capacity audiences were present. An additional 141,000 saw the performances from the free seats in the rear of the auditorium.

The gross ticket sales this year were $474,006, an increase of $2,118 over last year, but cancellation of four performances reduced the net receipts to $460,488, a decrease of $2,945.50, as compared with 1930, when only two performances were called off.

This year's operations are expected to result in a surplus sufficient to permit a refund of a portion of the $20,000 paid by the guarantors to cover the 1930 deficit. Production and operating expenses were reduced materially this year.

"Rio Rita," the final production, was the most popular attraction of the summer, drawing 124,892 persons in 14 performances. Next in line was "The Three Musketeers," with 65,910 in seven performances.

Other productions this year were "Irene," "The Street Singer," "Three Little Girls," "Rosa Marie," "Music in May," "Countess Maritza," "The Circus Princess," and "Wonderful Night."

U. OF MICHIGAN GIRLS' GRADES ARE HIGHER THAN MEN STUDENTS

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The annual scholarship chart released today shows that for the twelfth consecutive year, women students of the University of Michigan have demonstrated their scholastic superiority over the men. The report is issued by Marian Williams, statistical assistant in the office of the registrar.

It shows that for the school year 1930-'31, the women had received an average grade of 78.5 as compared with 75.2 for the men. Students in the medical, law and dental schools were excluded from the tabulation since the grading system in those units differs greatly from that of other schools and colleges.

Women living in sororities houses, despite numerous social activities, obtained grades just 3.4 per cent higher than nonsorority women, but fraternity men were only 1.3 per cent better students than independents.

The rank of the various campus groups in grade percentages was as follows: General sororities, 78.7; all women students, 78.5; independent women students, 78.3; women's dormitories and league houses, 78.3; average of all fraternities and sororities, 76.6; average of all men and women, 76.2; independent men and women, 75.3; general fraternities, 75.8; average of all men students, 75.2, and averages of all independent men students, 74.6.

Chicago Band Opens Season in Grant Park

Thousands Hear First of Outdoor Concerts.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

It took more than a spurt of rain at 8 o'clock to discourage the musicians of the Chicago Concert band from giving their first concert in Grant park last night. For that matter, it discouraged only a few of the audience. The rest camped under umbrellas and newspapers, and when the spurt was over vacant seats and standing room were speedily filled until some 10,000 or 12,000 persons were there.

There is nothing pleasanter than a good band concert, anyway. Victor J. Grabel, the conductor, has been doing a double service in preparing this band and acting as musical director of the Chicagoland Music festival of last Saturday night. He was highly competent in both jobs. You have already heard of the festival. The Chicago Concert band is also something in which to take pride.

It has the brilliance and power of a band, which it should have, and it has also a good part of the lightness and delicacy of an orchestra, which a good many bands never attain. In fact, it is partly orchestral in its makeup. It has some cellos and double basses among its players as well as a harp, and when Rosalinda Morini, the soprano soloist of the evening, appeared, she brought a violinist with her for obbligato purposes.

Mr. Grabel has trained his band to excellent effect. The first part of the program was fairly earnest music, Wagner in the "Meistersinger" Prelude and Siegfried's Death Music from "Die Goetterdaemmerung." Massenet in the ballet suite from "Le Cid," and so on. But there were encores, a Brahms waltz, a Sousa march, and the second part went into lighter vein in both the programmed numbers and the encores. The band has a remarkably suave tone, and it plays with the accuracy, shading, and contrast of an expert and sensitive musical organization.

Miss Morini displayed a beautiful voice. It has the height and swooping swiftness that one calls coloratura together with the velvet texture that one calls lyric. An aria from Mozart's opera "Il Re Pastore" and the Polonaise from Ambroise Thomas' "Mignon" were her numbers, and there were encores in addition.

It was not so announced on the program, but the understanding is that this series of concerts will be played on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings until four weeks have been spent in this enjoyable entertainment.

Vice President Curtis Calls U. S. Nation of Homes

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Vice President Charles Curtis tonight pictured this country as holding unswervingly to its "old time faith" in the home as the true center of family life and in religion as the true salvation of man.

Speaking at the convention of the Loyal Order of Moose, he said a country where "the people believe so profoundly in home, school, and church cannot but be a happy place in which to live."

"It is a great privilege to be a citizen of this nation of home loving and home building people who firmly believe that a closely united home of husband, wife, and children is God's best gift to man," he said.

Autumn Style Displays Draw Buying Crowd

Parents Busy with Girls' School Clothes.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Those women who have declared firmly that they're going to make last season's wardrobe do active duty this fall will experience a change of heart the very first time they set eyes on the tantalizing fall styles now on display in the loop department stores.

Chief among yesterday's shoppers were mothers, and sometimes fathers, who were seeing to it that their daughters are to be properly dressed when they go away to college in a few weeks.

"Now stand up straight," one mother admonished her daughter, as the co-ed came forth from a dressing room in a snappy tally-ho green corduroy two piece sports suit with a touch of fur for the collar. "You simply can't stick your shoulder blades out and look nice." The father, sitting near, nodded his head approvingly, and the green suit will join a carefully planned campus wardrobe.

In several stores fashion shows in which co-eds from various colleges and universities are modeling, are to be held until the school season opens. And further, a young woman who is to enter college as a freshman may be advised on just what to wear during rush week, to all the early fall campus festivities as well as sports costumes for campus wear.

The sports frocks and suits are of delightfully soft woven materials, rich in color and richer still in style and cut. Colors predicated to be most popular are brown, rust, and bright tally-ho green.

One sports or street outfit seen in a loop store was a green two piece suit of light woolen material, a yellow wool blouse, green scarf, pigskin gloves, green suede and patent shoes, and purse and hat to match. The hat, the huntress style, had a small feather pressed against the upturned brim.

An afternoon frock that seemed to catch the eye of several women was of brown and tan flat crepe. The skirt was of warm brown with flared skirt. The long tan blouse belted with a brown leather belt was faced with astrakhan and a touch of lace edged the sleeves and square neck.

The feminine heart that adores plaits and flares and normal waist lines will beat a bit more excitedly over the fall styles. Because plaits and flares and normal waist lines are quite the rage. Many frocks—in fact, the majority for street wear—boast a jacket. One travel tweed of green print had a dress with a plaited skirt and a jacket with a three-quarter sleeve. A brown wool crêpe frock's most important style item was the jacket, the neck and cuffs lined with brown and white dotted silk crêpe.

The warm shades of brown, with touches of yellow, will bring a ray of sunshine to the brown haired, brown eyed miss.

A delightful afternoon dress of brown velvet had a little of the Empress Eugenie in the long, puffed sleeve. It was simply designed with a flared skirt, a touch of white ermine at the neck and a large ivory buckle for the belt.

Satin is popular for formal wear and is good in pastel shades, and, of course, very long. One co-ed modeled a blue satin gown with matching crêpe shoes and carried a white beaded evening bag.

Straight coats with fur collars in loose woven heavy materials are popular, and the colors may be brown, tan, and brown mixtures, green, and wine. For rainy weather the stores are showing in imported waterproof gaberdine with umbrella and hat to match. And for real snowy weather in the land of winter sports a ski suit with trousers of dark green, yellow wool blouse, knitted scarf, beret, and gloves will make that most difficult sport the easier.

German Catholic Group Leader Speaks Against Birth Control in U. S.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Addressing the Central Catholic Verein, in annual convention here today, Dr. Joseph A. Meunzer, Toledo, O., thus spoke of birth control:

"Any attempt to escape the obligations and duties of honorable marriage and all that it implies by the practice of artificial birth control leads to physical, physiological and psychic disturbances in devotees to such practice and cannot help but cause deterioration of national life."

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

Home of His Own Is Often What Straying Husband Needs Most

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"A girl I know has been married for at least ten years. She has lived with her mother-in-law all this time, and seems to have no troubles there. She has kept her position during her marriage and has helped to buy everything the family has. She is always most congenial where her husband's wishes are concerned and is what all her friends call her—a 'good sport.'

"Now, why is it that a man with a wife of her sort will fall for a flapper's line? The wife has been shown a letter written to her husband by the girl, but she just goes on as if nothing had happened. She is anything but dumb—but what do you think of her attitude in this case? "L. B."

Her attitude is not dumb in this case, either. There always will be arguments about a "scene" being or not being the way to greet the other woman intrusion. But until other measures fail, I think the scene were better not projected.

The facts in the case are that the married woman works and that she lives with her mother-in-law and has been doing so for at least ten years. Now, the question is just what sort of home is being provided the husband. May be quite too soft a berth has been his lot. May be, again, he feels cheated at not having a home of his own—and children.

When people are married ten years, with exceptions, of course, and those cases of very deep devotion toward each other, well—may be there is a monotony about coming home night after night to the same scene, the same adult conversation, the same sinless ingrossed woman. And perhaps that is why the man heeds the voice of the siren call. I don't say this is the case in the instance described. Yet a woman confronted with this wife's problems has to stop and ask herself about what she is contributing directly to maintain the husband's interest.

The course of wisdom for her to pursue might just be to get out from under the mother-in-law roof, set up a home of her own, go in for a family, and let the man be concerned about the financial responsibility so that he can't afford the extra woman "sideline" feature.

Straight Jacket Suits Come Back to Fashion

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Paris is whispering to women to stop pinching their suit jackets in at the waistline. It's younger to wear 'em straight from the shoulders, say certain of the dressmakers. You know, the way that little school girls wear theirs.

When these straight jackets are shown in Paris they are accompanied by plaited skirts, also having the school girl inspiration, and the effect of such suits is certainly refreshing after the world wide pinching and fitting that suits have been tortured with for so long a time.

One of the new straight jacket suits that came out in the midseason fashion shows is sketched today. Germaine Lecomte created it, and it is made of a new material, a jersey that looks much more like flannel, in navy blue.

The jacket of this suit is perfectly straight, hip length and has set in pockets at the sides. Up the front closing there are two bias bands, sewed to the jacket just to the bust, from which point the bands are left unattached, and pass around the neck, replacing a collar. Under the left side of the loose band a white piqué bow is tucked, at the spot where a boutonniere would be worn if the suit had a button hole. The skirt is plaited in clusters of four knife plaits from a tiny yoke, and there is a belt of self-material.

With this suit is worn a crocheted sweater in navy and white wool, worked in vertical stripes. As you can see by referring to the small figure in the background, this sweater has short puff sleeves and ends at the waistline in a ribbed band.

Physician Is One to Consult on Question of Removing a Mole

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

What is a mole? Why does it appear on some people and not on others? If you had one on your cheek would you have it removed? And how? By electrolysis or surgically?

The above questions have been asked me by one whose mole is nothing like the beauty liability she imagines it to be. I never could see why people get exercised into the operation stage over a harmless looking light brown mole, which if it is inconspicuously placed on the face or body, does not alter one's looks.

Moles are just about one of the commonest possessions known. People don't bother about them if they happen to be where dress covers them and they [the moles] seem to live to a ripe old age without harming any one. If they were subject to constant rubbing from clothes they would be dangerous, no doubt. But since it is dangerous to tamper with certain kinds of moles, unless they are actual menaces, I'd leave them alone. Not a few operations on moles have been followed by the development of a malignant trouble of the skin.

The best rule to follow about whether a mole should be removed or not is to consult with a competent physician and abide by his decision.

What is a mole? Is is a pigmented spot either congenital or acquired, or it may be a reddish swelling or patch of skin formed by dilated blood vessels.

Electrolysis is used to destroy blood vessels under certain conditions. Moles can be removed by surgical operation. Certain kind of moles respond to freezing treatment. But because there is the danger of scarring, I repeat that I would never assume the responsibility of advising their removal.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

E. R.: A WAVE SETTING LOTION may be made with a tablespoonful of quince seed and a quart of water. Let boil a half hour. Cool, and strain. Add a few drops of perfume. If thinning is necessary, add a spoonful of toilet water.

A. P.: THE LEGS AND ANKLES may be reduced by exercise. I have a set of exercises for that purpose and ask that you send a stamped, addressed envelope for them.

Your Child's Good Comes First Before Neighbors' Feelings

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Many mothers who live in close proximity with their neighbors often feel that they have to choose between their own children and the continuation of friendly relations with the neighbors. The hurt feelings that some adults get so easily are hard to deal with and certainly get in the way.

The following is from an uncertain mother: "And why do our good neighbors, who mean well, I am sure, tell my little boy 2½ years old what is known as 'white lies,' such as 'the 'raggedy man will get you if you are naughty,' or 'carrots will make your hair curly?' What shall I do when he comes and asks me if this is so? Tell him the truth and have it eventually get back to them that 'my muzzer said the bears are all in the park?'"

Yes, and yes, and yes. Tell him the truth and take the consequences. If you want to make it easier for yourself by trying to explain away why people talk so, you can make a stab at it with one of those lame attempts we mothers use. But I wouldn't have my little 2½ year old son frightened or let him believe such things for a minute.

And at that I don't think they're such white lies, except the carrot and curly hair one. Anything that puts fear into a child is a pretty dark colored lie—almost black, I should say. It's time that intelligent people stopped talking that way to children.

"The Littlest Bookshelf" is a booklet containing names and descriptions of books for children up to 10 or 11 years, graded according to age.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' BLOUSE.

The blouse with a cowl neckline is a Paris model, and the peplum hipline is a smart new idea that gives that desired flatness over the hips. Blue flat washable flat silk crêpe with the sleeve puffs of blue embroidered organdy made the original model.

The pattern, 3168, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 2¼ yards of 39 inch material with ¼ yard of 35 inch contrasting and ⅛ yard of 36 inch lining.

How to Order Clotilde Patterns.

Write your name and address plainly on dotted lines, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin [coin preferred: wrap it carefully], for each number, and address your order to Clotilde Patterns, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, 220 East 42d str., New York City.

Note—Clotilde patterns are made in New York exclusively for THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE. They are perfect in fit, up to date in style, and the easiest of all patterns to use.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Now Avoids Certain Trots.

It was the morning after the "grand affair." Being very tired, I dozed off to sleep on my way to work. Suddenly, I awoke at the ringing of the crossing bell and shouted at the top of my voice, "All right, mother, I'm awake!"

I thought the ringing was from the clock my mother brings into my room every morning.

Now I avoid riding the train until the passengers forget the incident.

TOMORROW

—You will know why this heartbreakingly beautiful—flesh and blood story of two young humans moved VINA DELMAR to tears!

—AND YOU, TOO, WILL WEEP, LAUGH and WEEP AGAIN—at this human story of a love that was paid for with tears!

I feel that I must express to the Fox Film Corporation my appreciation of the photoplay which they made from my novel "Bad Girl." It is admirably acted and directed. The performances of Miss Eilers and Mr. Dunn are heartbreakingly beautiful and I was deeply touched by the conviction and fidelity which they brought to the story.

Please accept my sincerest thanks for having made my novel into a gorgeous motion picture and tell Mr. Borzage and the cast that they have my deepest admiration and my highest enthusiasm.

Sincerely,
Vina Delmar

Playing With Fire

By WILLIAM MAC LEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Lee Reynolds is the owner of a ranch which drought has almost ruined and starved to death. School friends from the east come as paying guests. Lee quarrels with her guest Brennan. Ranse Brennan, partly on account of a new hand named Smith she hired without his permission and partly because she rejects his love suit. Brennan is discharged and vows revenge. Dunc Daggett, an old ranch helper, recognizes Smith as Jack Hadley, whose father owned a nearby mine and was murdered by outlaws. Hadley tells Daggett that he is searching for the murderer of his father. Lee leases a Mexican ranch and starts moving the herd southward.

INSTALLMENT VIII.

IN MAUAUA LAND.

Night had blanketed the desert long before the herd had been watered and bedded. Moonlight was drenching it with soft silver by the time the men sat down crosslegged to supper.

From a pup tent set a little way from the camp a contralto voice could be heard singing softly a trail song. Jack Hadley listened.

"Last night as I lay on the prairie,
And looked at the stars in the sky,
I wondered if ever a cowboy
Would drift to that sweet by and by.

Roll on, roll on,
Roll on, little dogies, roll on, roll on,
Roll on, roll on,
Roll on, little dogies, roll on."

There was a soothing anodyne in the chorus as it fell from Lee Reynold's lips in the soft Mexican night. The words and tune had been used by every man present a score of times to quiet a restless herd at night. It had been sung for sixty years by trail drivers from Lockhart, Texas, to Billings, Montana. But there were two men present who would always associate it henceforth with Lee Reynolds.

One of them was the sunnosed, bowlegged little puncher dubbed Stumpy. To him his dearest secret that he loved the L'il Boss—loved her dumbly and hopelessly.

An hour later Daggett touched Jack Hadley on the shoulder.

"Miss Lee she wants to see you," he said.

Hadley walked across to the small camp fire where she was sitting.

"Sit down," she told him.

At such a command Stumpy would have reddened to the ears and sat down awkwardly tailor fashion. Hadley dropped gracefully to an easy sitting position. He smiled at the girl.

"Tough a drive as I've ever seen," he said. "There were a few hours when the odds were against us, I thought. Good we had a boss who knew her own mind and kept going."

"Good for her she had men who knew their business," she answered

"O, any one can talk big."

quickly. "If you and Dunc hadn't nursed the herd along the way you did, we would never have got through."

"O, I was just one of your waddies. Give Dunc the credit."

"I'll give you both credit—and thank you. Don't you think I know who brought this herd over the desert? I was brought up with cows. I ought to know."

"If you're pleased I'm satisfied," he said.

She passed, rather hurriedly, to another subject. "What do you think of this revolution they are talking about?"

"I don't know. You never can tell about Mexico. The revolutionary pot is always simmering. Usually it doesn't boil over. I notice the authorities went to the trouble to deny there was any danger of an uprising."

"You saw that copy of the Star then. I didn't like the way the governor backed up in the statement he made. It sounded as though he were covering up."

"Yes. If there's trouble in this state Megares will be in it of course. He's been a nuisance ever since he killed Francisco and took his place."

"It may be very awkward for me if fireworks are started," Lee said, smiling into the fire. "Megares doesn't care for Americans. He might refuse to contribute some cattle to the support of his command."

"Yes," He added a word of comfort. "The authorities have been warned. They'll probably scotch the rebellion before it gets started."

"I expect so." She passed to another matter. "I want you to ride over to the ranche and see that things are ready for us. There are two large new pastures. And you'll probably have to drive into Palo Duro for supplies. I'll give you a list. The car is at the ranch. Probably Mrs. Silver would like to drive in with you. Tell her I'll be there within a day or two. When do you want me to start?"

"In the morning. While you're at Palo Duro keep your eyes and ears open. I mean about this revolution talk. If it amounts to anything we'll have to drive out again. We'll be between the devil and the deep sea. Are not getting the breaks exactly, are we?"

"Sometimes a fellow has to make his own breaks."

He spoke was a little cynical, a little grim, but she got a thrill from it. Out of the sardonic harshness of the man she felt a sense of comradeship. He understood her. He was there to lean on at need. It came to her with a shock. Amazing what comfort it brought her.

Doris was bored. Except for old Juan, whose face was like a wrinkled parchment map, males were conspicuous only for their absence.

In the shade of the long piazza the patio was cool. A fountain splashed musically in the pool where pond lilies bloomed.

A house door opened and a man came out to the patio and moved down the tiled floor of the piazza. That it was a man Doris knew by the sound of jingling spurs. Lazily she turned her head. Into her eyes life leaped.

"What are you doing here?" she asked.

"I might say I'm here because you are."

"Which would be very pretty but not true. Did you know I was here?"

"I knew a lot more than you think I do."

"Enough to take your hat off when you meet a lady, Mr. Brennan?" she said at him lightly.

He flushed with anger, but removed the hat. In fact, flung it to the floor. "We're not indoors," he growled.

She laughed. It pleased her to watch the effects of her darts on this bit of a man, to see rage stir in him and vanity purr.

"You haven't answered my question," she reminded him. "I didn't know you were welcome on Lee's ranches since—"

"She's a hellion," Brennan bit out. "And one of these days I'll tame her with a whip."

Watching him, it seemed to Doris that there was something oddly like triumph in his manner, as though he already held the whip hand. What could he mean by it? Why was he so sure his vengeance could reach her? She decided to find out.

"O, any one can talk big," she said, tilting her chin derisively toward him.

"Kick around."

"For how long? I'm about fed up with Mexico."

"Listen. Whatever happens I'm going to look after you."

"That's very nice of you, though I suppose I'd appreciate your kindness more if I needed any looking after."

"You will," he said omniously. "Hell's going to pop in this country. It has started already."

"What has?"

"A revolution."

Doris sat up, her indolence banished. "A revolution!" she repeated.

"That's why Miss Lee Reynolds gets down off her high horse and says pretty please to the man who wasn't good enough to be her foreman."

"But even if there was a revolution they wouldn't bother Lee. That would be absurd. She hasn't anything to do with it. She isn't taking sides."

"She's over here with the permission of Governor Gabilondo, isn't she? That's enough. If he's for her, Megares will be against her."

"Megares. Good gracious! Is he in it?"

Brennan had said too much, a good deal too much. He knew it, since the revolution was not yet actually under way.

"Whatever you do, don't leave the ranch. Lie low and don't let yourself be seen. I'll take care of you."

"What can you do—a lone American in a foreign land? Will you shoot the war if it comes this way?"

"Trust me. That's all you've got to do. I'm the one man in this country who can and will protect you now," he boasted. "How many Lazy R cattle are on the drive?"

"I don't know. Seems to me Lee said something about twenty-five hundred. Why?"

"How many men with the herd?"

"Eight or nine, I suppose."

"This new rider Smith with them?"

"Yes. What do you want to know for?"

Before he could answer Juan opened a door leading into the patio and stood aside to let a man enter.

A Friend in Need

Junk Clothing and Furniture.

"I am the mother of three children, girls 4 and 9, and a boy 7, and I am expecting another baby soon. I am clothing for all of them and as my husband has not been working I cannot buy it. Could you get us some junk, a stove, and any other pieces of furniture? They took most of our furniture away not long ago because I couldn't meet the payments.

Here is another family feeling the pinch of poverty because the much sought employment has not come to light. Any help you can give them will relieve much of their distress.

Future Party at Lake Forest, Past at Nice

BY THALIA

COINCIDENTALLY, two envelopes in yesterday's mail contained news of Florence Carr's activities, past and future. One was a sheer, blueish foreign one with a French stamp and postmark, and the other, a creamy vellum square with embossed lettering in the corner, postmarked from Lake Forest.

Although the envelope from Shadowbridge, the Lake Forest residence of Miss Carr's father, Mr. Robert F. Carr, encased the card of invitation for the young lady's formal debut reception, to take place on Friday afternoon, Sept. 18, the content of the other was even more interesting.

It was a clipping—"L'Eclaireur de Nice et du Sud-Est"—of an account of a supper-dance, "one of the largest and most brilliant parties of the present season," given by Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick and Mrs. Jacob Baur at Chateau de la Garoupe at Antibes several weeks ago. During the evening "a novel event was the creation of a new dance by Miss Florence Carr and a professional partner, for which a new name had to be selected by the vote of the guests, a jury of six acting as selectors."

"La Garoupea" suggested by Sir Henry Norman was the name finally chosen. Miss Carr's aunt, Mrs. George Russell Carr, whom she has been visiting at "Domain de Beaumont" at Valbonne, was among the guests, but her father didn't arrive until the next morning, and missed seeing the ovation his child evoked.

The guest list is fascinating, generously sprinkled with titles and well known names, among the more glamorous the Grand Duke Boris of Russia and the duchess, Princess Rospigliosi, the ranee of Pudukota, Miss Rosita Forbes [the traveler and author], Alec Waugh, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Oppenheim, Princess Helene Murat and her recently married son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Frank, Baron and Baroness Hardenbrook, and so on down through colonels to plain Mr. and Mrs.'s. Mrs. Chadwick and Mrs. Baur and some friends went on a trip to the island of Corsica after the party and Mary Garden gave them a little party at the Napoleon Bonaparte hotel while they were there.

Miss Carr and her father are to sail from Italy on Friday and will arrive here a few days before the debut tea.

Fly in fancy from a chateau on the shores of the Mediterranean to the high school auditorium in Lake Geneva, and contemplate another youthful fashionable performing. Benjamin Fairbank, the Kellogg Fairbanks' son, appeared in a prestidigitative number at an amateur performance sponsored by the Lake Geneva Methodist church last Friday evening, and with the aid of an assistant kept his audience amused and mystified with his display of magic. Guests at the Fairbanks' "The Butternuts" over the week-end included Mrs. Eleanor Hall Winterbotham, Mrs. J. M. Patterson, and the Samuel T. Chases.

Mrs. William J. Calhoun, who has been in this country since early last December, departed a few days ago to return to that interesting ex-temple residence of hers in Peiping, China. With her went her sister, Mrs. William S. Monroe, with whom she has been for the greater part of her sojourn in these United States. Mrs. Calhoun was with the Monroes in town for most of the winter, and went east for some other visits along in February or March. She has been with the Monroes at their farm at Wayne, Ill., this summer. Mrs. Monroe is to be gone about 2 months.

The A. F. Gartz family returned to Lake Geneva from Oshkosh on Saturday, sailboat, motor boat and all, having carried off honors in the inland lake regatta on Lake Winnebago. Mr. Gartz's Big Foot was the class A winner. Commodore Schmidt returned first from the racing and reported that the regatta is to be on Lake Geneva next year.

Assortment — The Vaughan C. Spaldings and the Austin H. Niblacks are at Easthampton on Long Island for several days. . . . Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody and Miss Harriet McLaughlin got back on Sunday morning from points east. . . . Miss Florence Holbrook of 4429 Greenwood avenue is to give a tea this afternoon for Mrs. Ida Strawn Randall, and Mrs. Randall is to talk on "A Bit of Mexico." . . . Ann Page of Washington, D. C., was the guest of Mary Acher in Lake Forest last week. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Cummings, bound for Paris to meet Mrs. Cummings' mother, Mrs. Phelps B. Hoyt, there, and Miss Charlotte Eckhart were among the Chicagoans aboard the Bremen when it sailed Saturday. . . . Miss Helen Rend is going east to be the guest of the Frazier Jelkes at their place at Newport over the Labor day week-end. . . . Mrs. Ronald Boardman of Lake Forest is spending a fortnight visiting in Schenectady, N. Y. . . . The Bar Harbor club ballroom was done out in white lilies and palms, and there were Japanese lanterns around the swimming pool for the dance Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ayer and the F. Hamilton McCormick-Goodharts of Washington gave on Thursday evening last for Janet Ayer and Patience McCormick-Goodhart.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sincere of Glencoe announce the engagement of their daughter, Roslyn, to A. J. Gaines of Chicago. Miss Sincere is a graduate of the University School for Girls, and attended Wellesley college. Mr. Gaines is a graduate of the University of Michigan.

Eva Le Gallienne Well; Leaves Today for Europe

New York, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Eva Le Gallienne will sail on the Ile de France tomorrow afternoon for a six months' tour of Europe. While abroad she will visit the Moscow Art theater, the Royal theater in Copenhagen, the Comédie Française in Paris, and other continental playhouses.

Miss Le Gallienne's New York Civic Repertory theater will reopen in September, 1932. The Repertory policy will continue with six new productions. The actress has recovered, unscarred from the recent accident in which she was burned on face and hands by an explosion of gasoline.

ENGAGED

[Roehlk Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Venning Dodge Simons of 5000 East End avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Caroline King, to Russell Charles Whitney, son of Mrs. Russell Lathrop Whitney of 5457 Cornell avenue. Miss Simons is a graduate of the Faulkner School for Girls and of the University of Chicago, where she was a member of the Mirror board. Mr. Whitney is a member of Psi Upsilon fraternity and an officer in the 124th Field Artillery of the Illinois National Guard. The wedding will take place on Sept. 19.

Sneezing Season at Height; Patients Rally to Hay Fever Test

As the highest point of the season thus far was reached in hay fever suffering yesterday, when pollen was more prevalent than it has been since the hay fever season started Aug. 15, more men and women victims of sneezing, etc., appeared at the University of Illinois Research hospital. There they offered themselves as volunteers in the hospital's mass experiment with 150 hay fever victims.

A pollen count taken from a slide exposed on the federal building yesterday showed the number of pollen granules per cubic yard of air to be 148 in the loop as compared to Sunday's count of 45 and Saturday's count of 13. Cool weather and a wind off the lake last week kept pollen out of Chicago to a large extent.

The eight women and girls, hay fever victims all, who Saturday replaced eight men in the pollen free ward of the hospital, where an extensive investigation of the effect of filtered air is being made, yesterday went on an excursion to the Field museum. Only one of their number stayed in the pollen free ward throughout the day, a woman with asthma and hay fever.

"We have some very lovely women," observed a doctor who is taking part in the research work at the hospital. "That is—clinically speaking, of course," he added hastily.

One woman had had hay fever 25 years. Another, a corset saleswoman, has a severe case. Three girls were suffering so severely their mothers gave their permission for them to act as volunteers. They are being supervised by a hay fever victim who used to manage a school.

Although the waiting list of persons waiting to take their turn in the pollen-free ward as experimental subjects now numbers more than 200, applicants still are being accepted.

Only intelligent persons are wanted, the directors of the experiment made clear. That is one solace of the hay fever victim, however. He may comfort himself with the thought that a typical hay fever case is one in which the sufferer is a man or woman of the nervous, brainy sort. It is an elect, though painful, fraternity to which the volunteers belong.

Helen Menken Arrives for the Shakespeare Season

Photographers who are in the habit of meeting almost every movie star that comes to town got a surprise yesterday when a young woman known as Helen Menken descended from the Wolverine from New York and announced her intention of staying in Chicago. They discovered the young actress was not a movie actress but is here to do honor to Shakespeare as Ophelia in his "Hamlet," Calpurnia in "Julius Cæsar," and Portia in "The Merchant of Venice."

Down to meet the newcomer went William Faversham, veteran Shakespearean actor, and George Vivian, director of the Chicago Civic Shakespeare society. The names of Faversham and Menken will be on a good many programs of the Chicago Civic Shakespeare society in the Civic theater this winter.

MEETING OF MOSLEM WOMEN IS PLANNED FOR NEXT SPRING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 24.—It is authoritatively stated in London that the Ghazi Pasha has given his benediction to a project put forward by a distinguished woman for summoning a conference of Moslem women next spring at either Angora or Constantinople.

The addenda will include such subjects as abolition of polygamy, the harem system, and forced marriage, as well as attainment of political franchise and social equality. Invitations will be issued through the various women's educational institutions in Moslem countries.

Princess Abbas Halim of Egypt, who is Turkish by birth and is married to that cousin of King Fuad who was deprived of his rank for siding with the nationalist movement, is among the prominent women concerned.

U. S. May Have World Display of Persian Arts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Following the presentation of a memoradum, the government at Teheran has "agreed in principle" to the holding of a Persian exhibition in New York or Washington in the winter of 1932. The exhibition will be on similar lines to that held in London, subject to the cooperation of the other countries concerned.

Persia is taking the first step by agreeing to send the imperial collection from Teheran, and the second step in asking the other important loan countries, such as France and Russia, whether they would send their Persian relics as far as New York. The moving spirits in this idea have been Prof. Arthur Upham Pope of Pennsylvania university, archaeological adviser to the Persian ministry of public works, and Sir Davood Khan, the shah's envoy in Washington.

Commercial and economic reasons are closely interlinked with the proposal. The enormous volume of tourist traffic to Egypt since the seventies of last century followed on the activities of European excavators, who sent their finds to the museums of their respective countries. These finds became the chief "draw" to the Nile.

Persia has remained untouched by tourists. Lack of hotel accommodation has been one of the causes and lack of communications, now completely rectified, another. When Prof. Pope was in Cairo in 1930 making a selection of Persian exhibits for the London exhibition from local museums, he went into the question of hotels for Persia with the great hotel experts of the Nile valley.

As a result Prof. Pope presented to the shah himself a scheme for the immediate building of a chain of modest up to date hotels along the great high roads at spots close as possible to places of historic interest. Pope's plan is to build hotels near Susa, burial place of Cyrus the Great; at the ruins of Persepolis—the classical capital; at Ispahan, the mediaeval capital, Shiraz, the necropolis of the poets, and at Ctesiphon, the last pre-Moslem stronghold where stand the ruins of the largest hall in the world.

The Pope scheme is being put into execution and within the next two years the hotel situation will be sufficient to cope with an infant tourist trade. Existing hotels have been reorganized. In order to draw American tourists to Persia via Beirut, the Persian exhibition will be held in New York. Persian envoys abroad are approaching both public institutions and private owners to secure the loan of Persian relics on the same terms and conditions as for the London exhibition.

The countries which will be asked to cooperate are Russia, France, Turkey, Egypt, Italy and Denmark.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—President and Mrs. Hoover are again in the White House after a week-end at their Rapidan camp.

Vice President Curtis went to Atlantic City yesterday to speak before the convention of the Loyal Order of Moose. Senator Davis, who also is in Atlantic City, gave a dinner tonight in honor of the Vice President, who will return here tomorrow.

Attorney General and Mrs. Mitchell, now at Newport, had among their guests over the week-end Mr. Justice Pierce Butler.

Miss Marion Jardine, daughter of the former secretary of agriculture, arrived here this evening to be the guest of Miss Katherine Lowman, daughter of an assistant secretary of the treasury, and Mrs. Seymour Lowman, in their apartment in the Meridian mansions. Miss Katherine Huston and Miss Mildred Huston, daughters of former Chairman Claudius Huston of the national Republican committee, arrived today to join the house party.

TO WED TODAY

[Malcolm Balfour Photo.]

The marriage of Miss Jane Hunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Hunter of 2763 Girard avenue, Evanston, and Mike Hanley of 1210 Simpson street, Evanston, is to take place this evening at the residence of the bride's parents. Mr. Hanley and his bride are to go on a trip into Canada, and will reside in Bryn Mawr, Pa. Mr. Hanley, who is a brother of Dick Hanley, football coach at Northwestern university, is to be assistant football coach at the University of Pennsylvania.

Bright Sayings of the Children

My little son, Arthur, aged 5, found a wishbone on his plate, and asked me to wish with him.

Arthur won and said that he had wished for a motorcycle.

"You must not tell me your wish," I said.

"Well, if you don't know what I wished for, how will I ever get it," was the reply. P. S.

During a recent hot spell I was working in the garden when a neighbor's 3 year old asked if I weren't hot. I replied that I was quite comfortable as I was in the shade.

She pondered over this a few moments and, after several attempts at the word "comfortable," asked, "Are you THAT now?" R. F. Z.

Food Talk.

"Housewives are responsible for the high cost of meat." That's what my butcher told me yesterday when I was complaining about a disturbing statement he had just sent me. He went on to say that we all want specific cuts of meat for our tables, and as there are only a limited number of these the rest of the carcass has a large percentage of waste. The butcher has to have a margin of profit, and his profit must, of necessity, be based on the whole carcass which he has already purchased.

So, the next time you shop for meat, ask your butcher for some small leftover chunks of meat which he may be about to discard. You can make a grand meat loaf from them—especially if you are so fortunate as to be able to buy a little veal, pork, and beef. And you probably can pick them up for a song.

I never did understand how some women could prove such geniuses in bargain hunting for clothes and then promptly turn about face where food was concerned. A fetching suit blouse is magically made from a silk remnant—why not a delicious meat loaf from beef or veal remnants?

Virtues of a meat loaf are twofold for it can be served hot at dinner and the remainder can be served in cold slices, or as a sandwich filling [with a little mayonnaise and celery] at next day's luncheon.

Meat loaf, too, can be an aristocrat on your menu, if you garnish it effectively with a tomato sauce and serve it with fluffy potato puffs.

SQUASH TIMBALES.

2 eggs.
3 tablespoons milk.
2 tablespoons melted butter.
Pepper.

Press the cooked squash through a ricer. Add the well beaten eggs, milk, butter, salt, and pepper. Mix thoroughly. Turn into buttered molds. Place these in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] until the centers are firm. You may serve the timbales with, or without, a white sauce.

CHOCOLATE ICE BOX CAKE.

Take four chocolate wafers [two to three inches in diameter] for each individual to be served. Pile the wafers one on top of another with a thick layer of whipped cream between each, ending with a wafer on the top. Chill in the refrigerator at least three hours. Serve topped with whipped cream, and a maraschino cherry. One-half pint of cream will serve six.

Poor Mothers Enjoy Resting at Algonquin

Under a willow tree that spreads its shade at the edge of the Fox river, four mothers of Camp Algonquin sat Sunday afternoon on a little green bench.

One by one, they had strolled from the camp on the hillside, three middle aged women and a girl who looked only a few years younger. They sat down side by side without a word and looked out upon the quiet river. Presently the young one began weaving a raffia mat of gay colors. She glanced occasionally at the water and returned to her work smiling.

For fifteen minutes the quartet sat without speaking — four tenement mothers on a vacation. Under a feathery willow tree by the water on a Sunday afternoon. Forgotten were the children. Forgotten were their husbands—out of work. Forgotten the outlook for the winter.

After a while one mother began humming. Another took it up. The third supplied the words. And the strains of "A Long Way to Tipperary" went out over the water, followed by "When Your Hair Has Turned to Silver." A speed boat tore around the bend. The women waved gayly. Down the hill came shouts of children awake from the afternoon rest hour. And the interlude came to an abrupt end.

A few days ago 300 mothers and children were treated to a showing of "Tom Sawyer," in the Grove theater, Fox River Grove.

There had been some secretive plan making on th part of the camp officials and A. Ettlinger, his 7 year old son, John, and George J. Kosalka, owner of the theater. The largest single theater party that has hit Fox River Grove in a long time came in trucks, cheered and yelled all through the breath-taking adventures of the immortal Tom Sawyer and afterward were treated to ice cream by young John Ettlinger. And everybody, including Mr. Ettlinger, who provided the picture and marshaled the party, said they had a grand time.

Only $5 arrived yesterday for the Camp Algonquin fund. This came from J. V. and makes a total of $3,986.61 in the fund. The ladies of Petite Lake park sent $10, and $5 came "For Teddy." This makes a total of $3,596.87 in the ice fund.

New York Society

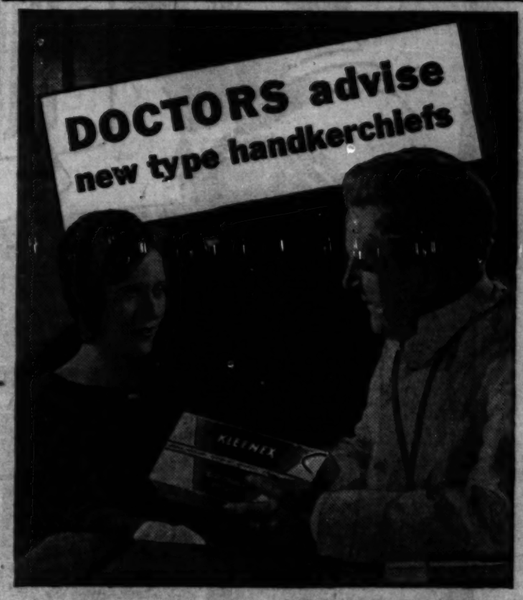
New York, Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. William S. Gould of 350 Park avenue, who have been spending the summer at Greenwich, are sailing for Europe tomorrow night on the Europa. They will go to Carlsbad and expect to return about Nov. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Forbes Potter are leaving New London tomorrow for their apartment at the Vanderbilt hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. James Blackstone Taylor of 521 Park avenue sailed for Europe this evening on the Majestic. They have been spending the summer at Sunset house, their place at Oyster bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph R. Loening of Glimpse Water, Glen Cove, L. I., have arrived at the Hot Springs, where they will spend the remainder of the season.

Mrs. George Wilde of 101 West 55th street has left for Newport, where she will be the guest of Mrs. James Griswold Wentz for a fortnight.



No self-infection when you use KLEENEX
disposable tissues

Kleenex is destroyed immediately after use—no washing—no self-infection.

"USE a handkerchief tissue you can destroy!" Any doctor will tell you that's the sane, the healthful thing to do.

A soiled handkerchief is an object of disgust, and doctors know it for a potential source of danger as well. Only a clean, fresh, unsoiled handkerchief should ever touch your nose and mouth!

Now possible with Kleenex

Kleenex costs so little that each tissue is used only once, then destroyed. There's no handkerchief to wash. And what a relief that is!

You'll find Kleenex far more satisfactory in every way. It's softer, gentler, more absorbent than the softest linen handkerchief.

Many home uses

Motorists like to keep a package in the car. Mothers find Kleenex useful in the nursery.

Kleenex comes in Cellophane-wrapped packages, which permit easy removal of tissues with one hand. At all drug, dry goods and department stores.

HAY FEVER VICTIMS...
If you have hay fever . . . if you know one who suffers . . . invest in a package of Kleenex at once. It is impossible to describe the greater comfort of these dry, gentle, absorbent tissues. Do not put up with damp, irritating handkerchiefs another day. Kleenex costs less than laundering.

CHEVROLET

Step out of any other low-priced car, step into a Chevrolet, and drive! If you're accustomed to less-than-six performance, you'll be surprised at the difference six cylinders make.

When you start the engine, and let it idle—the whole car remains steady, as well as everything in it. When you drop into low gear, and let the engine take hold—the power flows evenly. There's no semblance of strain.

This smoothness stays with you whatever you do. Accelerate—throttle down—go fifteen or fifty—take a hill in high—or creep along in low. Consistently, you get the same fine smooth response. For six-cylinder smoothness is built in the motor—and objectionable vibration never gets a chance to start!

Yet smoothness is only part of your six-cylinder experience. There's quietness—comfort—flexibility—handling ease. All are points in which sixes excel, all are noticeable in one short drive. Quietness, because noisy vibration is gone, and with it a big source of squeaks and rattles. There is only a steady purr of blended power. Comfort, especially at low and high speeds. A six doesn't tire the driver or the passengers. A six is easier on body—and nerves. Flexibility, because the power-impulses of a six overlap. Response is more positive; performance more elastic. High gear can be used for most of the day's work. There's less shifting to do. The car is easier to handle!

And particularly, if you raise the hood of a Chevrolet and watch the engine while it runs, you'll know what a difference six cylinders make—to your pocketbook. Without vibration to cause friction and wear, the whole car must last longer, require less attention, less repair. And remember—thousands of owners have found that this engine uses less gas and oil than any other.

MRS. PRESSLER LEADS WESTERN WOMEN'S GOLF

Equals Par

[illegible]	555	554	343—39

Mrs. Leona Pressler of Los Angeles is the field of more than 160 for the qualifying medal in the twenty-ninth annual western women's golf championship yesterday at the Exmoor country club by shooting 79, even par. Despite a brisk cross wind, the general level of golf was the best in the tournament's 29 years of play. Twenty-eight shot 87 or lower, while seven, who carded 86, were forced to play off the extra four places in the field of 32 which opens match play for the title today.

Mrs. Gregg Lifur of Los Angeles was among the seven who had to play off, but she went in easily with a 5 and 4 on the extra hole. The other winners of the playoff were Virginia Ingram, Chicago; Betty Bruen, Kansas City, and Mrs. L. C. Horn of Chicago. The losers were Miss Julia Wilson, Muskegon, Mich.; Mrs. Alice Dolman, Fort Wayne, Ind., and Mrs. A. H. Brown, Chicago.

Although Mrs. Pressler played brilliant golf to take the lead, it remained for Mrs. George W. Tyson of the Hillcrest Country club of Kansas City to supply the big thrill of the day with a hole in one on a practice round on the 131-yard, 9-41 hole. As defending champion she was exempt from qualifying.

Miss Van Wie Has 80.

Mrs. Tyson's ace came on the 135 yard ninth, which she came up to one over par. A No. 4 iron did the trick, the ball arching perfectly on to the green, where it had just enough backspin to trickle into the cup. Mrs. Tyson left her two over par at the start and she improved on the home-coming route, staking a 40 foot down-hill putt via the eighteenth for an 80 to tie.

Mrs. Pressler came Miss Edith Van Wie of Beverly with 39—41—80, and Miss Bernice Wall of Oshkosh, Wis., who turned the Exmoor course in 40—40—80. Other favorites to clinched places in the match play rounds were Mrs. O. S. Hill of the Knollwood Lake club of Kansas City, Mo., champion, who had 39—42—81; Miss Josephine Beebe of Olympia Fields, 41—42—83; Miss Jane Weller, Vernon Hills, 42—41—83; an Indian Hill trio composed of Mrs. Austin Pardue, 44—42—86; Miss Joan Armstrong, 43—42—85, and Miss Helen MacMorran, 43—42—85; Mrs. Melvin Jones, Lincoln-wood, 46—42—88; Mrs. Lee Mida, Butler, 43—44—87, and Mrs. Charles Brown, Cuwentasia, 43—41—83.

Miss Tree on Seventh.

Mrs. Pressler did not get off to an auspicious start, hooking her drive on the first hole and falling short of the green for 6, one over par. She repeated this stroke on the third with which hole 4 when she was on in two and down with two putts. An eight on the fifth produced another birdie on the sixth.

Mrs. Tyson drove to the seventh hit a tree and bounced back within five feet of the pin, but she got on in two and sank her putts. She took 5 on the fourth because her second shot was poor, but a 25 foot chip on the sixth gave her another birdie. She took par on the incoming nine except for the eleventh, where her second hit a trap and she took two shots, and the sixteenth, where she had a birdie.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Babe Ruth yesterday followed his ancient custom of picking on Tommy Thomas, for five years his favorite cousin, by knocking out his No. 37 homer in the first inning, taking a walk in the third inning, singling in the fourth and sixth innings, and doubling in the ninth. These things and others enabled the New York Yankees to administer another blistering to the White Sox, 8 to 5.

The Sox haven't been able to defeat the Yankees at Comiskey Park this season and they wouldn't have been in the ball game as much as they were yesterday but for a generous streak of wildness by Gomez in the third inning, in which he walked four men in a row to furnish the bulk of the Sox scoring.

The victory made it three in a row for the Yanks in the current series and six in a row on their recent efforts, the latter being their most extended winning streak of the year.

Sox Rule the Cellar.

The Sox dropped below the .500 mark for their present home stand, with a record of 10 defeats and 9 victories, and Thomas sagged below the .500 mark for the season, now having 11 defeats to 10 victories. The Sox now are alone in the American league cellar.

Ruth, who is trailing the idle Mr. Simmons in the batting averages, gained much ground as a result of yesterday's carryings on and his Sabbath activities didn't hurt him any. In fact, the Babe would like to stick around in these rich pastures for a month, as witness his figures in a composite box score the three games of the series to date:

	AB	R	H	BB	TB	BA
Mr. Ruth	11	5	3	5	17	.727

Yanks Make 17 Hits.

Most of the brutality toward Thomas was displayed in the first four innings, in which the Yanks made 11 of the 17 hits accomplished at Thomas' expense. At the end of the fourth inning the Yanks were leading by the narrow margin of 5 to 4, though they had made 11 hits for 15 bases while the Sox had pounded out two hits for a total of two bases.

The Sox actually were leading, 4 to 2, at the end of the third inning, due to the four run benevolence of Gomez in the third.

The making of four runs in one inning caused a shudder among Sox partisans, who recall how Tommy swoons immediately after a big Sox rally. Their fears were realized, for the Yanks made five hits and three runs in the very next session, but

NO MORE TAKES LINCOLN FIELDS OPENING STAKE

BY FRENCH LANE.

That horse No More did it again as the racing season opened at Lincoln Fields yesterday.

He's been doing it—winning races—for a large, faithful following ever since the Chicago racing season opened. He started winning at Aurora way back last May. He continued to win at Washington Park in June. He won at Arlington in July and he triumphed at Hawthorne in August.

No More yesterday scored one of his most brilliant triumphs of the year in the Olympian Fields purse, which featured Lincoln Fields' opening program, by a length and a quarter from My Dandy.

Some horse, one might say. It is doubtful if there is a more consistent thoroughbred on any track in America this year, for it was No More's seventeenth start this season. He has won 7 of those races. Six times he has been second and third once. He has been out of the money only three times and always beaten by a high class race horse.

No Doubt as to Result.

No More didn't leave the result of the Olympian Fields purse in doubt. He had to maneuver a bit going down the back stretch to find an opening to drive forward through, for My Dandy and The Okah were outrunning him in the early stages, but he found the opening near the lower bend and when Jockey Cunningham drove him through it the race was as good as over.

My Dandy, with Allen riding him hard, made one belated challenge turning into the homestretch, but it was a dying effort and No More pulled away until he was three lengths in front. Cunningham eased up the son of Friar Rock-Once More nearing home and he galloped easily on to his victory.

No More and My Dandy had things their own way throughout the battle. Camp Prince finished third, but he was a good half dozen lengths back of the two leaders. No More stepped the six furlongs in 1:13, slower time than he has made in other engagements, but he didn't have to run any faster to do his day's work in winning fashion.

Pays Only $3.38 to Win.

In the mutuels he was the odds on choice, paying $3.38 to win, $2.30 to place, and $2.20 to show. My Dandy was at $2.46 to place and $2.34 to show. Camp Prince's show price was $3.28.

The Lincoln Fields opening was witnessed by 10,000, including all of the Chicago regulars and many who go to the races only at this track, which has a typical country setting. Except for No More's easy triumph, all the races brought hard fought, exciting

• Connie Mack •

The Life Story of Baseball's Grand Old Man

This is the first of a series of articles on the life of Connie Mack, manager of the world champion Athletics.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—"Sixty-nine years ago, in the little village of East Brookfield, Mass.," so runs the old biographical formula, "there was born to Mr. and Mrs. Michael MacGillicuddy, a son, Cornelius. Little did the simple, industrious villagers of East Brookfield suspect that morning that the squawling mite, squirming in a neighbor woman's practiced arms, would one day come to be one of the greatest figures in American sport, the Grand Old Man of Baseball."

And so forth.

I have no wish to flout tradition, but I think that by now it can be taken for granted that Connie Mack was indeed a squawling, squirming mite 69 years ago. That the other people of East Brookfield, Mass., hadn't the faintest notion that he would one day become the Connie Mack we know is not too much to assume, either.

The state of professional baseball at that time was such that the game seemed to offer no fit field for a Grand Old Man. Even when Cornelius had become a professional player himself, in 1884, abbreviating his name to Connie Mack in the manner of professional athletes of those days, there were still some stubborn dissenters from the generous notion that a ball player, if he behaved himself, might some day struggle up to social equality with a safe blower.

They Wanted to Make a Cobbler of Connie.

The ball players drank and used vulgar language in public, some of them were throwing ball games, their manners were impolite and they played to a coarse element who gambled brazenly on the games and broke into shocking disorder every day, all contrary to the public peace. Not to evade the truth, baseball was no respectable profession when Connie Mack was growing up to the game and the fact that so pious a youth as Connie, so abstemious of habit and so sanitary of thought and word, was attracted to the game in spite of its low repute and the associations which he would have to endure is a gauge of his enthusiasm for the sport.

He was betrothed to the trade of cobbler in one of those New England shoe and textile centers which had done so well in the manufacture of papier-mache soles and porous uniforms for the defenders of the Union in the civil war. He took a grave decision when he renounced a career with the patriotic New England manufacturers to join out as a catcher in a trade closely allied to the underworld.

But his strength was as the strength of ten because his heart was pure. A little uneasy he was about his social status with the other professional ball players because he didn't smoke, drink or swear, but he is one of those unusual characters of whom it may be said that they aren't at all bad despite being so good.

In a way, his piety and sweetness make him a difficult subject to deal with on paper, for unlike most men you may turn his character over and find it as white on the other side. There are no contrasts in the man as there are in the bitter and yet gentle McGraw with his sanguinary rages and his startling charities. Unlike the genteel Dempsey with his ribald past, Connie Mack can tell his story from the beginning up to now without resort to soft evasions. His career is a record of mild adventures, success, failure and success again, without a single instance of malice or questionable dealing.

Once Upon a Time Connie Bet a Bit.

It is true that when he was catching for Pittsburgh in the '90s he tipped the bats of his opponents, but while it is contrary to good sporting morals for Yale to tie an anchor to the Harvard shell in a boat race, the ethics of baseball are such that a catcher may tip bats at the risk of certain physical and official penalties. It is also true that his old friend, Ban Johnson, as late as the season of 1927 charged him with bad sportsmanship in permitting Ty Cobb and Al Simmons of the Athletics to inflame the crowd against Red Ormsby, the umpire. But, in this case, a minor one at worst, it appears that he merely

CUBS WIN, 8 TO 4; THEN LOSE, 2 TO 1, ON HOMER IN 9TH

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—The Cubs made no headway today in their campaign to recover second place from the Giants. They gained some ground by registering an easy 8 to 4 triumph in the front end of a double header, but that's only half of the story. The other half is chiefly a yarn about Bill Terry's inside the park homer, which broke a tie in the ninth and enabled the Giants to grab their share of today's loot by 2 to 1.

Until Terry came along with his devastating drive Guy Bush, the Giant killer, and Fred Fitzsimmons had engaged in an argument which looked good enough to go on indefinitely. The Hoosier hurler had given up a run at the start and a moment later the Giants grabbed it back. Then it was a matter of reeling off the innings almost without incident until Terry, leading off in the final stand, lined to deep left. Danny Taylor, who had supplanted Wilson, fell in a heap as he made a desperate lunge for the drive. Cuyler had to tear over from center to retrieve it, but Terry was across the plate and the battle was ended long before the ball found its way back to the infield.

Smith Easy Victor.

Except for some fancy Cub hitting and some equally fancy pitching by Bob Smith, there was nothing to the first game. The Giants were on the field all right, but they accomplished little except in the first inning. They got away impressively because that same Bill Terry turned loose a homer with two on, but thereafter Smith simply threw the ball and his foes did nothing about it.

Clarence Mitchell, the ancient southpaw, started against Smith and out of respect for his age the Cubs saw to it that he would be excused early. They landed on him with a rally of five runs in the fourth, two of these being due to a homer by Hartnett. They landed on him some more in the fifth, so Roy Parmelee was called in for a share of a three run rally. Having assembled these eight tallies in two innings, the Cubs appeared willing to take things easy for the remainder of the battle.

Adair Finally Appears.

Among those functioning in behalf of the Cubs was Jimmy Adair, the lad who took a week to travel from Reading. He arrived this morning and was put right to work at short, English moving over to third. As a batter young Adair produced two singles, one in each game, and as a fielder handled himself in such a way as to indicate he might be as good as reported.

The fight for second place will be resumed with another double header tomorrow. Root and Welch are in line

It's All Over But Shouting for Macks and Cardinals

This year, for the first time in several seasons, the major league baseball dopesters practically can clean up their fall "if" tables before the 1st of September.

The American league has become accustomed to pre-September decisions in their league races but it has been many a day since a National league outfit has had such a strangle hold on victory as the Cardinals now boast.

At the close of yesterday's business the Cardinals were leading the second place Giants by eight and a half games and the third place Cubs by 11½ games.

Cards Average 7 in 11.

So far this year the Cards have won approximately seven out of every 11 games played. If they maintain this ratio, their standing at the close of the season will be

Won	98.	Lost	64. Pct. .836

To tie this standing the Giants must win 30 out of their remaining 35 games. The Cubs would have to win all of their remaining 32 games to tie if the Cardinals maintained their season ratio.

Won	94.	Lost	68. Pct. .810

To tie this the Giants would have to win 26 of their remaining 35 games and the Cubs would have to take 23 of the 32 games left on their schedule.

And Now for Those A's.

The Athletics now are leading the second place Senators by 14½ games. All season the champions have maintained a ratio of approximately eight games out of every 11 played. If they continue at this rate until the end of the season, their standing will be

Won	112.	Lost	42. Pct. .727

The Senators would fall seven games short of tying this mark if they won all their remaining 34 games and the Yankees would fall seven short of a tie if they swept their remaining contests.

Even were the Senators to sweep their 34 games, the A's could beat them out by maintaining an average three wins out of each group of five games played. If the A's couldn't do this, Connie Mack would think they were in a terrific slump.

So it looks like today would be a good time to decide upon your St. Louis and Philadelphia hotels for world series reservations.

JACK DEMPSEY KNOCKS OUT 2 IN EXHIBITIONS

Portland, Ore., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Boring in from the first bell, Jack Dempsey laid low Big Bill Hartwell, Boston Negro, a little more than a minute after the start of a four round exhibition fight here tonight.

The second victim of the ex-champion's still mighty arm was Dave McRea, Tulsa, Okla. He lasted less than a minute of the second round.

Denny Lenheart, Portland, the third opponent, went the other two rounds with Dempsey.

Bob Mariels, the fourth to enter the ring against Dempsey, also stayed two rounds, giving the fans six rounds in all for their money.

KAPLAN DEFEATS MANDELL EASILY IN TEN ROUNDS

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Louis [Kid] Kaplan of Hartford, former world featherweight champion, gave Sammy Mandell, of Rockford, Ill., former lightweight champion, a one sided beating in a ten round bout tonight. Kaplan won every round. Kaplan weighed 137½ and Mandell 143¾.

SHEA KNOCKS OUT PETE SARMIENTO

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Walter J. Salmon was presented with the cup which John Sanford gives annually to the winner of the Sanford stakes, the feature race here today. Mad Pursuit, by Mad Hatter from Toddle, bore the Salmon silks to a stirring victory in the stake which in 1919 saw the only defeat of Man o' War.

A great drive down the stretch gave Mad Pursuit the victory after the colt had looked hopelessly out of things in the early stages. The closing rush of the Mad Hatter colt snatched victory from W. R. Coe's Ha Ha, which had led from the break to the sixteenth pole. Ha Ha tired in the last few strides and was beaten half a length by Mad Pursuit, while Lucky Tom landed third, two lengths back of the second horse.

The winner was as good as 4 to 1 in the betting after opening at 7 to 5. Ha Ha, which ran coupled in the betting with Jambalaya, was a 15 to 1 shot and Lucky Tom was quoted at 30, 8, and 4 across the board. The value of the race to the winner was $5,025. It was Mad Pursuit's second score of the meeting. He carried 118 pounds.

Cathop, not much of a name for a high class thoroughbred, but a half brother of old Mike Hall, which caused many of the people in the opening day crowd to back him, galloped to an unexpected victory in the Wills County purse.

Newgre was the short priced favorite, and Porter's Dream, from Jack Howard's stable, had a big following. Right at post time there came a plunge on Cathop.

Porter's Dream and Newgre staged a spirited battle until they reached the head of the stretch; then Porter's Dream drew out into what seemed to be a safe lead. At least Jockey Charley Corbett thought it was a safe lead, for he went sound asleep and apparently didn't hear the thud—thud—thud of Cathop's hoofbeats as they neared the finish line.

Mike Hall's little brother seems to have some of the stretch running ability that made old Mike famous. When Corbett finally woke up and tried to rally Porter's Dream there was no chance of catching Cathop, and the son of Supremus-Clonakilty galloped on home the winner by a length and a quarter. Porter's Dream had enough left to hold the fast finishing Unencumbered safe by a length. Newgro, whipped at the head of the stretch, didn't threaten the leaders in the late part of it.

Cathop, after the heavy plunge on him at post time, paid $11.30 to win, $4.90 to place, and $3.44 to show. Porter's Dream was at $3.84 to place and $3 to show. Unencumbered's show price was $6.54.

WILLIS GLASGOW, FOOTBALL STAR, WEDS IOWA GIRL

Iowa City, Ia., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—The marriage of Willis Glasgow, Shenandoah, Ia., former University of Iowa half back, and Miss Hansetta McHugh, Wyoming, Ia., was announced here today. The ceremony was performed at Princeton, Ill., last Friday.

The Shenandoah star played professional football with the Portsmouth, O., eleven last season, after which he enrolled in the University of Iowa college of law. He will continue his professional grid career this fall with the Chicago Cardinals.

Favorite Wins First Race at Lincoln Fields

Favorite players didn't have anything to complain about as the Lincoln Fields season opened yesterday. Sharp Thoughts, the Agua Caliente Futurity winner, was at $3.26 for a $2 ticket and cantered home all the way in the first race.

Hygro, the speed marvel from Nevada, will make his next start in the Joliet Stakes, to be run at Lincoln Fields Labor day. Veteran Kentuckians who watched him win the Hawthorne Juvenile handicap Saturday are still rubbing their eyes and wondering if it could be true that a 2 year old could have run so fast.

Even old Screw Sanders, the sage of Churchill, admitted he was still dazed by the performance. "Such speed would have made Man O' War finish behind him," Sanders remarked. "It would have unquestionably beaten the undefeated Top Flight, from the east. It would have put to blush any 2 year old that has shown on the American turf since horses began running in this country." Now if you think the sage of the Downs doesn't know his horses, just try to win an argument from him.

Stuyvesant Peabody, president of the Lincoln Fields Jockey club, was among the early arrivals. Charles McCulloch, chairman of the board at Arlington, landed at the track just in time to make a modest speculation on Sharp Thoughts, the winner of the first race. John Schank of Hawthorne was a few minutes late, but was there soon enough to buy a ticket on Double Heart, the winner of the second race. Bob Sweitzer, a member of the board of stewards at Washington Park, passed right on past the mutuel betting pavilion and spent the afternoon over in the stewards' stand.

L. C. Bogenschutz of Latonia succeeded the late Arthur Blanchard of New Orleans as placing judge. E. C. Walker of Frankfort, Ky., was another new official. He appeared as paddock judge.

The Nash brothers of Chicago were reported to be dickering for the contract on Jockey Mike Rose, a youngster that has been quite a sensation on Kentucky tracks this season.

There were many downstate visitors at Lincoln Fields for the opening. Delegations came from Kankakee, Bloomington, Peoria, Springfield, Galesburg, and other cities.

Liberty Limited is the only colt from these parts likely to travel to New York for the Hopeful at Saratoga and the Futurity at Belmont. A final decision on sending him east will be made by Trainer Dick Vestal today. Neither Burning Blaze nor Hygro are eligible for these stakes.

Joseph M. Smoot came on from New York for the Lincoln Fields opening. He was the guest of Col. Matt J. Winn. Mr. Smoot and Col. Winn are to build the new $2,000,000 race track at Miami, which will open during the winter of 1932-'33 and will be managed by Bruce Head, the Lincoln Fields manager.

MAUST BREAKS 199 TARGETS FOR CLASS A TITLE

Vandalia, O., Aug. 24.—(AP)—The 32d annual grand American championship and handicap tournament, the world series of trapshooting, got under way here today with 508 marksmen, the third largest opening day crowd in the history of the meet, competing for the class championship of North America.

In class AA honors went to Carl Maust of Lincoln Park, Mich., who shattered 199 out of a possible 200 targets. His only miss was the 189th target. Monte E. De Wise of Hamilton, Ind., champion of his state, and J. H. Wantling of New York tied for second with 198. In the shootoff De Wise won by breaking 75 straight targets while Wantling missed two.

Fred Harlow of Newark, O., grand American champion in 1908, won the class A championship with a score of 199 out of 200. He was tied by C. B. Stickley of Vaucluse, Va., but in the shoot-off Harlow broke 24 out of 25 targets, while Stickley scored 23. Third prize went to H. O. Brotherton, Escanaba, Mich., who had a score of 198.

The class B title went to Clarence F. Booher of Dayton, O., with a score of 196. A. L. Chalfont, Somerset, O., was second with 195, and H. L. Cheek, Clinton, Ind., third with 194.

J. W. Paddock of Rock Island, Ill., won the class C championship with a score of 194. W. C. Peacock, Chicago, and A. J. Smith, Providence, R. I., tied for second with 193, and in the shootoff Peacock won by breaking 25 straight targets, while Smith missed the 25th.

Godfrey Stops Harriss in Second Round at Toronto

CONNIE MACK

He used to gamble casually but he decided that the winnings couldn't pay for the worry and he laid his last bet, $500 at 3 to 5 on a horse race in New Orleans in 1908, with a resolution that, win or lose, he would never bet again. His horse was detained, he tore up the slip and he never bought another. But it would be inaccurate to say he gambled nevermore, considering that he chanced $100,600 for a long, solemn yokel from the hills of Maryland in 1924 in the hope that this young man, by name Mose, or Lefty, Grove, might become a great and famous pitcher.

On the basis of considerable research and rather extended personal acquaintance with Connie Mack, these are the only charges I can bring against him, so I am afraid this is likely to be one of the sweetest stories ever told.

His undeviating private and public virtue is due in part to an admonition from Ban Johnson, delivered 30 years ago. Connie never had a model in life and when I asked him if there hadn't been some one man, priest or player or mere person, who had served as guide or pattern when he was young he said: "No; the kids in my family got all our guidance and our rules of right and wrong from our mother." But, back in the beginning of the American League, Ban Johnson once told Connie to remember always that he was a public character and therefore required to behave a little better than other men.

"You are known," Ban said to Connie. "You can't do the things that other men can do. If a ball player is seen drunk once in public, the public calls him a drunkard. It isn't enough for a public man to be merely as decent as the average man."

Connie Is Pious, but Fights the Blue Laws.

This was a good deal like warning a rabbit net to climb trees, for Connie Mack's behavior had always been a cut above that of the model private citizen, but it was one more reason why he wouldn't go wrong and Ban's admonition capsuled the rule of conduct in handy form. Connie has fed these capsules to many a young ball player since that day.

Ban, himself, of course, might have added, "Don't do as I do, but do as I say," for he was a stalwart among the two bottle men of the executive branch of baseball for many happy years, and a public figure, too. But, when they set out to reform the conduct of athletes, the baseball magnates reserved certain loose privileges for themselves. A player must avoid the society of gamblers but professional gamblers might buy, and in more than one case have bought and operated, major league ball clubs.

In one respect, the Old Man still lives in the days of long, long ago, but due to no fault of his.

For 30 years he has been balking at the old Pennsylvania Blue Law, passed in the eighteenth century, which forbids baseball on the Sabbath. Speakeasies and dives have flourished on Sundays for years at a time since Connie went to live in Philadelphia, but baseball is immoral once a week and the law and the holy wrath of a few watchful parsons would jail him up in his old age if he were to claim the same privilege.

So Connie Gave Sabbath Back to the Underworld.

Once, in fact, in 1926, the Athletics did play a Sunday ball game, first enjoining the police. They beat the White Sox, 7 to 5, that afternoon in a downpour that didn't deter a crowd of 15,000 customers.

Down the street from the ball grounds a minister said: "It is a pity that after 150 years of God's goodness to this city, there should be shown the disrespect of dishonoring the Sabbath." Another one said he had prayed to God to smite the sinners with rain and claimed credit for an assist when the heavens began to leak.

But the next day Connie Mack was enjoined from doing this vicious thing again lest the court have at him for contempt, so he gave Sunday back to the clergy—and the underworld.

The town forgave him this profanation, though.

In the winter of 1930 the mayor called him back from his winter home in Florida to receive the official homage of Philadelphia and the Edward Bok award of $10,000 as the man who had rendered the most valuable service to the city in 1929. That was the year his ball club at last won another pennant and beat the Cubs in the world series. But if in performing this service he had played a game on Sunday Philadelphia would have found it necessary to cage him up in jail.

CENTRAL A. A. U. FIGHT TOURNEY OPENS TONIGHT

165 Sign Up for Bouts at Northwest Stadium.

Between 40 and 50 bouts are scheduled tonight in four divisions as the annual Central A. A. U. boxing championships open at Northwest stadium, Irving Park boulevard and Milwaukee avenue. The first bout will be at 7:30 o'clock.

Charles Lavine, director, announced that 165 boys have entered.

Starting at 4 o'clock this afternoon the boxers will weigh in and take examinations at the Northwest stadium, with Harry Berz in charge. Berz also will supervise drawings at 7 o'clock.

Finals Thursday Night.

Competition will be among the flyweights, bantams, feathers and lightweights tonight. Tomorrow night the welters, middles, light heavies and heavyweights will make their first appearance, with finals slated for Thursday night.

Three Referees Named.

Three referees will take turns in the ring. They will be Dave Barry, Tom Gilmore, and Johnny Behr. Roy E. Davis, chairman of the Central A. A. U. boxing committee, will serve as ring marshal, with Ted Canty as chief announcer. Judges will be L. E. Osborne, Ed Klein, Edward A. Hintz, R

MOON MULLINS—FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Tuffy's Early Lead Gives Him Edge.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Con O'Kelly, a hardy Irishman who fights for the love of hitting and mixing it, hammered at Tuffy Griffith for ten rounds last night at White Sox park. But Griffith, faster afoot and a better boxer, piled up points enough to win the unanimous decision of Referee Tommy Thomas and Judges William Battyd and John Houghteling. O'Kelly was cheered when he left the ring and he deserved the applause. He fought strongly despite all the punishment Griffith landed and when he was mixed in on Tuffy it was give and take.

Officials announced the paid attendance as 4,839. Gross receipts were $4,691. O'Kelly and Griffith received 5 per cent of the net receipts of $3,691. Despite threatening weather earlier in the evening the show was promoter Mique Malloy's fourth financial success.

O'Kelly Takes Early Lead.

O'Kelly might have earned a draw but he was not able to start at the opening bell. Griffith established an advantage in the first two rounds, a lead which he surely needed in the concluding numbers.

O'Kelly forced the battle in the third round, closing in with a persistency that Tuffy could not sidestep. Then in close O'Kelly beat a tattoo on Griffith's stomach with occasional left hooks to the jaw that had Tuffy busy for the rest period.

The fourth was, with the exception of the seventh, productive of most action. Both stood toe to toe and swung leather to the body.

In the next two sessions, the fifth and sixth, Griffith again took control, no matter how hard he hit the gritty Irishman, O'Kelly came back doggedly for more.

Tuffy Lands His Right.

For a minute in the seventh round he seemed to rally. For the first he outboxed Tuffy, but Griffith caught him with a right smash to the jaw, following with a wild right which constantly dazed the Irish champion. At that, the scoring was even Griffith maintained the pace in the eighth and Griffith outscored O'Kelly in the ninth. Con came out with a rush in the last round and twice staggered Griffith with a right hand, but Tuffy did not lose ground in the last clinch.

Jim Corbett, Griffith's stablemate, fought a six round decision from Charlie Long in the semi-windup. Corbett, known as one of the promising young heavyweights in Chicago, had Long on the floor in the third round in the opening seconds but thereafter he could not penetrate his opponent's stubborn defense.

Tuft Knocks Out Williams.

There was no doubt about the power behind Tuft's punch as there was in the sudden conclusion of the Bill Tate-Chief Jack Kikhart bout. Chief Tate went down once along the ropes for a count and a moment later passed out completely, although it seemed he did not do so quite willingly.

Young Stribling, a welterweight from Lemont, Ill., who has knocked out several Chicago boys recently, completely whipped Bobby Hynds in four rounds. Stribley scored as he pleased and Hynds was holding on at the end.

Babe Ruth Hits 37th; Yankees Beat Sox, 8-5

That Glorious Third.

Perhaps it would be well to give you the details, starting with the Sox's third.

Gerber opened the third with a single and was forced by Thomas. Blue and Reynolds walked, filling the bases. Then Reynolds walked, forcing in Gerber and Fonseca walked, forcing in Blue. Fothergill forced Fonseca, Schang scoring and Reynolds taking third. Reynolds and Fothergill staged a double steal, Reynolds scoring. Ruffing launched the Yank fourth with a foul to Grube, but Lazzeri singled and went to second on Gomez's out. Combs lined to Reynolds, and Ruffing had an easy double play on them, for Lazzeri had gone over to third. Kerr, however, failed to catch Reynolds' throw. Reynolds accepted 10 chances successfully, his hardest one when he made a great try for Sewell's liner to right field, but instead of retiring the side he just got away for a single, scoring Lazzeri.

Ruth Follow Ruth Again.

In the sixth Combs scored on Ruth's single after knocking his second double and in the ninth Ruth followed after doubling. Chapman was hit by a pitched ball, got to second on Gehrig's single, reaching third as Appling dropped the ball after tagging him in an attempted steal, and scored on Dickey's single.

Ruffing held the Sox to four singles in the first eight innings, Gomez in the ninth. Appling doubled, Kerr and Grube singled, the latter scoring one run.

Ruth, a bit discouraged at the idea of winning a ball game, have set up another competition to decide today's baseball affair. Carl Reynolds and Ben Chapman are going to race for a cup, it is avowed. Blue and Peacock are scheduled to pitch in the after show.

A GRIFFITH LICKS AN O'KELLY

Favorites in U. S. Amateur Golf

THOMAS PHILIP PERKINS.

Great Britain has sent forth a number of great amateurs to compete in the United States, but the name of T. Philip Perkins leads all of those who have come over within the last 25 years. Neither the American amateur tournament nor the Beverly course will be strange to Perkins, for he reached the final against Bobby Jones one year and competed in the Western amateur at Beverly last year, reaching the semi-finals against Johnny Lehman, ultimate winner.

THOMAS PHILIP PERKINS.

This pleasant, bespectacled young man, was born in 1904 at West Bromwich, England, but now resides in the United States, playing from the Fox Hills Golf club of Stapleton, N. Y. He won the English closed amateur in 1927, the British amateur in 1928, was the first British amateur in the British open tournament of 1928, was a member of the Walker cup team the same year, and took the Bermuda amateur title last year.

Perkins battled his way to the title match in the national amateur tourney of 1928, but his opponent was the one and only Jones, and he was defeated, 10 and 9. The American amateur crown is still his goal, however, and already this year he has demonstrated his intention of reaching it.

Cubs Whip Giants, 8-4; Then Terry's Homer Beats 'Em, 2-1

FIRST GAME

The three runs with which the Giants got the jump on Smith in the opening inning of the first game began on Fullis' single to center. Leach singled to right and Barton fumbled the ball just long enough to give the runners time to take an extra base. They made the remainder of the journey when Terry selected Smith's first pitch and planted it in the nearby right field seats. Then Smith settled down and breezed through to the finish with no more trouble than a fly ball homer by Ott in the eighth.

The first hit off Mitchell was Adair's single to left to open the fourth. The veteran southpaw then walked English, and the stampede of five runs got under way. Cuyler bounced a high one to Mitchell, who pegged wild. Terry had to chase the ball to lower New York and didn't return with it until Adair and English had scored and Cuyler had reached second. Barton flied out and Wilson singled to center, Cuyler stopping at third. He scored on Grimm's fly to left. Then Hartnett completed the five run rally by aiming his homer into the second story of right field.

Mitchell Errs Again.

Mitchell was careless about his fielding again in the fifth, and that assisted the Cubs in the collection of three more runs. Smith walked and Adair bunted. Mitchell kicked the ball around and lost both runners, but this break was atoned for a moment later when Hogan picked Smith off second base. English then singled to right, Adair moving to third, and Mitchell was excused in favor of Parmelee. Cuyler hit to right, Adair scoring. A one handed stop by Critz robbed Barton of a hit, but the play at least put English and Cuyler in position to register on Wilson's one base blow to right.

SECOND GAME

Adair paid his compliments to Fitzsimmons right at the start of the evening battle, and this enabled the Cubs to move into a one run lead. Adair singled to center and scooted to second when Hogan committed a passed ball on English's third strike. Cuyler lined a single over first base and Adair scored. A pass to Barton came next, but Wilson grounded into a double play.

The Giants put on an interesting demonstration in the second. They exploded four singles with none out, but scored only one run. Ott led off with a safe grounder through short. Hogan bounced a single over Bush's head. Hunnefield singled to right to send Ott home. Bush then cleaned up the mess in a hurry. English scooped up Marshall's grounder and shot it to Hartnett to force Hogan at the plate. Fitzsimmons hammered one straight back at Bush, who stabbed it with his glove hand, and threw to Hartnett for a double play, which ended with Gabby making a beautiful toss to Grimm at first.

Wilson Chased by Umpire.

In the fourth Wilson did his little bit to break the monotony of the duel in which Bush and Fitzsimmons were engaged. Umpire Reardon called a third strike on Hack who thought it should have been something else. He stood up at the plate for fully a moment and bellowed lustily. Reardon listened for a spell and then told the orator he was through for the afternoon. Hack didn't take the banishment seriously, so at the close of the inning he walked out to his position. When told he couldn't stay, he engaged in a one man pantomime, which gave the impression that Hack thought Reardon had the big head.

Bush, who had only a small amount of trouble after the second inning, was forced to unfold every trick at his command in the eighth. He got into a hole by passing Critz. Marshall bunted to Grimm, who took a long chance on getting Critz at second. The throw was late. The two runners advanced on Fitzsimmons' sacrifice. On Fullis' grounder to Blair, Critz was retired at the plate. Blair threw out Leach to end the incident. Then Terry ended everything in his own spectacular fashion a bit later.

Dawson's 149 Wins Medal in District Golf

George Dawson, eldest of the three golfing Dawson brothers, shot a 36 hole round of 76—73—149 to win medalist honors in the qualifying round of the Chicago district amateur championship at Knollwood yesterday.

By leading the field of 135, George vindicated himself for failing to qualify in the national amateur trials at Onwentsia three weeks ago. Yesterday's field was virtually a duplication of the Onwentsia tryouts, practically all of the best golfers in the district being on hand for an attempt to win the title now held by Jack Westland of Sunset Ridge.

Scores of 159 and under qualified for the thirty-two places in the championship flight, which will get under way today with two 18 hole matches. Finals will be played Thursday.

Martin Second with 150.

Trailing Dawson by one stroke was Dick Martin of Briergate, who posted a score of 73—77—150. Tares were bracketed in third place with 151. They were Lew Levison, present Chicago southpaw champion; Burton Mudge, of Knollwood, and Larry Moller, former Notre Dame golf champion.

Jack Westland, defending champion and low qualifier at the national amateur trials, equalled par 73 for his morning round, but blew up in the afternoon to take an 81 for a 36 hole total of 154.

Dawson accumulated six birdies along the 36 hole route, three of them accruing in the morning when he shot a 76. Two three putt greens and trouble in a trap on the third hole accounted for his going over par figures. In the afternoon he was over par three times: on the fifth when his drive landed in the rough, on the seventh, which he three putted, and the eighth, which he three putted.

He was one under par on the last nine which he negotiated in 36. He equalled par on the 10th with a 5, had a birdie on the 11th and then played the remaining seven holes in par figures on each hole.

Scores Two Eagles.

Martin's sharpshooting was the reverse of Dawson's. He turned in his best round in the morning when he equalled par 73, but weakened in the afternoon by coming in with a 77. He had two eagles, a 3 on the par 5 16th in the morning and another on the par 5 9th in the afternoon.

Hungry Woodcock Quits Forest for Dinner on Lawn

BY BOB BECKER.

How a woodcock or "timberdoodle" has left its regular home in the lowlands and has taken up its residence on an Iowa lawn was one of the interesting observations on wild life which reached our desk last week. If the drying up of our marshes and sloughs continues, we may expect more of these birds to move into town where they can follow grass sprinklers on lawns and thus dig up worms.

Ray C. Edmonds, postmaster of Le Mars, Ia., writes us about the woodcock which shows a preference to green lawns. Here is his letter:

"A real live woodcock has taken up his abode at the residence of George W. Kluckhohn in this town. The writer was called over to view a strange bird feeding on the lawn with a bunch of robins. For more than a week this queer visitor had been noticed by Mr. Kluckhohn because it usually came to feed in the front yard where a hose had been used to sprinkle the grass. Each day about 9 in the morning and again in the afternoon the bird would appear and walk around on the lawn.

"It would flatten itself on the ground when approached by visitors and allow them to come within 15 feet before taking flight. All the neighbors had their bird books out, but, even though they had a close up view of it, no one could find a picture of it because they were searching in the song bird class.

"The writer has hunted game for 25 years, but never has seen a woodcock in Iowa. Why should this one stay around on a lawn in such a public place? It was a perfect male specimen, not injured in any way.

"The country is very dry here in Iowa, with all small sloughs dried up; no rain for many weeks. My opinion is that Mr. Woodcock is finding the moist ground a good feeding place and hides in my neighbor's rock garden during the day."

We know of several woodcocks which have frequented gardens in north shore suburbs, but these birds usually appear in the spring, during migration, stay a while, and then go north. This Iowa birds thus is something of a novelty, as it apparently has moved in from the country to spend its time in town, where a sprinkler gives a good imitation of a rainstorm.

PIPGRAS' FINGERS INJURED; YANKS SEND HIM HOME

George Pipgras, right handed pitcher who was out of the Yankees lineup early in the season because of an appendicitis operation, may be lost for the remainder of the 1931 campaign.

He was sent to New York yesterday for X-rays of the middle finger of the pitching hand, hurt last Wednesday in St. Louis by a line drive from Lin Storti's bat. It is thought the finger is fractured.

Toledo May Give Up Pro Basketball League Team

Toledo, O., Aug. 24.—[Special.]—Toledo probably will be without a professional basketball team this coming season, Ed Cannon, who for four years has managed the Red Men, announced today. While he has not definitely abandoned the American Professional league, he declared it was improbable last year's backers would underwrite the team again.

ATHLETICS AND MAHAFFEY BEAT BROWNS, 5 TO 1

Goslin's Homer Robs Roy of Shutout.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Holding the St. Louis Browns to five hits, Leroy Mahaffey hurled the Philadelphia Athletics to a 5 to 1 victory here today and chalked up his fourteenth win of the season. Only Goose Goslin, who hit his twentieth home run of the year in the first inning, was able to score off the Philadelphian.

The A's took an early lead when they scored four runs off Sammy Gray in the initial frame on five hits, including a triple by Jimmy Foxx.

TIGERS BEAT SENATORS.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 24.—(AP)—Detroit slipped out of the American league cellar today by defeating Washington, 6 to 5, while Boston was losing to Cleveland and Chicago to New York.

After allowing four hits which gave the Senators a three run lead in the first inning, Elon Hogsett tightened up until the seventh, when another pair of runs broke a tie Detroit had gained in the sixth. Detroit tied it up again in the seventh and scored the winning run with two out in the ninth when a fluke triple by Alexander sent Stone home. Score:

CHICAGO STOCK TRADING DRAGS ALONG SLOWLY

Prices Ease at Start, Then Firm Up Later.

Trading on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday again moved in a listless manner. The close found considerably more losses than gains, with a fair proportion of shares remaining stationary. However, with a few exceptions, movements either up or down were rarely greater than fractional. The turnover for the day amounted to only 57,000 shares.

At the opening the general tendency was downward, but as the session wore on prices firmed up enough to permit the recording of some advances. United States Radio and Television was the most active issue on the board with a turnover of 7,800 shares. It closed at 29, up ⅝.

Move in Narrow Range.

The utilities generally moved within a narrow range. North American Power and Light was off 1⅛ to close at 64¾ on sales of 550 shares. Middle West Utilities on sales of 3,550 shares was off a minor fraction in closing at 16⅝. Cities Service, too, lost, a minor fraction in closing at 10½.

Rendix, among the automotives, was fairly active, losing ¼ to close at 31⅝. Borg-Warner advanced ¼ to close at 18⅝ on 1,900 sales. Cord closed at 7¼, down ⅛.

In the general list shares were not especially active. Katz Drug made a new high, advancing ⅝ to close at 20½. Quaker Oats was down 3½ points to close at 136. At one time it dropped to 132½, but picked up a part of its loss toward the close. Electric Household lost a point, while North American Car and Thompson made fractional gains.

Insull Utilities on Sales of 6,650 Shares.

Insull Utilities on sales of 6,650 shares lost a fraction and Corporation Securities dipped slightly also.

Utah Radio Products company yesterday announced that it is putting on the market a new automobile radio remote control. The instrument permits the placing of the receiver any where in the car, with the control instrument situated on the steering wheel.

Trust Reports on Values.

The Utility and Industrial corporation, an investment trust formed by H. M. Byllesby & Co., early in 1930, on June 30, 1931, had a liquidating value of $28.54 a unit of preferred and common stock, or 46 per cent more than the market prices of the stocks at that time, according to an analysis made by the statistical department of the Byllesby company. The corporation reported the value of its portfolio at $27,604,803 as of June 30, a decline of 26 per cent from the cost of the portfolio at $37,440,862. This compares with a decline of 60 per cent in the stock market as a whole, according to the analysis.

The Lion Oil Refining company for the six months ended June 30 reported a net loss of $324,048 after all charges, including interest, depreciation, and depletion, as compared with a net profit of $19,054 after all charges, but before federal taxes, in the same period of 1930. For the second quarter the company had a net loss of $121,551, as compared with a loss of $202,497 for the March quarter.

PACKER HIDES CONTINUE DROP; OFF HALF CENT

On a movement of fewer than fifty thousand packer hides from first hands, values receded half a cent during the last week, in continuing the decline from the peaks of a month or so ago, which already has erased almost 15 per cent of the former gain, according to the Shoe and Leather Reporter.

However, a termination of the downward tendency is seen in the absorption by tanners of rather large quantities of back dating midwinter hides which had been held for delivery against hide future contracts, the owners being able to secure a slight advantage in reselling as actuals instead of tendering against future commitments next week, when deliveries against September options can be made.

Current holdings of packer hides were rather large for size, but were not burdensome. These stocks have been accumulated as a result of the apathy of tanners toward paying better than a hide futures equivalent. As the speculative commodity was lower than sellers felt the actuals were, tanners withheld support.

However, the season for exceptional quality was rapidly drawing to a close and traders were expecting a seasonal urge on tanners' part to accumulate some of these hides for the production of specialty leathers. For this reason packers were holding their moderate stocks firmly.

New York Bank Stocks Decline in Last Week

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—Bank stock prices receded last week, according to the New York City bank stock dollar index figures issued by Monahan, Schapiro & Co.

The present yield of 5.1 per cent compares with 5.054 per cent a week ago, 4.972 a month ago, and 3.191 a year ago. The firm's compilation indicates that the shares of the sixteen leading New York City banks and trust companies are selling at 17.7 times known earnings, as compared with 21.3 times known earnings a year ago. The composite ratio of market times book value of 1.39 compares with 1.21 a week ago, 1.23 a month ago, and 1.36 a year ago.

Change Name of Terre Haute Traction Company

The name of the Terre Haute Traction and Light company has been changed to the Terre Haute Electric company, incorporated.

A certificate of amendment to the company's charter was filed with the secretary of state in Indianapolis Saturday and the new corporate name became effective at once. Officers of the company pointed out that the new name is more descriptive of the greater portion of the company's properties. The Terre Haute Electric company, incorporated, is a subsidiary of the Midland United company.

SAYS RECOVERY LIES IN SELLING FOR A PROFIT

Find Distress Mdse. Leaving Shelves.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The first requisite to business recovery is that merchants and manufacturers shall stop profitless merchandising. This is the pronouncement of the National Foreign Trade Council and it is broadcasting this gospel throughout every industry in the United States. With distress merchandise now largely out of the way, it is believed that prices can be stabilized or even strengthened.

The council calls attention to the fact that although wholesale commodity prices in the United States have declined by an average of 1¼ per cent a month during the last seven years, that reduction is now proceeding at a rate of slightly less than one half of 1 per cent a month," the council says. "There is a strongly defined indication that the trend of foreign trade may presently return to stable prices and a resumption of price values.

"Although falling prices are common to all parts of the world, the stabilization of our domestic market will have a strong constructive influence in other countries. Trade associations, bankers, manufacturers, advertising agencies, steamship and rail transportation companies have joined this strong movement against the inertia caused by falling prices and this is having a very second effect on the present trade situation."

Foreign Situation Dominant.

Business developments which can be seen now to forecast will largely influence business conditions in this country, according to the weekly letter of the Harvard Economic society. "From the first of August, with the loosening of the German banks and relaxation of pressure upon foreign exchange, the European situation has taken a turn for the better," the letter says. "In this country such signs as are available for the first two weeks of August indicate some quickening of activity in lines affected by the autumn seasonal movement. Commodity prices also have again shown signs of stabilization.

"Whether seasonal improvement will be more or less than usual is impossible now to forecast. The financial crisis in Europe checked the recovery which began in the second quarter of the present year, and has greatly brought our business curve to a new low level. We regard the European situation still as the dominant factor.

What May Be Expected.

"Conditions in Europe, and especially central Europe, presently improve we may expect a seasonal increase of business approximating or even exceeding the full seasonal gain which would mark the beginning of recovery from business depression.

"If financial unsettlement continues in Europe real business recovery here may be prevented and the present depression may be prolonged into a double depression, resembling in many respects that of 1893-'96."

Out Loans, Investments.

Leading banks of the federal reserve system reduced both their loans and investments in the week ended last Wednesday. The weekly statement of reporting member banks in the principal cities shows that loans on securities declined $26,000,000. On the other hand, all other loans expanded $13,000,000, which may indicate the beginning of the seasonal autumn business improvement.

The banks disposed of a considerable amount of investments, as shown by the fact that their holdings of government securities declined $38,000,000 and other securities receded $32,000,000. However, total borrowings from federal reserve banks increased $34,000,000.

Offer Expires Sept. 1.

Official announcement was made yesterday that the offer to purchase Commonwealth Electric company first sinking fund 5 per cent bonds, due June 1, 1943, at 110 and accrued interest will expire on Sept. 1. Halsey, Stuart & Co. as agent for the Commonwealth Edison company, successor by consolidation to Commonwealth Electric company, also made known that the company will not renew its offer to purchase these bonds on any terms prior to maturity.

The offer to purchase was made at the same time and on the same terms that the Commonwealth Edison company issues were called as a part of a refinancing program on a 4 per cent coupon basis, involving a new issue of $55,000,000. The Commonwealth Electric company bonds, issued under a mortgage dated June 1, 1898, were noncallable.

Hear Eastern Rail Merger Plan Has Been Abandoned

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—Weakness in rail stocks, most of which hovered around the lows for the year, gave credence today to reports in Wall street that the four party consolidation plan in the eastern territory had been abandoned.

It is understood that the New York Central has refused flatly to approve granting of trackage rights to the Pennsylvania railroad along Lake Erie over the Nickel Plate road, controlled by the Van Sweringen brothers.

In the absence of Patrick E. Crowley, president of the New York Central, confirmation of this report could not be obtained. Mr. Crowley was said at the offices here to be on a vacation up state.

May Change Attitude.

It is reported from Washington that the virtual failure of the four party plan has prompted the interstate commerce commission to change its attitude toward railroad consolidation and will now proceed on a national instead of a regional scale.

Shares of Central, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio, and other leading issues went to new lows for the bear market today as measured by the Standard Statistics' average of twenty stocks.

Refusal of the New York Central to agree to Pennsylvania's demand for Lake Erie trackage rights was prompted by a fear of loss of automobile business, which is one of the mainstays of the Michigan Central's revenues.

The Van Sweringen interests were agreeable to the plan and in return were to obtain the Lehigh Valley holdings of Pennsylvania.

Southwestern Situations.

The situation in the southwestern consolidation movement seemed cut and dried until it was revealed that the Southern Pacific, after obtaining control of the St. Louis Southwestern, had purchased 44,300 shares of St. Louis-San Francisco common stock at a cost of $4,885,625, or an average of $110.35 a share. It also bought 1,600 shares of Frisco preferred for $148,145.

This was followed by the disclosure that the Rock Island had acquired 25,000 shares of Frisco common. This move was doubly hard to understand in that the Frisco already held 183,000 shares of Rock Island common. One interpretation was that the Frisco and Rock Island managements were firmly of the opinion that neither of the two roads should be merged with any other. Thus Frisco stock may have been bought by the Rock Island to offset the Southern Pacific purchases in the Frisco.

Once Owned Road Outright.

The Gulf, Mobile and Northern is supposed to be in the hands of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy. The Frisco at one time owned the Gulf road outright. At another time the Frisco and the Louisville and Nashville jointly owned this carrier. When the Gulf, Mobile and Northern emerged from receivership the last time, the Frisco received some stock for its bonds. At present the Frisco is reported as a large holder of Gulf, Mobile and Northern common and preferred.

Important financial interests in Burlington have large holdings in the Southern Pacific. With the Northern's merger meeting the opposition that it did, and with the two Northerns having been denied the Burlington and the Burlington having been assigned as a separate system from that of the Northerns in the interstate commerce commission's consolidation plan, it would not seem out of reason for the Frisco eventually to become a part of the Burlington system, and for the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific to form the complement to carry the Southern Pacific to Chicago.

Seen Rival of Ill. Central.

This would place the Burlington in a position to become a formidable rival of the Illinois Central on north and south traffic between Chicago and the gulf. The Frisco would fit the needs of the Burlington. It would connect its western line running south [the Colorado Southern] with its hoped for eastern line running south, the Gulf, Mobile and Northern.

APPALACHIAN GAS ACQUIRES CONTROL OF EMPIRE CORPORATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—The Appalachian Gas corporation, one of the largest natural gas producers and distributors in the United States, has acquired a controlling interest in the Empire corporation, which renders electric light and power, natural gas, telephone, water, and ice service to more than 250 communities embraced by nine states, it was announced today.

The Appalachian Gas corporation was formed in October, 1929, and since that time has acquired twelve natural gas companies, bringing its total assets up to $60,000,000, with a gross annual revenue of more than $10,000,000.

The component companies in the corporation constitute one of the largest natural gas groups in the United States. They produce and transport natural gas in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky, West Virginia, and Ohio. The Empire corporation is the fourth unit to be acquired this year.

The acquisition of a controlling interest in the Empire corporation is indicative of the rapidly expanding field of natural gas utilities, according to John J. Bergen, authority on natural gas securities.

FARM BOARD'S WHEAT DEALS ARE PROTESTED

A protest has been issued with the federal farm board and President Hoover by the Millers National federation against the policy of dealing with foreign concerns for the sale of wheat held by the farm board for stabilization purposes.

Branding the policy as "a discrimination against American mills," the federation has asked each of its members to get in touch with local congressmen and senators, local chambers of commerce, committees on unemployment, to seek action in having the farm board's pending deals for wheat sales reconsidered.

"The sale of twenty-five million bushels of wheat to Brazil," the federation's bulletin to members states, "deprives American millers of the opportunity to use idle labor, consume cotton bags for packing and supply cheap millfeed to American feeders. We urge immediate action to safeguard the interest of American industry and labor."

Kroger Grocery & Baking Sales Decline 7.4 Per Cent

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—Sales of Kroger Grocery and Baking for the eighth period of the company's thirteen-period year showed a decline of 7.4 per cent. The total for the four weeks ended Aug. 15 amounted to $17,883,802, against $19,323,607 for the corresponding interval of last year.

Receipts for the entire eight periods totaled $156,401,223, against $162,950,599 last year, a decrease of 4 per cent. The average number of stores in operation was 4,920, against 5,237 last year.

ACCORD NEAR IN MERGER OF STANDARD FIRMS

See Even Exchange of Shares in Combine.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—A working agreement for the merger of the Standard Oil Companies of New Jersey and California has been reached, it was reported today in San Francisco. Terms of the consolidation were not disclosed, but it is believed it will be on a share for share basis, since the stock of both companies is selling around 40.

Conferences between officials of the two companies were held over the week-end at Lake Tahoe, Cal., near the Nevada boundary.

Those at Conference.

Standard of New Jersey representatives at the conference were W. O. Teagle, president; J. A. Moffett, vice president; C. O. Swain, director and counsel; W. S. Farish, director of New Jersey and president of Humble Oil and Refining company; Orville Harden, director, and L. E. Freeman, controller. Standard of California representatives were K. R. Kingsbury, Oscar Sturo, vice president, and J. H. Tuttle, director and controller.

Further evidence that the Prairie Oil and Gas company, Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation part of the merger would go through was seen in the Tulsa report that Prairie Oil and Gas company field employés have been notified that their services will not be needed after Sept. 1. This order applies especially to leases offsetting or near Sinclair leases, indicating that Sinclair interests will effect operating economies by curtailment of employés.

See Little Opposition.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 24.—Mergers in the oil industry now under negotiation or in contemplation are not likely to encounter severe opposition from the department of justice, it was learned today. No efforts have been made so far to dig into the proceedings affecting the Sinclair merger, which would tie together three great oil corporations in the middle west, or in the negotiations looking to joining of the Standard Oil of New Jersey and the Standard of California.

U. S. STEEL CORP. MAY CONSIDER WAGE CUT TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—Directors of the United States Steel corporation will meet tomorrow for the first time since they reduced the dividend on common stock and recommended a downward readjustment of salaries.

It has been assumed in certain quarters—perhaps erroneously—that this meeting is of special significance and that possibly some announcement of further economies will be made. No official comment could be obtained today, so that any predictions as to what may be done must be pure guesswork. However, Wall street will wait impatiently for the conclusion of the meeting.

Much Talk, Few Facts About Subject of Unemployment

BY SCRUTATOR.

No subject at present commands wider interest than that of employment. It is regarded as the chief index of business activity, a barometer of prosperity. Every one—business men, bankers, workingmen, welfare workers, politicians—are talking about it. Books are written on the subject, speeches made, lengthy official documents published.

And yet specific information is so meager that it is impossible to get an exact estimate as to the status of employment. Everybody is talking about a subject that nobody seems to know much about.

Take, for instance, estimates concerning the number actually employed as gainful workers. The most recent reliable information is contained in the bureau of the census report covering April, 1930, the period of its latest investigation.

This report showed that there were 3,177,647 persons either out of work and looking for a job or temporarily laid off without pay.

Hard to Estimate Total.

With this figure in mind and taking into consideration subsequent fluctuations in the trend of employment as indicated by a number of accepted indices the bureau estimated that in January, 1931, there were 6,050,000 unemployed.

This was largely a guess. Similar guesses by other agencies varied from 4,000,000 to 7,000,000, clearly indicating the futility of trying to arrive at a definite understanding of the extent of unemployment with present measuring sticks.

If the bureau of census estimate for last January may be accepted as fairly accurate there were somewhat more than 45,960,236 persons gainfully employed. This figure is based on the census of the preceding April and does not reflect natural growth in population during that period. The ratio of total population to the number of employed would be roughly 2.7.

Largely Guesswork.

Any estimate as to the number of persons gainfully employed at present is purely a guess. Various indices, however, show that in general there has been no great falling off in employment since the first of the year. In some instances there have been gains. Accordingly, in the absence of exact figures, no quarrel can be picked with those who speak of 6,000,000 unemployed.

That would place the number of employed around 48,000,000, or an average of about one working breadwinner for each 2.7 persons, a good deal more than one per family.

Actually there are probably more gainful workers than the census figures indicate. The bureau's April, 1930, report, for example, showed 10,482,223 persons employed in agriculture, of whom 9,568,347 are male and 913,976 female. That only one farm in ten employs the services of a woman to such an extent that her work may be interpreted as "gainful occupation" is, of course, a matter of opinion.

The report placed the total number of persons employed at 48,832,589, as of April, 1930. Of these, 38,053,795 were men and 10,778,794 women. Individuals out of a job, able to work, and looking for a job numbered 2,429,062, of which 2,058,733 were men. There were 627,407 men and 131,178 women holding jobs but laid off without pay, excluding those sick or voluntarily idle.

NEW TIN POOL AGREES TO PLACE CHECK ON OUTPUT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 24. — An international tin pool has been formed with the concurrence of the Bolivian, Nigerian, Malayan and Dutch governments, which recently signed an international tin quota agreement, it was announced here today.

Tin to be acquired by the international pool will be released in accordance with a sliding scale of prices, accepted by the four governments, according to an official communique issued by the committee of control. An initial release of 5 per cent of the pool's holding of the metal will become effective if and when the average price of spot tin on the London Metal exchange shall during any completed calendar months have exceeded £150 per ton.

The pool will work in close cooperation with the international tin committee, whose chairman will act as chairman ex officio of the committee of control of the international tin pool.

In order to facilitate the formation of the pool, the four governments have given reciprocal guaranties whereby they undertake to continue unconditionally the international tin quota agreement until the date fixed for its expiration, Feb. 28, 1933. If at that date the international tin pool shall not have been liquidated, they have agreed to extend the quota agreement for a period not to exceed three years from Aug. 12, 1931, the date of the official formation of the pool.

New York Banks Consider Renewing German Credits

New York, Aug. 24.—(AP)—Bankers interested in short term credits to Germany met today at the federal reserve bank to consider cabled reports from the committee headed by A. H. Wiggin, chairman of the governing board of Chase National bank, which recently issued a report on a study of the German financial situation.

The meeting was devoted to a discussion of points in the cabled report that hitherto were not clear and for which the committee had cabled to Basel for further explanation. Although nothing official was forthcoming, belief was expressed in some quarters that the New York committee will be authorized to sign, on behalf of the American bankers, acceptance of the terms for renewal of German credits according to the terms of the Wiggin report.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—The June 30, 1931, balance sheet of the North American company and subsidiaries is the first quarterly statement to be issued which is directly comparable with a statement twelve months previously, inasmuch as the June 30 statements for the past two years both give effect to the elimination of all assets and liabilities of the former California subsidiaries sold to the Pacific Gas and Electric company on June 12, 1930.

The latest statement shows a gain of $62,500,000 in total assets, due principally to a $60,000,000 increase in plant. The statements do not include assets of the Detroit Edison company, North American Light and Power company and Pacific Gas and Electric company, in which North American owns less than a majority of the common shares.

Foster Wheeler Corp. Halves Its Dividend

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—The Foster Wheeler corporation today declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on its common stock, placing it on a $1 yearly basis compared with the previous rate of $2.

According to a statement issued by J. J. Brown, chairman of the board, the directors considered the advisability of continuing the present dividend rate of $2, necessitating a substantial reduction in operating expenses, or reducing the dividend to $1 and retaining valued employés.

The latter course was adopted, although the balance sheet of July 31 showed current assets of about $6,500,000, of which about $2,500,000 was in cash items, sufficient in the opinion of the board to justify maintenance of the old dividend if working forces were reduced.

Report Alcohol Companies Discussing Output Curb

Trade circles report that leaders of the various producing companies are actively discussing plans for a restriction of output of industrial alcohol for 1932.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 24.—The stock market just milled around today without getting anywhere. Trading got away on its "left foot," as usual, with losses running from one to four points, but there was a leveling off movement later in the day so that closing prices were only fractionally lower.

Neither side could stir itself to great interest, and the net result was another dull session in which caution was the predominating factor. Transactions amounted to only about 1,000,000 shares.

The day produced several interesting news developments, but the news did not seem to influence trading to a great extent today, and its ultimate effect is highly problematical. Principal interest centered, of course, on Great Britain's efforts to lift itself by its financial bootstraps through discharging the Labor government and forming a coalition cabinet with J. Ramsay MacDonald still in the saddle as prime minister. Wall street interpreted this step as an encouraging sign, since the way now seems clear for adoption of a satisfactory budget program at least.

Oils Are Sluggish.

The oils should have benefited from several favorable developments, but the group was sluggish most of the day. Crude oil prices advanced in scattered areas east of the Rocky mountains under stimulus lent by curtailment in Texas and Oklahoma, and word from the Pacific coast was that the Standard Oil companies of New Jersey and California had reached a

California's Most Modern Warehouse, Takes Place Today

New Los Angeles Warehouse Under Crooks Terminal Management

Crooks Terminal Warehouses, owning plants in Chicago and Kansas City, are extending their operations to include Los Angeles, having taken over the management of the new plant of the OVERLAND TERMINAL WAREHOUSE CO.

This six-story fireproof warehouse, now in the course of construction, has a total area of 433,000 square feet, about ten acres. The site is close to the retail, jobbing and wholesale districts and readily accessible to Long Beach and Los Angeles harbors, and to other Southern California cities by rail and motor truck routes. This plant is served by the Union Pacific Railroad. There are two tracks at the rear with spotting space for 24 cars.

There will be about 50 excellent offices available here for customers who desire office space near their stock.

Alfred J. Crooks, formerly Chicago Manager, will be in charge at Los Angeles, assisted by the former eastern manager, Gordon Ross.

This new Los Angeles plant will be in position to render the same efficient, economical warehouse service which has built the success of the Crooks Terminal plants in Chicago and Kansas City.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 8,000; hogs, 20,000; sheep, 13,000.

The early influx of spring pigs in sweeping prices toward the previous low point established late in May. The extreme top at that time went down to $6.30, the lowest top price since June, 1911.

Yesterday's peak tumbled to $6.90, showing a drop of $5@ in a week's time and $1.50 loss in four weeks. Less than a month ago top hogs sold upwards to $8.40, only 10@ under the high point of the year. Five of the leading markets in the west had to sell top hogs at $6.35 under pressure of this surplus of light weight stock. The general average price of hogs at Chicago slumped 20@ at $5.50, establishing a new 23 year bottom.

Back in 1908 was the last time hogs averaged that low. Early in 1908 the daily average went down to $4.25 twice. According to the trade producers are likely to continue this liquidation of immature hogs unless conditions among farmers becomes more encouraging from a financial standpoint.

Says Farmers Need Money.

"There are numerous local factors that might influence the farmer to ship in his lightweight hogs out of season, but there is only one major cause for this damaging liquidation of spring pigs," said Charles Wilson, president of the Live Stock exchange. "Farmers need money. There is nothing so easy to turn into cash as live stock and with credit hard to get those in immediate need of cash are rushing their stock to market.

"The cholera 'scare' has also accelerated the movement of spring pigs but to a lesser extent than the financial condition of the live stock producer at present." Light weight hogs coming on the market lack grain finish and their carcasses lack grain finish and their carcasses are soft. The quality of light hogs is drawing much complaint from the packer and discounts for poorer grades are getting sharper.

Pastures in some parts of the country are practically dried up and reports indicate that farmers in some sections of the corn belt are unloading their stock rather than buy the necessary feed to finish out their hogs. A check up yesterday showed that at least 25 per cent of the hog receipts were spring pigs averaging 200 lbs and less, many of them running down to 120@160 lb averages.

December Hogs Bid $5.00.

Contracts for 210@260 lb hogs for delivery during the last half of next December were offered at $5.60 on the futures market yesterday, but $5.00 was the highest bid posted during the day. Heavy grades for the same month were offered at $6.00. Two carloads of 260@310 lb averages were sold for delivery during the last half of next month, while lighter weights were offered at $7.75 for September.

The market for prime cattle maintained a strong position again yesterday, about eight carloads of 900@1,200 lb averages reaching the season's top of $10.25, which was established during last week. Steers averaging 1,367 @1,388 lbs that showed evidence of having been on a long feed of grain brought $10.00. Short feds of the same weight and carrying good flesh had to go at $7.50@8.50 because they lacked finish.

Grassy stock was hard to dispose of. Some of the poorer grades of steers of beef merit ranged downwards to $5.00 and odd head of inferior low grades were quoted as low as $3.00. Best grades of yearling heifers were scarce and in fair demand at strong prices, but the same discount for quality was noted in this branch and medium grades not quite up to eastern buyers' requirements ruled weak to 25c lower. Grass cows had to go at $3.50@4.50. Only good fat grain fed cows reached $5.00@6.00, but fancy yearling heifers that came in competition with top steers were quoted at $9.50@9.75. Calves slumped mostly 50c.

Best Lambs Scarce.

Demand for best grades of lambs continued good yesterday and $7.75@ 8.00 was the popular price range for tops in both the native and western classes, although a few lots of natives were selected by city butchers as high as $8.10. Receipts at 26,000 were second largest since April 20, but most of the supply consisted of common to medium grades of lambs that are hard to dispose of. Hundreds of culls are selling around $4.00 and come in competition with old mutton sheep that have been forced back to the lowest price level in history.

WHEAT PRICES DEPRESSED BY TRADE OUTLOOK

Economic Conditions Drag on Grain Market.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

History is repeating itself in the grain markets, and the action of the latter of late has been similar to what transpired in 1893-'96 with the news having little or no effect, economic conditions being the dominating influence.

A mild wave of liquidation in all grains made its appearance yesterday and with stop loss orders uncovered by those who were seeking to limit losses, all deliveries of wheat, corn, oats and rye, with the exception of March wheat, sold at a new low for the season and for a number of years.

While there was some recovery from the extreme low point the rally was not impressive and was due largely to local operations and buying against daily and weekly bids. September wheat dropped 1¼c from Saturday's finish to 47c, the lowest since October, 1853; September corn at 39¾c was the lowest since September, 1900, and September oats sold at 19¾c, the lowest figure that delivery has been since August, 1897, when it touched 16½c.

Speculative and investment buying has not been stimulated to any great extent by the low prices, and the most bullish news has not resulted in an upturn of consequence for some time.

News Favors Wheat Bulls.

The general run of the news yesterday favored holders of wheat, as Liverpool ignored the decline in North America on Saturday and closed ⅝@⅝d higher with October at 57⅛c, the resignation of the British cabinet and a better cash demand being the main influence, but the local market started downward almost immediately after a steady to firm opening and the close was at net losses of ⅞@1¾c with September finishing at 47⅜@47½c; December, 51⅛@51⅝c; March, 54⅜@54½c, and May, 56⅝@56¾c.

Unfavorable weather reports continue to come from Europe and it was reported more damage had been done in Germany than anticipated. The effect of the continued rains was seen in the liberal export demand with sales of around 750,000 bu in all positions, France taking both hard winter and Manitobas. Winnipeg after being firm early closed ⅛@⅜c lower with October at 55½c, and some weakening in the basis of Canadian grain was reported in cables from abroad.

Indications are that the farm board will shortly report further large sales of cash wheat abroad, and according to cables from China there was 30,000,000 bu wheat offered to that country on a 10 year credit.

In answer to the complaints of millers regarding this business Chairman J. C. Stone of the board announced that the latter would reserve the right to have half of the grain sold to China milled into flour in the United States. An increase of 7,378,000 bu was shown in the visible supply, making the total 361,338,000 bu against 182,375,000 bu last year.

September Corn Weak.

No. 2 yellow corn in the local sample market sold as low as 40¾c yesterday, a figure that has not been witnessed since January, 1907, and with that exception was the lowest since 1901 when it was down to 36c. Weakness in the cash market with persistent liquidation by scattered longs in the nearby month, as well as spreading operations carried the price off 1¾c from the previous finish, and nearly 13c from the high on Aug. 8. At one time the September was only 2¼c over the December, the smallest difference so far. Closing trades were at net losses of ¼@⅝c, with September 39⅞@40c; December, 37⅛@37¼c, and May, 41¾@41¾c.

Shipping demand for cash corn improved materially with sales of 172,000 bu but had little effect on the market. An increase of 188,000 bu was shown in the visible supply and the total is now 8,655,000 bu against 3,287,000 bu last year.

Oats Near Record Low.

September oats at the inside figure yesterday were within 4c of the record low established on the Chicago Board of Trade in September, 1896, when sales were made at 14¾c. There was nothing to account for the wave of liquidation which swept over the market, but a rally followed that was as swift as the decline. However, the market eased again toward the last with the finish ⅛@⅝c lower with the nearby delivery 19⅝@19¾c; December being 21¼c and May, 24¼c. Rye lost ⅛@⅞c for the day with September, 33¼c; December, 35¾c, and May, 39¼c.

CASH-GRAIN NEWS

France was in the market as a buyer of wheat Monday and took fair quantities of hard winter and Manitobas, while the United Kingdom took Canadian grain. Aggregate sales in all positions were finally estimated at 750,000 bu. Basis on hard winter at the gulf was steady, with No. 1 quoted at 1¢ 1½c over Chicago September.

Chicago handlers sold 235,000 bu wheat, 172,000 bu corn, and 22,000 bu oats to the domestic trade, with 12,000 bu wheat and 14,000 bu corn booked to arrive.

Milling demand for cash wheat in the local sample market showed improvement, with the basis steady to ¼c higher. No. 1 red was ⅝@1c over; No. 2 red, ⅛@⅝c over; No. 3 red, ½c under; No. 1 hard, 1⅛@2c over; No. 2 hard, 1⅛@1½c over; No. 3 hard, September to ½c over; No. 2 yellow hard, ⅛@¼c over, and No. 3 mixed, ⅛@½c over the September. Basis at Kansas City was unchanged to ½c lower.

Basis on white corn declined 1c and on other kinds was somewhat easier. Premiums as compared with September follow: No. 1 and No. 2 mixed, ⅛@¼c; yellow, 1@1¼c; No. 1 white, 3¼@4c; No. 2 white, 3@4c; No. 3 yellow, ⅛@¾c; white, 2@2½c. Country offerings remain small, while the shipping demand was the best in some time.

Cash oats sold fairly, with the basis ½c lower to ¼c higher. No. 2 white was 1@ 1½c over and No. 2 white ¾c over to 1c under the September. No. 2 rye was 7@ 8½c over the futures.

ADVANCE IN COTTON; CLOSE IS NEAR TOP

Cotton markets were strong yesterday and averaged higher despite the weakness in stocks and grain. At one time during the morning prices were up 50 points from which there was a good decline and a closing rally. The finish at Chicago was 19@28 points net higher, with New Orleans up 16@21 points, and New York 15@20 points. Spots in New York advanced 20 points equal to $1.00 per bale reaching 7.05c, with New Orleans up 15 points to 6.80c, while Galveston was 6.95 and Houston 6.85c. Liverpool advanced 11 points, with spot sales 3,000 bales. Strength in Liverpool was the basis for most of the early buying and advance, some 50,000 bales. Throughout the day selling was scattered.

Ginning figures to Aug. 16 were 90,414 against 372,816 bales last year. The governor of Texas has threatened to call a special session of the legislature to enact a law preventing cotton planting in 1932. Prices follow:

BUTTER AND EGGS LOWER

All deliveries of butter, egg and potato futures were weak and sharply lower on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, trading increasing sharply in eggs and potatoes and the butter trading holding well. The season was the heaviest recorded in the last four months. November butter broke ⅝@⅞c. November eggs, ⅞c and potatoes 3¢4c. Weakness in butter resulted from heavy pressures brought on by slightly less favorable daily storage reports, although the weekly information was bullish. Buyers were cautious and the market declined steadily. Egg news continued to carry a bearish tone. Maine poured a flood of eggs on the attention in that division, weather report bringing in heavy selling orders, offerings of the close being 3c under the market and with no buyers. Sales: Butter, 2,358,400 lbs; eggs, 1,834,000 doz; potatoes, 2,212,000 lbs. Prices follow:

LARD PRICES DROP

Lard futures were offered fairly and met limited support yesterday owing to the weakness in hogs, grains, and stocks. In all a moderate business was on and net losses were 7½ to 20c. Liverpool was 3 to 6d lower. Export clearances for the week were 6,895,001 lbs, against 10,423,000 lbs last year. Of bacon they were 4,070,000 lbs, against 7,765,000 lbs last year. One packer predicts that there is a good business in lard ahead and also a fair trade in meats. Prices follow:

Midland United Company

Notice of Dividend

The Board of Directors of the Midland United Company has declared the regular quarterly stock dividend of one and one-half per cent (1½%) upon the Common Stock of the Company [being at the rate of three two-hundredths (3-200ths) of a share upon each share outstanding] payable on September 24, 1931, to stockholders of record at the close of business September 1, 1931.

Where less than a whole share would be issuable for such dividend, scrip dividend certificates will be issued for the fractional shares.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Grain prices are down to the lowest of the season, wheat being the lowest since 1852. Absence of a supporting short interest, with liquidation in all grains, created the most unsatisfactory feeling in the trade that has been known since the down turn started. Low prices have been on for such a long period that they have comparatively little influence as a bullish argument in favor of buying. Those who have worked on this principle for months have run into losses, having discovered that the mere fact that prices are low, means practically nothing.

A few interior Illinois elevator men express the belief that the winter wheat crop in Illinois and Indiana, particularly the latter, has been overestimated. The peak of the movement was reached Aug. 3. Since then receipts have steadily declined. At the same time interior millers who failed to secure supplies when the movement was heavy have been active buyers, which prevented wheat from reaching terminal markets. Usually the movement keeps up well into September, but this year it has been disappointingly small, especially considering the size of the crop.

Negotiations between the federal farm board and the Chinese government are on for 15,000,000 bu wheat on credit. It is expected that eventually China may take around 25,000,000 bu. Washington reports said there were negotiations on with other countries. Chairman Stone of the farm board was not in a position to give out the details.

"The wheat trade draws pessimistic views of the coffee and wheat barter," says the Uhlmann Grain company. It is practically an admission that the government cannot sell its wheat for cash, that it has to accept very low prices, and that it must accept onerous conditions. Under the circumstances, why should any speculator wish to buy wheat? The situation looks a little more hopeful for the turn of the year, as we are getting more and more letters that land will not be as well cultivated as it was the last season, less fertilizer will be used, and of course there will be some reduction in acreages.

LIBERALS AND LABORITES WHO WILL BE MEMBERS OF NEW CABINET. The Liberals include: Sir Herbert Samuel, Sir Donald MacLean, and the marquis of Reading. The present Labor party ministers who will stick to Premier MacDonald include: Lord Sankey, Philip Snowden, and J. H. Thomas. It has not been decided whether the Labor ministers will retain their present places or whether there will be a general shakeup. Mr. Snowden is expected to continue as chancellor of the exchequer. (Story on page 1.)
